Dear Editor: The Mailbox

One Suggestion

The Interfraternity Council of Northwestern University publishes a small book (about the size of one of our class schedule books) that gives new students complete information on fraternity life plus information about each individual fraternity and sorority. Perhaps our Interfraternity Council could do something like that.

As far as those "extra" curricula activities go, we are completely lacking in sufficient information. A possible solution to this problem would be for SGA to publish another book such as their "Directory of Students" giving a good explanation about each activity with pictures. Both of these groups could combine their work and bring out one complete book covering everything.

The only thing to worry about

Kentucky is serving in this time of world crisis, on how the University might be of still greater service, and on what the University will need in the future.

President Donovan cites dormitory facilities for both men and women as one of the University's greatest needs. Nearly 1000 girls were turned away from the University last year because of lack of housing facilities. This lack imposes a severe limitation on the University's ability to expand and to serve the state.

Graduate students in specialized fields should be especially interested in President Donovan's criticism of the nation's policy of drafting these skilled persons before they are allowed to complete their education and research. Since we cannot hope to outdo the enemy in terms of manpower, Dr. Donovan pointed out, these people are among America's most potent weapons in the current conflict.

A student body which is informed on the needs and problems of the University can do much to make the citizens of the State and the legislators aware of their importance. We who are most closely connected with the University should be especially concerned with these facts and comments on the progress of UK.

could be "where to get the money". That could be donated by the University or by each organization. At any rate let's get busy and get said booklet, since the idea will pay off on both organizations and students.

Complaint

I have a gripe to register with someone. First, I would like to know if there is any rule which forbids a student to go outside the Coliseum during half-time intermission, and then come back in for the second half, provided he has the stub from his ticket and his ID card. Second, if there is any such rule, I would like to know why. Third, assuming that there is such a rule and that there is some good reason for it, I would like to know why the guards at the gate are not required to be civil or human in enforcing it. At halftime during the recent Notre Dame game I came outside to lock my car which I remembered having left unlocked. Admittedly, the guard at the gate told me that I shouldn't do it when I came out, but he did not tell me that I could do it. When I started to go back in, I showed the guard my ticket stub, but he stopped me and told me that I couldn't go back in. Thinking that I had a right to know why, I asked the reason for it. He was told that the counter would not register the correct number of spectators at the game if I went through the gate twice. This seems to me to be a rather absurd excuse. However, I attempted to step over the counter so I would not be registered a second time by it. As I attempted to do so, one of the guards who has apparently undergone training in NKVD tactics stepped up and caught me by the shirt and literally pushed me outside the front doors of the Coliseum. He told me to leave immediately or else he would call the cops to me. Before I left, I took the name of this guard, which I can readily furnish.

Up until this time, I had never pictured myself as being particularly criminally inclined, but after the treatment I was accorded by this character, I am sure that I must have certainly overlooked some portion of my record. Actually, I realize that the guards have authority to and that they must enforce all rules handed down to them by higher-ups. However, as stated above, I would like to know if there is any such rule as was so crudely enforced. If there is any such rule, there is probably some reason for it. However, I can't conceive of any reason for such a rule, and if there is a reason for it, I would like to know it. Finally, I would like to know if...

Emphasis On Religion

Religious Emphasis Week, which will be observed at UK Sunday through Thursday, gives the student a chance to consider a side of his life which is too often neglected. This week of seminars, discussion groups, devotions, and fireside forums is held for the purpose of "arousing student thought about religion in daily life."

The week, which is sponsored by the Interfaith Council, brings to our campus eleven outstanding speakers and leaders. Every student should find something of personal value to him in the five daily seminars on such topics as "Campus Ethics," "Community Religious Responsibilities," "Religious Approach to Sex," and "War and Peace." The Interfaith series seeks to give a clear presentation of the beliefs of different denominations.

Daily "skeptics hour," a coffee-and-discussion period, noonday devotions, and talks in living units are other important phases of this varied program.

In times such as these, students feel a particular need for something to hang on to. Religious Emphasis Week offers an opportunity to renew your faith in God as a steady influence for the confusion which seems to lie ahead.

The theme for the week, "With or Without God?" is well presented in the following lines from the printed program:

"World peace begins with peace in the hearts of men. International justice roots in fair play among common men. Human freedom originates with a free spirit in the individual. Personal peace, fairness, justice, and freedom depend upon a deep relationship with God. Are you 'With or Without God?'"

Facts About UK

Students who are interested in the future welfare of the University should take time to examine President Donovan's annual report on the progress of the University.

Presented for the first time before the press and radio last week, the booklet is described as "a report on how the University of

"A Great Artist"

Heifetz Approves Of Jazz, But Likes The Quiet Type

By Ed Coffman

Calm, gracious, patient — the great artist — that is Jascha Heifetz. He is reserved but his enthusiasm pours once he starts talking about a subject.

