Dearest boy:

Dearest, I have three lovely long letters from you to answer which have come to me in as many days. The last one written Jan. 26 which came this morning. You say I am a good girl, but it has been three days since I wrote you. The reason I didn't do it last night was because of a real bad cold I've had since Sunday. It has taken all different forms, too, I thought surely I would have tonsilitis, Monday, as my throat was very sore, but I doctored that away, then my head was stopped up yesterday, and today the most noticable feature is hoarseness. But I feel my cold in general is better. I hope it may be well gone when I get ready to go this week-end. And I guess it will. I have been scarcely anytime without a cold or something since I had the "flu". That is a treatorous disease, and I do hope you, honey boy, may not have to have it.

My furs came yesterday, they are cleaned and
