They Have Earned Their "L" For Loyalty

Below are listed additional subscribers to the University of Kentucky Alumni Loyalty Fund who have sent in their contributions since the last report, published in the August issue of the ALUMNUS.

As we reported at that time, another four-year, all expense scholarship has been awarded, and unless contributions come in, in ever increasing numbers, it is possible that this very worthwhile project will have to be abandoned. A LITTLE GOES A LONG WAY if many people contribute a little. Let's all participate in this investment in Kentucky youth.

A QUARTERLY MAGAZINE DEVOTED TO THE INTERESTS OF THE ALUMNI AND STUDENTS OF THE UNIVERSITY OF KENTUCKY

Nominations Are Open For 3rd. Annual Alumni Scholarship

Nominations are now in order for candidates for the third annual four-year, all-expense scholarship offered to freshmen students at the University through the Alumni Loyalty Fund. Nominations close March 1.

Any active member of the Alumni Association, or any organized alumni club may offer a nomination for this scholarship which totals $2,800 and which is the largest single scholarship offered by the University of Kentucky.

Nomination blanks will be mailed this month to all organized clubs, and any individual alumnus, in good standing with the general association, may nominate a prospective freshman student by writing to the Alumni Office for one of these blanks. Applications must be filled out by the student nominated, and signed by the alumnus or club making the recommendation, and these blanks are to be returned to the Executive Secretary, U. K. Alumni Association, Student Union, University of Kentucky, Lexington 29, Ky., not later than the first of March. The U. K. Research Foundation, which is a non-profit group formed of alumni and faculty to administer scholarships, fellowships and gifts to the University, handles the Alumni Loyalty Fund.

A prospective applicant for the alumni scholarship may or may not be a resident of Kentucky, the only requirement for eligibility being that he be a graduate of an accredited high school and be nominated by an organized club or individual alumnus. Selection of the successful applicant is made by the University Scholarship Committee, which bases its selection on requirements set up by the Alumni Association. These requirements are that the student who receives the scholarship maintain a 2.0 standing during his four years; that he be outstanding in scholarship, student activities, personality, character and that he show a definite need for financial assistance.

This will be the third such scholarship offered by the Alumni Association. Students nominated may be asked to come to the campus to take a special examination, and the alumnus or club making the nomination should take this expense into consideration when proposing the student's name.

Heart Attack Is Fatal To University's Dean Taylor

Dr. William Septimus Taylor, 64, dean of the University of Kentucky's College of Education and University graduate, died of a heart attack at his residence, 112 Cherokee Park, Aug. 26.

The widely known and popular dean was a native of Beaver Dam, Ky., and came to the University as dean in 1923 following a teaching career at rural schools in Ohio county, University of Texas, Cornell University, Pennsylvania State College and as assistant director of the Teacher Bureau in the Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction and agent for the Federal Board of Vocational Education.

His formal education was taken at Western State College, Bowling Green; University of Kentucky, from which he was graduated in 1912; University of Wisconsin, M.A. degree in 1913 and Columbia University doctorate in 1923.

Widely recognized as one of the nation's leading educators, Dean Taylor was one of three candidates for the presidency of the National Education Association in 1937. Other educational activities include service as secretary-treasurer and former president of the National Association of Colleges and Departments of Education; former president of the Kentucky Education Association; past vice president of the American Vocational Association; and chairman of the organization of Deans of Education in Southern States.

He was actively affiliated with many Lexington civic groups and activities and for many years was a member of the Board of the Kentucky Society for Crippled Children which group he served as vice president. In February 1948, he was elected vice president of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education.

Survivors include his wife, Mrs. Helen Josephine Dodge Taylor; a daughter, Mrs. Nancy Ellen Taylor Hayes, also a University graduate; three sisters and five brothers.

Funeral services were held Monday, August 29 at the Calvary Baptist church, and burial followed in the Lexington cemetery.

Harry B. Tucker, '47, of Lexington, has been named director of instruction in the Lexington city schools. He holds the Master's degree from the University.

Adopted Daughter

Margaret Mitchell Marsh, of Atlanta, Ga., wife of John R. Marsh, '16, formerly of Maysville and Lexington, advertising executive for the Atlanta Power Company, died August 16, the victim of a speeding automobile.

The shy but famous little Georgia woman who authored "Gone With the Wind," had suffered a fractured skull and a crushed pelvis when she was struck by an automobile driven by Hugh Gravitt of Atlanta on August 11.

