University Will Graduate 187
In Summer Commencement
At Memorial Hall Tonight

Very Reverend T. A. McCarty Will Speak To Senior Class

Memorial hall amphitheater will be the scene of commencement exercises for 187 summer graduates of the University at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

The Very Reverend Thomas A. McCarty, dean of Villa Madonna college, Covington, will deliver the commencement address. "Planning for Peace" will be his topic. Degrees will be conferred upon members of the graduating class by President Herman Lec Donovan.

A native of Lexington, Father McCarty received his elementary education at Dudley school and St. Paul's parochial school, and attended Merton high school. He received his classical training at St. Meinrad college, St. Meinrad, Indiana, and holds the bachelor of arts degree from St. Mary university, Baltimore. Theological studies were made at St. Mary Seminary, Norwood, Ohio, following which he was ordained to the priesthood in Covington.

After ordination, Father McCarty was appointed to the faculty of the Covington school where for 14 years he was dean of the Latin department and prefect of discipline. During 1935 he was dean of the graduate school at Oxford university, England, at Teachers' college, Columbia university, where he received the master of arts degree. In March, 1945, Father McCarty was named dean of Villa Madonna college.

Father McCarty has travelled extensively in Europe in the interest of school systems.

Honors

Two of those receiving degrees will graduate with high distinction for having a scholastic standing of 26 or higher for at least three years. The graduates are Lee Bullock, Miami, Fla., and William Oliver, Hazard. Four who will graduate "with distinction" for making a standing of 24 or higher for at least three years are Edward Allen Parry and Simon Louise Heming, Lexington; John Joseph Hopkins, Carlisle; and Glenn Albert Eriq, Lexington.

Col. John L. Carter, acting commander of the military department, will be marshal of the exercises. Officers and other members of the first-year advanced course ROTC.

Instructions to those participating in the exercises are as follows: Assemble at 7:00 p. m. tonight dressed in caps, gowns, and hoods. The procession will form in column of twos at 7:00 p. m., with the head of the column at the bronze gate posts near Mechanical hall, column extending to the rear along the road leading from Neville hall.

Kyians Available

1946 Kentuckians are being issued to summer graduates at the Kentucky office in the sub-basement of McVey hall. There will be only two more days of the summer distribution and all graduating seniors are requested to present their senior fee receipt and obtain their copy of the yearbook, Business Manager Charles Harris stated.

Books will be distributed today from 2 to 4 p. m. and Saturday 11 a. m. to 12:00.

WBKY To Broadcast East-West Game

WBKY's remote unit set up in Alumni gym will broadcast the East-West basketball event Friday night, August 30. This skirmish between eastern and western basketball teams comes in connection with the meeting of basketball coaches here that same week.

Alternate Instructions

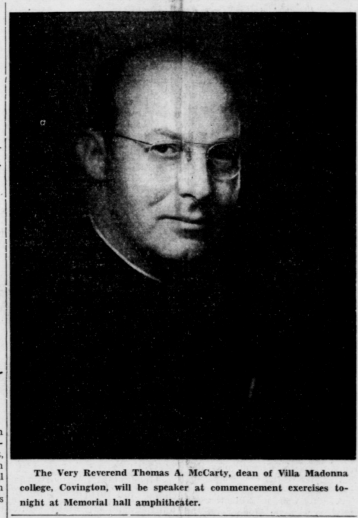

In case of inclement weather, the assembly for the procession will take place in the north stairway at paragraphs 1, 2, and 3 of instructions, in the basement of Memorial hall.

President and party—the president, accompanied by his aide, guests, deans, and administrative staff, will form in the rotunda near the south (right) side to their seats on the rostrum.

Members of the faculty will form in column of twos in the north staircase, with the head of the column at the bronze gate posts near Mechanical hall, column extending to the rear along the road leading from Neville hall.

Candidates for advanced degrees are as follows: Doctor of Philosophy—Doris M. Dexter, Greenville.

