ABOUT THE LIBRARIES

MRAP Implementation team:

The Libraries' MRAP (Management Review and Analysis Program) Report is about to be released and Mr. Willis has named Faith Harders as Implementation Planner. Faith's committee includes Rhoda Channing, Adelle Dailey, Jeff Sauer and Pam Schriels.

Volunteers needed for planning fall meetings:

The fall organizational meetings for the professional and classified staff are being planned by the Professional Activities and Staff Development Committee chaired by Faith Harders. Classified staff interested in working on the program are asked to notify Faith.

New professional staff members:

New professional staff introduced at a recent Faculty meeting included Lee Hisle, who comes from Henderson Community College to head Lexington Technical Institute's new library; Tag Frye, who is working as Reference Librarian at the Med Center on a temporary basis; and Trudi Bellardo and Gerry Webb, who are old-(but not necessarily old) timers joining the professional ranks as they complete their library degrees. Trudi will be Data Services Librarian and Gerry will be a Cataloger.

Another addition: Brad Grissom, a Library Science student, will be working part-time in Cataloging this summer and, upon completion of his degree in August, will assume a one year, temporary professional appointment in the same position.

Agriculture Library closes for inventory

The Agriculture Library will be closed Friday, May 28th for inventory.

CLR ANNOUNCES PROGRAMS FOR LIBRARIANS

The Council on Library Resources recently announced three special programs for librarians for the 1977-78 academic year. The Academic Library Management Intern Program, created to assist in the development of managers for the nation's large research and academic libraries, will pay the librarian's salary while he/she spends a year working with the director of one of the country's top academic libraries; application deadline is 22 Oct. 76. The Advanced Study

Program for Librarians was created to further the development of subject specialists for the nation's research and academic libraries. The program pays the librarian's salary while he/she pursues a year of full-time graduate work in a scholarly discipline; applications are due by 1 Oct. 76. The Fellowship Program is intended to aid in the professional development of midcareer librarians who have potential for library leadership. The fellowship enables a librarian to pursue a self-developed study or research project aimed at improving his/her library skills; application deadline is 12 Nov. 76.

Bulletins for each of these programs are posted in AIDS.