Kentucky, especially alumni and former students of the University of Kentucky, claimed Margaret Mitchell because her husband was a native Kentuckian and an alumnus of the University. The Lexington Herald-Leader, in an editorial of sympathy and regret at her passing commented on August 21: "To Miss Mitchell's husband, John R. Marsh, who formerly was a member of the Leader and Herald staffs these papers join her friends and thousands of admirers in offering condolences. She was a gracious lady, unspoiled by the great success she achieved, and her untimely death has saddened not only those who knew her personally but those who knew her through her famous novel."

The Kentucky Alumnus, as the official spokesman for Kentucky alumni everywhere, would like to extend to Mr. Marsh the deep sym-

Ky. Licks Ga.--Eighth In Nation

Is Undefeated In Southeastern

by Ken Kuhn,
UK Publicity Sports Editor

Eighth in the Nation . . . On top in the SEC!

These were the amazing statistics that loyal and hopeful University of Kentucky alumni, exhausted and hoarse on the fateful Sunday morning following a glorious Homecoming in early October, thought they would never read.

But there was the record of the fighting '49 football Wildcats for all to see and admire clinched by a doubt-crushing 25-0 homecoming victory over Georgia's defending SEC champions.

Victory famished alums, who like many other sports fans in the South had waited long for "next year" and a really great football team at Kentucky, crossed their fingers or just hoped the Wildcats had finally arrived. There was evidence a plenty that win or lose during the remainder of the season the Kentucky Cats had achieved an enviable record in cutting down to size the football kingpins of L.S.U., Ole Miss and Georgia on successive Saturdays.

Few doubted that the victory string would continue. The Wildcats showed too much power to be denied, many felt. But there were obstacles to be met before premature bowl talk could be justified. Still to be conquered were The Citadel, powerful Southern Methodist, Cincinnati, Xavier, "dark horse" Florida, traditional rival Tennessee and a "comer" Miami (Fla.) team.

The undeniable Wildcats' amazing, story-book rise in grid prowess startled the football world as much as it did patient alumni. Pre-season dopesters and wary Southeastern coaches, always anxious to put another team on the spot, had freely predicted another average season for the Cats with a finish in the conference standings around eighth place. There were some rumblings among the more optimistic that Kentucky might surprise but no one dared to give voice to such a seemingly crazy view that by mid-season the Wildcats would prove to be a true "thoroughbred darkhorse" ranked eighth in the nation rather than eighth in the conference.

Eyebrows of even the most astute observers and loyal alumni raised slightly as the Kentuckians unveiled a powerful running and passing attack to thoroughly overwhelm hapless Mississippi Southern 71-7 in the season's opener at Lexington. The Southerners, while admittedly a small school and not given much of a chance, were known to have a few "Little All-Americans" on the squad and the experts established Kentucky as only a three touchdown favorite. The final score amazed the press and radio observers and scouts as much as it did the fans, but most people were ready

Harry Ulinski, 1949 grid captain to overlook the margin of defeat as meaningless in the face of the calibre of opposition still to be faced.

Scoffing skeptics almost choked the week-end Kentucky tapped highly-regarded Louisiana State 19-0 for a first conference victory. However, most thought of LSU as another weak sister of the league (the Tigers won only three games last season) and tended to discount the importance and significance of the Wildcats' victory in a game that had been rated a toss up.

But to Coach Paul Bryant, the man who never gave up trying last year and who turned down a lucrative pro offer before this season in order to tutor the team that he had recruited in entirety, the LSU victory was significant. He learned the true capabilities of the '49 Wildcats and had reason to hope that they could and would do well against class opposition. He saw glimpses of ability in men who had not been counted on and that factor alone was significant — it meant that Kentucky for the first time might have real strength in depth or, in other words reserve power. Too, the Wildcats head mentor learned about the great line that might, in time, overshadow the Cats many seat backs. Holding a good

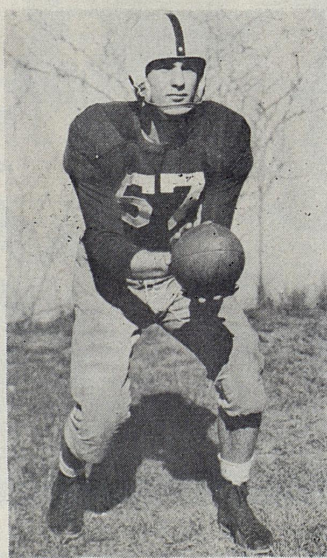

LSU team scoreless was a feat not to be overlooked.