Master of Arts—Mary M. Burd, Shelbyville; Justus G. Barrows, Carrollton, Ala.; Owen L. Clifford, Louisville; Ethel H. Ellington, Morehead; Loretta E. Jones, Georgetown; Science Hill; Anne W. Sharpshire, Paris; James M. Stampert, Whitesburg; Clarence B. Tolbert, Vincennes, Ind.; Richard W. Waters, Caveville; Glenn M. Watts, Nicholasville; and Clarence H. Wyatt, Berea.

The Very Reverend Thomas A. McCarty, dean of Villa Madonna college, Covington, will speak at commencement exercises tonight at Memorial hall amphitheater.

Senior Men Reorganize Honor Frat

Lamp and Cross, leadership honorary fraternity for senior men, has been reorganized on campus, Lewis Sawin, assistant of the group, has announced.

Reorganization plans were begun during the spring quarter by three old members, including Kilmor Combs, Pat Conley, and Sawin. The reorganization was completed by the addition of four new members, Jack Atchison, Cal Rossell, Bill Sturgill, and Alex Lentz.

Others will be Chas. W. Thompson, the organization is now planning an intensive survey of the qualifications of senior men in order to select outstanding men for membership.

Only 34 Of 102 Applicants Have Passed Language Test

By Tom Duncan

The proficiency examination on the system of satisfying world division arts and sciences requirements is in effect for over a full academic year now with little more than discouraging results to report.

The system, put into operation last September, was designed "to reward the superior student," according to Associate Dean M. M. White, chairman of the test committee. But so far the rewards seem few and far between.

Audio-Visual Bureau Serves Whole State

Bringing the world to the classrooms of approximately 500 Kentucky schools and to over 100 churches, clubs, and community organizations in the state by means of techniques utilized by the Army and Navy during the war is the function of one of the University's least known programs.

The Bureau of Audio-Visual Materials, directed by Miss Mary Rees Land, assistant in University extension, maintains educational film rental library of about 900 different educational films with an approximate value of $45,500. Its rental service goes primarily to Kentucky schools to supplement regular textbook training, but is also used by civic organizations throughout the state.

Acclaimed by many educators as among the greatest developments in education in this century, a technique of providing students with silent and sound motion picture instruction has been proved as a means of making pupils remember methods and facts far more vividly and for longer periods, Miss Land declared.

Without moving from their desks, young Kentuckians are able to see in color motion picture stories made intelligible by slow motion, time-lapse and microscopic photography and by animation. The bureau is prepared to provide audio-visual materials in virtually every teaching field and many other fields.

Vets Can Receive GI Pay During Vacation Period

Veterans currently in training at the University under either Public Law 16 or 346 and who are returning in September will not have their training interrupted for the period between quarters. Dr. Lyle K. Henry, assistant University Personnel Director, reported Thursday.

This interruption of the educational provisions of the laws was reached at a meeting Wednesday evening of student veterans, University officials, and Dr. A. B. Crawford of the Veterans' Administration on the matter of subsistence payments between the close of the summer quarter August 24 and the opening of the fall quarter September 22.

Kentucky Meets Mississippi In Football Season Opener

By O. C. Halvard
—Kernel Sports Editor—

Football practice is in full swing with over a hundred candidates reporting to Coach Bryant and his five assistants for the opening game, the coaches must decide which of the prospects that survived the early practices can make the grade this time, and take those who withstand the grueling test and mold them into a team that will represent Kentucky on the gridiron.

By September 21, the decisions must all be made and the team organized and ready to take the University of Mississippi on Stoll field, in a night game that will open a long ten game schedule for the Wildcats, which includes five Southeastern conference games, two to Mississippi, one to Tennessee—all of whom are on the Wildcats' schedule.

Little information has been received as yet in regard to the strength of Mississippi this year, except that they have a stronger team than the one that handled the Wildcats last season. Of course everyone knows that Kentucky's team will be strengthened by the addition of freshmen. How much stronger? Some speculation has it that Mississippi will be holding a large number of teams in the conference, ranking just below Alabama, Georgia, and Tennessee—all of whom are on the Wildcats' schedule.