When I walked into his dressing room after his concert, he had just requested that the children be admitted who were waiting for his autograph. Although busily signing the programs, he maintained a smiling calmness amidst all the hurry-burry. He seemed to enjoy talking with the children as he signed his name.

Since the great artist had played a Prelude by Gershwin, I wondered what his opinion of jazz in general was. "I like jazz," he replied, "but not the loud, noisy kind."

HE ELABORATED on this. "Loud jazz covers a multitude of sins. It reminds me of a rowboat covered with many layers of paint. Often when you remove the paint you find that the boat is not fit for sailing."

When asked about bebop, he quickly commented, "I don't care much for it. It is just a phase of jazz. Like bebop-music, it will soon pass."

One thing the virtuoso liked very much about American jazz is George Gershwin. "Gershwin is a classic. It happened to be his birthday."

HEIFETZ HAS TRAVELED more than 60,000 miles in concert tours all over the world. On these tours he has noticed a difference between the audiences in different countries. "There is little difference in appreciation. The difference is in the physical reaction to the concert."

Some are more boisterous than others. He qualified his statement by saying, "The same towns may have different audiences. Once while in Scotland I was told that the audience at Edinburgh would be noisy and the one at Glasgow would be reserved. I found this to be true. However, on the next tour through those cities, the reactions were reversed."

THE VIOLINIST HAS TOURED Japan during the earthquake, Russia during the revolution, and has had many thrilling experiences during his many years of travel. I was very much interested in finding out which of his tours he considered the most exciting.

After thinking a while, he answered, "One of the most exciting tours was a tour of Israel which I made last summer. Although I had visited the country twice, this was my first trip there since it had become a nation."

"In one place I played nine times to fill a subscription since the concert hall could not hold all of the subscribers. It was really a thrill to give such a reception," continued Heifetz.

"ONCE I GAVE an open air concert near where the legendary mines of King Solomon were located," he said. "The artist played his Guarnerius at the performance here. His manager remarked that it takes better care of his violin than he does of himself."

Incidentally for those interested in the artist, played his Guarnerius at the performance here. His manager remarked that it takes better care of his violin than he does of himself.

LAST YEAR'S Most Popular Professor Robson D. McIntyre, standing, congratulates James M. Schreyer, this year's holder of that coveted title.

Students Select Schreyer "Most Popular Professor"

By John Witz

Ashville, North Carolina's gift to UK, smiling Dr. James M. Schreyer, professor of chemistry, was voted the "Most Popular Professor" on the campus in the Newman Club-sponsored election Monday. As a result, he will receive a trophy and will reign as Rex of the Newman Club's Mardi Gras Ball on March 16.

Nearly 700 ballots were cast in the election, Dr. Schreyer receiving 169 first place votes to 127 for Prof. W. A. Paton Jr. of the College of Commerce. The election was tabulated on a 5-2-1 basis for first, second, and third places.

DR. SCHREYER ACCUMULATED a total of 611 points to 498 for Prof. Paton. Dr. B. B. McIntyre of the botany department received 478 points for third place, followed by Dr. Niel Plummer of the journalism department with 415.

Other candidates were Dr. A. B. McEwen of the College of Law; G. E. Smith of the College of Engineering; Dr. Aubrey J. Brown of the College of Agriculture; and Dr. Hollis S. Summers and Dr. Arthur L. Cooke of the English department.

Dr. Schreyer succeeds as the most popular professor Prof. Robson D. McIntyre, the latter having won the title in a similar election last year.

STATEMENTS FROM VARIOUS of the 34-year-old professor's students seem to conclude that McIntyre's opinion that he is an appealing lecturer; another that he is not aloof; and another that he comes down to the level of the student. One man summed it all up by saying, "He's just one of the fellows."

Dr. Schreyer, who received his doctorate at Oregon State College in Corvallis, Ore., said that he was thrilled over his election.

"The most important thing in the accomplishment of a teacher is recognition by the student. There is nothing I could appreciate more than being selected the most popular professor," he said.

DR. SCHREYER, SPEAKING on his formula for success, emphasized

Looking For NEW FRIENDS? Almost everybody likes to meet new friends — new girl friends, new boy friends — but often it is hard to know how.

Here is a pleasant, easy, interesting way to meet new friends. Look through the first issue of THE GIRL FRIEND, magazine, now on the newsstands. You'll find the pictures of twenty-two young women and twenty young men, who tell you all about themselves and why they'd like to hear from new friends. One of them may be the new friend you are looking for.

And the cost of writing to any of these new friends is a three-cent stamp.

