Dear Victor

Would a week from Saturday, March 4th, be a good day for you to come over? The talk would be, in a general way, about the kind of attitude and outlook proper to monks when they build for themselves, or furnish their buildings, and it could spread out into the whole concept of monastic work. I think they would have very much to learn from an informal talk with discussion going along with it. The talk would have to be about 1.30 our time, (we could of course have lunch together at leisure first) and I doubt if you would get away much before 3 our time. Would that be too late for you? Is this date convenient? Really we can arrange almost any day, as far as we are concerned here. Hoping that all goes well. I wrote for you to the Ballingen people. Very cordially always in Christ