This is the first time that the University and alumni have generally agreed to support a football team, and everything possible has been done from hiring a new coaching staff to holding large financial campaigns to raise money to sponsor the rejuvenation of football at University. But it must not be forgotten that this is Bryant's first year, and he has to start from scratch and develop a team, while every year team on the Wildcats' schedule has been in the game "white-hot" for a long time.

Wetzel To Attend Institute At Michigan

Prof. Harold E. Wetzel, head of the department of social work of the University, will leave today to attend an institute on housing and public health at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, Michigan, to be held Monday through Thursday next. It was announced today.

Public health administrators, national housing officials and other interested persons will study the relationship between public health and housing. Professor Wetzel has been conducting research for many years in social problems connected with public housing.

Boggs Will Travel For WSSF Drive

Charles C. Boggs, arts and sciences junior, has accepted a traveling secretaryship with the World Student Service Fund, an international student relief organization with headquarters in New York City. Mr. Boggs and Mrs. E. D. Boggs, Dwart, is scheduled to begin his travels on the road of the WSSF staff on September 24. He will be traveling among the colleges and universities of the country, soliciting and advising in the WSSF fund drive to solicit money and equipment for the relief of student life in war torn countries.

Vets' Club Plans Halloween Dance For Fall Quarter

A Halloween dance for all students on campus has been scheduled by the Veterans' club for Saturday, October 26, in the ballroom of the Student Union building.

Charlie Mack and his orchestra will furnish music for the dance which will be held from 8 p. m. to midnight. Tentative plans announced by the social committee provide prizes for the best costumes, but the wearing of costumes will be optional.

Sulzer Released From Hospital

Prof. E. G. Sulzer, director of the Good Samaritan hospital for two weeks, was returned home Tuesday.

Dr. Bower Returns

Dr. W. C. Bower, professor of sociology, has returned to the campus from Union Theological Seminary, New York City, where he taught during the summer months.

 Congratulation!
Seven Journalism Students Are Earning While Learning

Wright or Wrong

By Orman Wright
 I planned to use the last column of the summer quarter to clean up a few odds and ends that I had been planning to write about for quite a while. But something happened a week ago that made me change my mind.
 A girl who read last week's WRIGHT OR WRONG (a beautiful creature with a remarkable taste in contemporary literature) asked me if it were really true. Did all those things actually happen to me? Or was I just trying to be humorous?
 I know I'm a meek looking person. You would think nothing ever happened to me. I'm an ideal picture of the decent, law-abiding citizen. I have no secret amours and no grandiose ideas. I'm just a poor guy trying to get along. But things do happen to me. I and maintain a sort of precarious balance on the rim of disaster.
 I nearly fell in.
 My cousin had come up to take some of her freshman exams and I was showing her some of Lexington. We had just about concluded the tour and I was taking her right above the fire. Last Friday I nearly fell in.

 Earning while learning, seven more journalism students recently have cashed classroom assignments by selling features to magazines of their authors to break into print off the campus. While some of the more optimistic students aim their articles at life or the Saturday Evening Post, most of them prefer to begin where the competition is less intense.

Regular Correspondents
 Catherine (Casey) Goman wrote an article on the radio studios published in the July issue of the Journal of Frequency Modulation and thereby so impressed the editor that he asked her to serve as local correspondent for the publication.
 Janice Timmons had a similar experience. After her article on the business practices of a local laundry was accepted by a trade journal, the editor of another trade journal wrote her asking her to submit articles to his publication. In previous years some students have been offered positions after graduation as the result of contacts established with magazines while doing articles that seemed at the time to be only routine classroom assignments.
 The score is not yet complete. A number of articles by journalism feature writers are still gathering dust on the desks of busy editors, or rejected ones are being returned and sent to market time again by their authors. A few rejections never discourage a writer who has heard that one famous writer shot more than eighty stories to the Saturday Evening Post before one was accepted.
 To understand that the sky is everywhere blue, we need not go round the world.—Goethe.
 God promises a safe landing, but not a calm passage.
 Richard M. Johnson, vice president of the United States and slain of Tecumseh, famous Indian chief, is buried at Frankfort cemetery, Frankfort, Ky.

