Paris, Ky. January 21. 1862

H. J. Duncan, Esq.

Dear Sir

I have yours of the 20th and as requested, will forward your father's Iron safe to Lexington. -

We have the duplicate key, and will retain it until he comes down.

I am much pleased to see that you have steered up your shingle. I wish you every success in the profession you have chosen but to attain it you must look forward to years of close application and unnumbered industry - a young man of your habits must succeed, if he only wills to do so. - Make up your mind to do it, and it is already half done -

I would not venture to inflict advice on you, if I did not feel a lively interest in your success.

Please present my respects to Mrs. Duncan and your mother -

Very Truly

Wm. Kelly

Song - not for its merit - being rather broadly beat for a mode of communication, as it had been denied, and because in some demand.
- Let me know how is your mother, and your father? - Do you know, when leaving Florence at Mrs. Hoppens in N. York. I heard your father had been visiting her and must have been to see if I could find him, the hard zone - Why not one day with us?
You don't know how much that child is. I think if I ever received perfection I should find it there. I feel like an eagle by Fornie. She wrote to know if she might join the others for the opera - "The Misadventure" - I do so to be out in the evening. Knowing that, you should not risk in the fair of refusing" How kind & a little. "Darling Florence - I may be wrong to give you pain - I thank you for refusing me, it serves me right. I thank you for the parcel I sent to - Florence and not back to good as deceptions.

I am quite determined you shall not forget them, not one of them.

Mr. Sparks is very quiet, very much interested, of the Song. "When Washington noted, he knew before he had what he was to encounter. - Would Washington have done that? -

You know his studies have made a Florence a familiar subject to him, and the art of war. -

It was very hard for me to hear the evening of Mason & Shadell's return. - The order was a blow - how well the people behaved, that was a consolation. But will a people once told they are unkillable be so likely to show us their strength when required?

I don't like the making of Hott of keeping him from the cabinet.

Dear Henry,

Fearing you may think your note had mis--covered, I simply write to say that the supply of the maps which you want, is out, and that I will send them as soon as the agent here has been reinforced, which he expects in a few days. He will.

Yours

John H. Blair

Dear Major

I went to Lloyd's place in Carlisle Building and saw the map of Virginia - As far as I can judge it is fully equal to the map of Kentucky - There appears however to be a mistake about the number sold for a dollar - The advertisement in the Gazette says 8 but the salesman says six and I pleaded the advertisement in vain - I bought them however and sent them this morning by Adams Express - And now why the deuce haven't you answered that tremendous reply I sent you to Stringfellow's statistical view of slavery - You professed to believe it all for true and don't assign any reason for the faith that is in you - In the next place allow me to congratulate you on having got your shingle out - By the way when is that partner you were telling me of - He certainly has entirely disappeared from your card - I don't expect to get my shingle out for a long time to come if ever - I have no news from Boston except through Hite who is so absorbed in Medicine and Music as to be almost unconscious of the existence of anything else & so have heard nothing of the College - You say nothing as to your opinion of Congress Abolition doing & as for myself I can see no harm in them as long as the final decision is left to the State Legislatures - Do you think there is - Any ^{direct} interference by Congress with the institutions within the States when it already exists wouldn't be tolerated by the people North or South - Remember most kindly to your Father and Mother and believe me

Your sincere friend
C. W. Horne.

be of corresponding nature - I oppose the fanatics in the Abolition of Slavery will continue to make a fuss and do all the harm they can & I think perhaps the best way of meeting their crazy attempts is to treat them as near as may be possible with silent and supreme contempt - Abusing them has been tried & has only served to make them more obstreperous & it may be if let alone that they will owe themselves into something like good sense and reasonable beliefs -

Father and Mother send their best regards - Remember me most kindly to yours and believe me as ever

Your sincere friend
C. W. Poore.

Dear Major

I went to Lloyd's agency this morning to see about the Traps you want - I find that the map of the Mississippi & the map of the U.S., Canada &c will not be ready before the first of next month so that I am unable to send them to you at present - If they make their appearance before you come to the city I will send them to you & if not you can get them there - And next as to my attack upon Stray fellow - I scarcely think that it merits the denomination of tremendous which you give it - I only meant to question some of his statistics which certainly do not coincide with the American Almanac in which he professes to rely to some extent - A mistake of a million when the entire population is but a little over four millions is a mistake of too important a character to be entirely neglected -

The Abolition attempts of Congress to which you refer can I think scarcely ever be productive of any very harmful results - The scheme for turning the Seceded States into Territories is wild enough to have originated in the brain of the fanatical Phillips & is in no danger of ever becoming a law - If it does I hope the members who vote for it may be summoned before a Committee de lunaticis inquirendis at once & that to some more appropriate place for persons in their deranged condition than the Halls of Congress - The freeing and turning loose of the slaves would be an evil as injurious in its consequences to the North as to the South & would I feel sure be met with equal resistance in both sections - Both these schemes are too visionary ever to become laws - as to dismissing officers of the Army for helping to recover fugitive slaves - It would be a disobedience to orders for which they would suffer - The reason given for the promulgation of the order was, as I understand it, because the Army had quite enough to do besides & could not afford to spend time needed for other purposes in mitigating an evil they had no hand in creating - Lastly I am in favor of doing everything by due process of law & am as much opposed as you can be to the arbitrary confiscation of rebel property - The end is, I think likely, proper enough, and the means should

SONG AND CHORUS.

OUR OWN FLAG.

Mrs. SPARKS.