Kentucky Meets Tennessee Vols Saturday Night; Romps To Wins Over Georgia Tech and Xavier

Four Games Remain On Cats' Schedule

By Lewis Donohew
Kernel Sports Editor

Heading into the home stretch with a 20-1 record, Kentucky's Wildcats take on the Tennessee Volunteers Saturday night in one of the remaining four games on the UK schedule.

The contest is expected to be another smashing triumph for the Cats, due to their earlier, 70-45, victory over the Volunteer quintet of Coach Emmett Lowery. The game will start at 8 o'clock p.m. in Memorial Coliseum.

Kentucky travels to Chicago Monday night to take on the Blue Demons of DePaul in another return game. The DePaul trip will be the last time the Cats will take to the road this season. Their two remaining games are that with Georgia Tech, Feb. 23, and Vanderbilt on the following night—will be played in the Coliseum.

Against the Vols, Coach Rupp is expected to use his regular starting lineup of Shelby Linville and Capt. Walt Hirsch at forwards, Bill Spivey at center, and Frank Ramsey and Bobby Watson at guards.

The lanky Spivey, who still leads SEC scoring, will have a good chance to improve his record Saturday night against the Tennessee outfit. Their center, Herb Nell, stands only 6 ft. 4 in. from the floor.

Probable starting lineup for Coach Lowery will be Bert Keenan, 6 ft. 1 in. senior, and Paul Gentry, 6 ft. 1 in. sophomore, at the forward posts, Nell at center, and Tommy Bartlett, 5 ft. 11 in. junior, and Bob Garrison, 6-ft. sophomore, at guards. Coach Rupp is expected to use his regular starting lineup Monday night against DePaul.

Starting for the Blue Demons will probably be forwards John Lahey, 6 ft. 2 in., and Robert Kampa, 6 ft. 4 in., center Clarence Pavillion, 6 ft. 7 in., and Guards Bulo Govegarca, 5 ft. 11 in., and Ron Petersen, 6 ft. 3 in. All are seniors except Petersen, who is a sophomore.

Kentucky's earlier triumph over the DePaul squad rates them as favorites to take the contest, but the Wildcats may have some trouble with Coach Ray Meyer's squad, which usually puts up a strong fight on their home court.

Officials for the Tennessee meet Saturday night will be Dan Tahan and Jim Beiersdorfer.

Catfish Seek First Win From Mountaineers

By Joe Howard

Kentucky's Catfish will be out for their first win of the current swimming season tomorrow when they meet Berea College at the Mountaineers' pool.

After Saturday's encounter, the Catfish will have one more meet, that being with Georgia Tech in Atlanta. In their first two outings, Kentucky bowed to tank teams from Tennessee and Vanderbilt, then took a journey to Cincinnati which resulted in their third loss.

The team is made up mostly of sophomores. Sam Blythe is a 100-yard freestyler who shows lots of promise. Bob Saxton swims 200-yard breast-stroke. Greg Rounten is principally a backstroke but also

Fucci Chosen For Award

Dominic Fucci, senior end on the UK football team was selected by his teammates this week as the most valuable senior on the squad. He will receive the Jerome Lederer trophy, annual award presented to the player gaining this honor.

Fucci, a native of New Village, N. J., has won three letters for varsity football at UK. He is also an All-American baseball player. In high school he was an all-state end for Washington high of New Village. Fucci was a reserve quarterback for the Kentucky squad in 1949, but was shifted to end for the past season.

During the regular season last year, he kicked 42 times for 1112 yards and a 40.8 punting average for 11th place in the nation in that department. In the Sugar Bowl he booted the pigskin 395 yards in eight tries for a 49.4 average.

Fucci scored 120 points for the Wildcats during the 1950 season, amassing 12 passes while on offense and racking back four of them for T.D.'s. He also intercepted four enemy passes and scored a touchdown on one of them.

He was selected to play professional football for the Washington Redskins in a recent player draft, but is expected to turn the offer down and accept a pro baseball contract.

Half-time score: Kentucky 36, Xavier 22.

Free throws missed: Spivey 4, Whitaker 3, Hoffer, Koch, Smith 4. Kentucky's Wildcats took the sting out of the Yellow Jackets last Friday night as Kentucky coasted to a 75-42 victory over Georgia Tech before 7,500 fans in Memorial Coliseum. It was the Cats' eighth straight SEC victory.

Showing signs of weariness from their recent road trip, the Cats had trouble getting started. Their play wasn't working smoothly and their passes often were erratic. But Tech looked surprisingly good as they matched the Wildcats shot for shot in the first few minutes. The score was tied at 5-5 after four minutes of play. But the Suggens moved out ahead 13-9 midway of the first half. The game was never close from then on.