The Tennessee Tickets

Before you go off and dig yourself a hole, read this. We had one of our dug three feet deep and were just about ready to crawl in, when someone rushed up to us and begged us to come back out. So we did, and we're glad. The facts about the Tennessee tickets are these. There is a limited number of stadium tickets for the Knoxville play.

would resemble, but it's not as bad as all that. You can still go to the game, if you're not insistent on a stadium seat.
 So come out of the hole. You may get to see Kentucky beat Tennessee after all.

When quizzed in class last week, Dr. Niel Plummer didn't know the etymology of spigot. "Why," the student exclaimed, "what a heck of a plumber you are!"

One man we know says he is writing a book during the time it takes the University operator to answer when he lifts the receiver. When he calls "outside" he gets two chapters written—one while waiting for the University operator to come back from meals and another while waiting for the Lexington operator.

Bleacher tickets will be sold after the stadium seats are gone. It's the stadium tickets that will go on sale September 1. Of course, it's too bad that students won't get much of a chance at the better seats and wish the Athletic department

The selection of whiskey obtainable on the local market is limited. A morning-after case, commenting on the bottle he had consumed the night before, said, "It's a by-product of the Dayton Cereose Company."

Ballots, Not Bullets

The recent incident in Athens, Tenn., has been a dramatic, if bloody, illustration of the "I in politics."

We hope never to see a repetition of the ballots; we hope to see countless instances of the GI's showing sound and progressive leadership in politics. We can do this the democratic way by replacing the word "ballots" with "bullets."

The citizen who fought for his country on the battlefield has not fully finished the job. The ballots saved us from tyranny; only ballots can save us from political domination by a few, from incompetence and misrepresentation. Again, may we urge all who are not registered for the November election to do so immediately. REGISTER TODAY.

Howard Bowles, president of the Veterans Club, has the support of the University, labor and management in his efforts to speed up construction of emergency housing on the campus. With a score of 300, that's some bowling.

Cooperstown residents are making plans for a co-operative grocery and a co-operative nursery. Its name should be changed to Co-opertown.

If there is any moral to be pointed out from the Tennessee incident, it is that a political machine too long in power and too overbearing invites sudden and violent end when it tries straggle from its returning soldiers. We certainly do not condone the tactics used by the victorious GI's, but they were not an illogical reaction to the provocations offered in that east Tennessee county by the political "ins." who apparently were the first to choose weapons of force.

Despite the fact that many of the gaping, low-silled windows in third-floor Administration building classrooms still have no protective railings, the rumors that only ex-paratroopers will be enrolled for classes in these rooms intrude.

So the "Dictionary for Kennan" fund is re-activated. After reading copy of some of her columns all that is left to say is "see shutte at gladde."

Russian Propaganda

From The New York Times
 Ever since Premier Stalin made his famous speech of Feb. 9 this year, in which he proclaimed the new Communist party line of the post-war period by declaring that, after the defeat of fascism, "monopoly capitalism" still threatened the world with war and chaos, the world has been preparing against any eventuality, the entire Russian propaganda apparatus, in particular the controlled press and radio, has been pouring forth a steadily growing deluge of accusations and denunciations directed against the United States and Great Britain.

only glance at the Communist press neither the United States nor Great Britain has been paying much attention to them. Rarely has there been an official statement refuting some particular accusation. But it must be kept in mind that this campaign is being conducted by a totalitarian regime which controls every organ of public opinion and every public expression, and that while its individual agents are free to phrase their diatribes according to their individual talents, their heads fall if they depart from the official party line. What is even more important, the constant accusations and denunciations of Russia's wartime allies are the only "news" provided for the Russian people as a basis for their own picture of the world. And if that picture is as fantastic as the charges, it is difficult to see how it could be otherwise.

This raises the question as to what the purposes of the campaign might be. In part, it is undoubtedly an organized attempt to counteract the alarm aroused by Russian expansion and intransigence in the East. The picture of the world that is being presented in the United States and Great Britain is expressing a wish for its continuation in the times of peace. But these expressions of good-will are becoming rarer. What usually comes out of Moscow these days is an almost continuous verbal barrage in which one charge chases another, and each one is more preposterous than the other.

