

PLEASE REMIT TO LENNY LERNER

Sadly, no more. Lenny is retiring as Financial Secretary-Treasurer of the CKJA Campaign.

How do you say thank you for 10 years of meticulous record keeping? ... 10 years of billing and recording? ... zillions of hours? ... 590 Excedrin headaches? ... phone calls by the hundreds and still always smiling and patient?

*We say thank you with appreciation, thank you with love
thank you with a bit of trepidation, and a thank you with best wishes.*

A DAY FOR COMMUNITY RELATIONS

WHILE THE CONCERNS OF THE COMMUNITY RELATIONS COMMITTEE PROVIDE A CONSTANT STIMULUS FOR ACTION, ONE DAY TWO WEEKS AGO BROUGHT TWO AREAS OF CONCERN INTO SHARP FOCUS.

On Thursday, February 10, Co-Chairs David Wekstein and Marilyn Moosnick, accompanied by Sheila DeKosky and Judy Saxe, met with Lexington-Fayette County School Superintendent Guy Potts and several members of his administrative staff.

As a follow-up to the open meeting held last fall to discuss issues affecting Jewish students in the public schools, two major topics were placed on the agenda. First, the problem of scheduling examinations on major Jewish holidays, and along with that, scheduling other significant school events, such as a PTA open house. Second, the use of religious music at assemblies and special programs, as well as its inclusion in the music curriculum was discussed.

The response of Dr. Potts, and his staff, Ben Oldham, Don Trivette and Bob Oliver was gratifying. A plan was developed by which Dr. Potts, in consultation with a representative of the CRC will notify all principals in the school system, via a memorandum and in a summer organizational meeting, about the holidays and instruct them to inform their teachers. In addition, the CRC will provide liaisons from the Jewish community for each school. These persons will be available to each principal on a routine basis to review individual school calendars and other activities which pertain to the Jewish students. The CRC will also contact the Lexington-Fayette County PTA Council to discuss scheduling of meetings. Committee representatives will meet annually with administrators to review the effectiveness of the plan.

The second issue of religious music was discussed. The interchange of feelings and ideas was excellent. Dr. Potts suggested a follow-up meeting with several members of the music staff to explore possible in-service workshops and other means of communication.

Later that day, David Wekstein, Marilyn Moosnick and Judy Saxe were joined by Mike Ades and CKJA president Jack Miller in a meeting at the Herald-Leader with Publisher, Creed Black, John Carroll, David Holwerk and Larry Keeling of the editorial staff.

The CKJA representatives expressed their deep concern over some of the recent editorials, political cartoons and headlines which were perceived as anti-Israel and in some cases anti-Jewish. It was clearly stated by the CKJA group that the newspaper has a right and responsibility to express its opinion on any issue, but that it is also responsible to report information accurately and to avoid inflammatory innuendos and half-truths.

The discussion of issues was extensive. The committee offered to provide additional background information and briefings with experts when possible.

The Community Relations Committee will continue to monitor the media and express its concerns when appropriate. The Committee also urges members of the Jewish community, as individuals, to communicate with the Herald-Leader on issues of concern to you, and to contact the CKJA office or members of the CRC with any questions you have regarding such matters.

CAMPAIGN UPDATE

Men's Division Chairman Erle Levy announced a 20% increase in 1983 pledges received to date as compared to 1982.

Campaign workers met on January 16, with UJA Mid-East Region Chairman Lawrence Jackier for orientation and solicitors training. This was followed on Feb. 6 by a dinner for men who had pledged a minimum of $1000 to the 1983 Campaign.

A group of twenty-five men were addressed by Akiva Baum, an Israeli attorney associated with an international law firm in New York. Mr. Baum is currently completing a doctorate in business administration at New York University. He analyzed the cost of establishing peace with Egypt and securing Israel's northern borders. Pointing out that the American Jewish community is the largest and wealthiest in the world today, he suggested that we also have a major responsibility to assist Israel.