Just what the purposes of the campaign might be. In part, it is undoubtedly an organized attempt to counteract the alarm aroused by Russian expansion and intransigence in the East. The picture of the world that is being presented in the United States and Great Britain is expressing a wish for its continuation in the times of peace. But these expressions of good-will are becoming rarer. What usually comes out of Moscow these days is an almost continuous verbal barrage in which one charge chases another, and each one is more preposterous than the other.

The present Conference of Paris appears to have provided an added stimulus to that campaign, which reaches something of a climax in the charge of "duplicitous" buried at Secretary of State Byrnes in the accusation that "reactionary circles" in the United States and Great Britain are plotting war to conquer the world, and finally in the discovery of a new "military caste" in the United States which decides all the most important questions in the country and tries to use the atomic bomb as a weapon for world domination. But these denunciations are merely the latest developments and refinements of a campaign which set in immediately after Stalin's speech, and which attacked first British, then American "imperialism," and is now attacking both.

Charges are so absurd, and so easily refuted by the events as pictured daily in the free press of

SX's Defeat ATO's 4-1 To Win Intramural Softball Tournament

Summer intramurals finished up Wednesday afternoon when the SX's defeated the A.T.O.'s in the finals of the softball tournament, 4-1. Approximately 300 spectators watched as the team which was best out in the finals last term jumped to an early lead to win easily.

Jimmy Bostwick, pitcher on the SX team, pitched a no-hit game in spite of the one run, and had a shut out to his credit until he got mad and threw the ball away in the sixth inning to let the run score. There was a man on first via a walk. The next batter hit a high bounce back to Bostwick. He momentarily juggled the ball, then picked it up and tried to catch the batter before he reached first.

The umpire called the man safe on a close play, and then Bostwick lost his head. He slammed the ball down and it went bouncing out in center field, allowing the runner now on second to score.

At least the SX team was colorful, especially their second baseman, Ray Stephens. He plays in a red and white shirt, a yellow hat, tan pants that are too short to be long pants and too long to be short pants, white shoes, and blue socks.

The A.T.O.'s advanced to the finals by defeating the S.N.'s 8-2 Tuesday afternoon. The S.N.'s were surprise winners over the first seeded P.E. Majors by a close 7-4 score, while the A.T.O.'s won their opener from the K.S.'s 15-5.

In the second division semi-finals, the SX's came out on top in a close 7-6 game with the Rookies. The Rookies upset the second seeded P.S.K.'s in the opening round 5-3, making both the first two teams eliminated in the early play. The SX's won their opener 7-4 from the Independent "A's."

Bill McCubbin, intramural director, is still working on plans for the fall and winter intramurals, but will have arrangements completed so they can get under way as soon after school starts as possible. Touch football, archery and ping pong will be offered along with several other sports just tentatively scheduled now.

of the many steps that go to make up a continually good team.

There's a lot of work remaining to be done, and the coaches and boys are knocking down to it, so that four Saturdays hence when they run onto the playing field they still have a fighting chance to come out victorious.

Tickets For Opening Game

The opening game will be played the Saturday night before the upper classmen register. However, arrangements have been made for all students as well as veterans' wives to see the contest. Beginning Monday, September 16, student tickets will be available at the ticket office in Alumni gym.

In order that only those entitled to student tickets receive them, it will be necessary that the student put up a $3 deposit when he obtains his ticket. He will be given a receipt, and upon surrendering this receipt after he has registered, his $3.00 will be refunded. Receipts will be collected in the registration line when student books are issued.

Student books will be sold to married veterans for their wives, provided their wife lives in Lexington. Tickets for them will also be available for the opening game. However, the full price of $6.00 must be paid in advance. A receipt will be given the veteran and he can exchange it for a student book when he receives his own. It will be necessary for the veteran to obtain a certificate from the personnel office stating that his wife lives in Lexington and is entitled to a ticket.

The Athletic association has also made arrangements with the Universities of Cincinnati, Alabama, Georgia, and Tennessee to secure a limited supply of tickets to those out of town games. Mr. Coleman Smith, ticket manager, yesterday announced that there has been a change in plans for the advance sale of tickets to the games away.

All tickets will go on sale to the public at 9:00 a.m. Tuesday morning, September 3. According to the original plan only tickets to the Cincinnati game were to go on sale at that time. Tickets to the Tennessee game were to be held until September 16 in order that students would have an equal chance with townpeople in obtaining them.

However, those students desiring tickets to the Tennessee game, as well as the Georgia or Alabama games, will have to mail a check to the Athletic association - ticket office. The check must be received by Sunday, September 1. Even then Mr. Smith would not assure that the orders would be filled.

Tickets for the Tennessee game will be $3.50 each. Alabama tickets will also be $3.50. Georgia tickets will be $3.00 and Cincinnati tickets will be $2.40. There will be an additional fee of 35 cents charged for mailing tickets. Otherwise tickets will be held until you call for them after school starts.

New Lights To Be Ready

As has already been stated, the opening game will be a night maneuver. However, those who have witnessed previous night games on Stoll field will be glad to hear that his inelegibility will last not merely for this year, but for his entire college career.

However, there has been some unexpected arrivals show up for practice that may add a lot to the strength of the squad. All in all the general opinion seems to be that the Wildcats will have one of the best teams fielded at Kentucky in many a year. Of course, so will every other team in the nation in this postwar era that promises to produce some of the best football ever seen in this country.

Movies To Be Shown At Coaching Clinic

Bernie A. Shively's athletic director at the University of Kentucky, announced Saturday that he has secured moving pictures of last year's Cotton and Sugar Bowl football games and that he has asked Coach Frank Thomas, veteran Alabama mentor who will be a guest speaker, to bring pictures of the Rose Bowl game to show to coaches attending the Coaching Clinic which will be held at the University August 28-31.

In addition, Coach Adolph Rupp has promised to show the films of the Rhode Island-Kentucky game which decided the championship of the National Invitational Basketball tournament in Madison Square Gardens this past year.

Based on long term records in major college competition, Coach Rupp has decided the best coaching records in the history of their respective sports. Thomas' all-time record at Alabama is 148 wins, 29 losses, and seven ties for an 84.5 average. These games include trips to the Rose Bowl as well as trips to the Orange, Sugar and Cotton Bowls.

Thomas, who is at Kentucky, Rupp's teams have won 283 games while losing but 64 for an 81.6 average. These victories include this year's National Invitational championship, nine conference championships and numerous encounters. In 16 years his teams have lost but eight games on the home floor.

Coach Rupp was elected to the Helms Foundation Basketball Hall of Fame in 1944.

TIME OUT!

By O. C. Halyard, Jr.

If you have any hopes of getting a seat in the stadium to the Kentucky-Tennessee game at Knoxville this fall, then you'd better start pulling some strings. Failure to act at once will most likely relegate students to the bleacher sections of Shields-Watkins Field—if indeed bleacher seats will be available when school re-opens. Students' chances of getting one of the limited supply of stadium tickets to the annual Cat-Vol tangle this year were greatly lessened yesterday when Mr. Coleman Smith, ticket manager, said that tickets would have to go on sale September 1 instead of the previously announced September 16.

No reason was given as to why the tickets must go on sale two months before the game, what all of the handful obtained could be sold in two or three days.

Two weeks ago Mr. Smith told us he planned to put tickets on sale to all out-of-town games at the same time—September 1. However, since all the students would be home on vacation at this time, and there is just a handful of tickets available for the out-of-town games, (with the exception of the Cincinnati game), we asked the Athletic Association if it would be possible to hold up the sale of tickets to all games except that with Cincinnati until September 16, in order to give students a better break with the townpeople in obtaining their share of the limited supply. At that time it was agreed to hold up the sale of tickets. Now, even with tickets going on sale September 16, Lexingtonians would still have a decided advantage over the students. However, it was figured that a good many of the students would be back in Lexington early, and thus could secure tickets.