The final event of the Men's Campaign was a brunch at the Lafayette Club on Feb. 20. The guest speaker was Abbie Ben Ari, a former member of the Israel delegation to the United Nations. A native of South Africa, Mr. Ben Ari is a graduate in business administration. Since arriving in Israel he has worked as a planner of development towns and is currently involved in the cultural and economic development of Jerusalem. He has also worked as a consultant in mass communication to various government ministries and institutions.

Super Sunday, on March 6, a telephone appeal to the entire community, will wind up the major efforts of the Men's Campaign.

WOMEN'S DIVISION CAMPAIGN UPDATE

As reported earlier, twenty-two women have already made their commitment to the 1983 Campaign.

Plans are being finalized for the Super Sunday Telethon on March 6 when almost 500 women from the Central Kentucky area will be called upon to pledge their gift ...because Women Do Make The Difference.

The Super Sunday Telethon is being chaired by two former Women's Division Campaign chairpersons, Susan Caller and Harriet Cooper.

Current campaign chairpersons, Gloria Katz and Vinnie Dubilier, have named their Campaign Executive Committee. This group held its first meeting on Monday, Feb. 7. A campaign calendar was established, and plans were made for solicitor training in March. Solicitors will be calling on those women who were not a part of Super Sunday.

BEN GURION
UNIVERSITY OF THE NEGEV

Dear Ms. Levine:

It gives me great pleasure to report to you that the three tuition scholarships contributed by the Central Kentucky Jewish Association have been awarded to the following students:

Semadar Harel. Semadar is in her first year in the Social Work Department. Her parents are native-born Israelis. She has 2 sisters. Semadar served in the Army for 2 years before beginning her studies.

Dror Ben-Ami. Dror is a second year student in the Mathematics Department. His parents are from Turkey and he has 1 brother. He served in the Army Medical Corps for 3 years.

Gabriel Bondorovsky. Gabriel is in his second year in the Electrical Engineering Department. His family, including 2 sisters, came on aliyah from Argentina in 1971. Gabriel served in the Air Force for 3 years before entering the University.

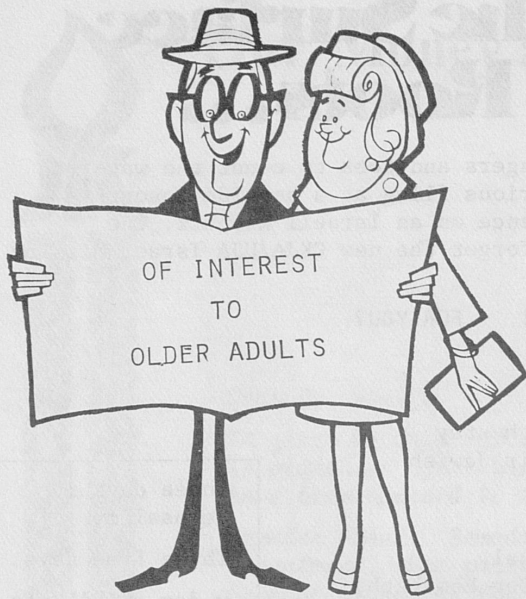

The war in Lebanon caused many disruptions in Israeli life and the educational process was no exception. Many students and faculty members were called up to active duty and remained in Lebanon for several months. To our great sorrow, some of them fell in battle and others were seriously wounded and will not be returning to their studies in the near future. Those who are fortunate enough to be continuing their studies missed many classes and were unable to complete their final exams. Alternate arrangements were made for them and in addition, the opening of this academic year was postponed until the last week of October. To add to the students' difficulties, university tuition fees have been raised considerably.

In view of this, scholarship aid from our friends abroad takes on added importance this year. Your aid not only helps the University to provide the required services and alleviate your students' financial problems, but also demonstrates your involvement in the development of Ben-Gurion University and your support of quality education in Israel.

Your interest is greatly appreciated.

Sincerely yours,

Yaakov Affek
Dean of Students