However, now the Athletic Association announces that they can not wait until September 16 to put tickets on sale for these games and all of them must go on sale September 1. It so happens that September 1 is a Sunday, but Mr. Smith assured this reporter that the ticket office would work that day and also Labor Day, September 2. The ticket window will not be open to sell to the general public, but mail orders will be filled.

Stadium tickets will go on sale at the window at 9:00 a.m. Tuesday. Therefore if a student wants a ticket to the Tennessee game or any other out of town game, he must mail a check to the Athletic Association in care of the Ticket Department before September 1. And September 1 is just nine days off. So those students desiring tickets had better get on to the ball.

Even those mailing orders in will not be assured of a ticket because of the limited supply. But it is a sure thing that there won't be any stadium tickets for the Tennessee game left by the time the fall quarter begins, and it is doubtful that here will be any for the other games—except maybe Cincinnati.

Why the students, who are the backbone of the school should have to go to extra trouble, even to stand a chance to get a ticket to see their own game, is not answered. The Athletic Association has been extremely generous in making arrangements for the veterans' wives to sit with their husbands at the home games, but the arrangement on tickets for students to see out-of-town games certainly doesn't seem fair. However, there is nothing we can do in such a short time but mail our orders in and hope—most of us won't make the game but if enough try, we have a student section on hand come November 22.

the spectators be satisfied or are they expecting too much to be the impossible.

Optimism is a good thing, but over-optimism is equally as bad. There's been a lot of bally-hooing about the coming season, and naturally everybody would like to see a Rose Bowl team at Kentucky, but something like that takes years to develop. We've started a program to rejuvenate football at Kentucky and remove the Blue and White from the doormat of the Southeastern conference, so let's give it a fair try before we complain too much if things don't go just exactly as we think they should. A disgruntled group of fans can do more to wreck a program than a whole section of rosters, can't it be so?

Give the coaches a chance—don't be too hasty in your criticism. Let them carry the ball for awhile and we'll just run interference for them. They have been hard at work and will continue to work hard for they are as anxious to turn out a good team as we are for them to. They know that every Kentucky fan is watching them and many others too, so when they send a team out on the field it must and therefore will be the best possible team that could be developed from the material available.

Yes, we'll have a good team—but so will everyone on our schedule. But we'll have a team that can be proud of and one that will represent us well in all the games this fall.

So, a pleasant vacation to all, but don't be over-optimistic when fall rolls around. Remember this is just the first year under the new regime.

person will be able to read a newspaper in the center of the field.

Band Not Ready

As far as one can tell now, the band will be the only thing missing from the opening game. Mr. Frank J. Prindl, director, said the band would not be on hand because the members would not be enrolled in school, and there had been no arrangements made for an advanced practice. However, he added that the best band in Dixie will be ready for the Xavier game October 5.

In order to make room for the increase in enrollment and the veterans' wives who will want to sit with their husbands, the athletic department has moved the student section to the north side of the stadium. This will give the students a better section with the exception of a few seats permanently reserved by alumni members.

It is expected that every game will be a sell out and advance temporary boxes have been built to place around the track. Temporary bleachers will be set up at each end of the field.

Next week the squad will swing into the second week of their final practice session, and already the coaches have them in pads, scrimmaging. Most of the boys were in good physical shape from the earlier sessions and consequently little conditioning exercises were necessary. The newcomers have gotten into shape fast, and are already ready for the heavy work.

Kamierski Ineligible

It would almost be impossible to list a complete roster, because some hopefuls are still arriving and others are leaving. The biggest loss thus far suffered by the team was that of blond 200 pound Frank Kazmierski, who will not be eligible because he played briefly in a game at Williams and Mary before entering the service.

The big lad from Ohio who had been tagged by many as the best prospect to come to the University in ten years, was as disappointed to learn of his ineligibility as were the coaches. The worst part is that his ineligibility will last not merely for this year, but for his entire college career.

However, there has been some unexpected arrivals show up for practice that may add a lot to the strength of the squad. All in all the general opinion seems to be that the Wildcats will have one of the best teams fielded at Kentucky in many a year. Of course, so will every other team in the nation in this postwar era that promises to produce some of the best football ever seen in this country.