The harder - to-convince "doubting Thomases" still maintained the chant: "Wait until they hit top teams like Ole Miss and Georgia. Then we'll see how good we are."

Favored, along with Tulane, to garner top conference honors, the Mississippi and Georgia games would produce real tests for the high-flying Wildcats. The Rebels had lost only one loop contest last year while the Bulldogs finished at the top of the conference standings without a loss.

When the amazing Wildcats started the football world with a seemingly easy 47-0 upset of big Mississippi, the skeptical writers, radio men and scouts expressed doubts that Kentucky was as good as the score indicated. Ole Miss had been thoroughly beaten and, in addition held scoreless, but still no one was ready to admit that the Cats were the class of the conference. On the basis of their underdog status prior to the game, however, the Bryant boys did receive rave notices that set off explosions of near-atomic proportions in the football centers in the South and nation.

As Dave Bloom, sports writer for the

Vito "Babe" Parilli, quarterback

Bob Gain, All-American tackle candidate

Memphis Commercial Appeal, wrote in his lead on the Mississippi game story:

"This is the score that shocked the South into stark disbelief Saturday, Kentucky 47, Mississippi 0.

"And from the game emerged a new power in the Southeastern Conference. Kentucky had been coming for a long time, but practically nobody had picked this as the arrival date. Powerful Ole Miss twice a victor, was favored by one or two touchdowns. There were 21,000 who still aren't quite sure they can believe what they saw."

That flattering comment from a neutral sportswriter about summed up the ideas of virtually all impartial observers — startled by the decisiveness and apparent ease with which Kentucky won and yet not quite ready to believe what they saw was an accurate indication of the Wildcats' power. And thus it was that the stage was set for the crucial game with Georgia's defending Southeastern Champions, a team picked before the season as having a good chance to repeat.

With 36,000 fans in the stands (the largest crowd ever to see a football game in Kentucky) and a full house of 150 press and radio men in the newly-enlarged Stoll Field press box, the razor sharp Wildcats made homecoming worth all the effort it had been to get into Stoll Field by administering a stunning 25-0 defeat to Wally Butts' Bulldogs.

Old alums, accustomed to heart-break of defeat in important games and used to taking solace in watching the performances of such standbys as Dopey Phelps, yelled themselves hoarse to herald the arrival of Kentucky as a gridiron power of national prominence. And there were several newcomers, as well as the old standbys, to cheer as the Georgia game proved the Wildcats are great as a team. Many were the proud exclamations on the ability of that defensive line that amazingly held powerful Georgia scoreless — in fact, did not let them further into Kentucky territory than the 35 yard stripe. Many were the comments on the outstanding leadership of Captain Harry Ulinski, the natural ability displayed by sophomore triple threat quarterback Babe Parilli, the faking and speed of the touchdown twins in double safety — sophomore Emery Clark and old reliable Dopey Phelps, and the stellar line play of such standouts as All-American Bob Gain.

Truly, whatever happens from here on out, the wonderful homecoming experience of watching a precision gridiron machine grind out a decisive victory over a powerful opponent and show promise of greater things to come was indeed the biggest thrill in many a year of watching, waiting and hoping for "next year."

Second only in importance to the homecoming game was the tea dance and buffet supper, held in the ballroom of the Union, for returning alumni just prior to the game. In the top picture, left to right, are President J. S. Watkins of the Alumni Association, President H. L. Donovan of the University; Mrs. Donovan and Mrs. Watkins. Rhoads In Greece With The ECA

Wayland Rhoads, '15, formerly of Lexington, and until 1940 field agent with the Agricultural Extension division of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture, is in Greece as agricultural advisor to the Greek government under the ECA program.

A former member of the alumni executive committee and a life member of the Alumni Association, Mr. Rhoads entered military service late in 1940 and was with the Army Industrial College at Washington, D.C., the Quartermaster's Depot, Front Royal, Va., at Fort Reno, Okla., Camp Gruber, Muskogee, Okla., the Provost Marshal School, Ft. Custer, Mich., Harvard Military Government School, and saw service overseas. Upon his return to this country he was stationed with the Third Army Corps headquarters at Atlanta, Ga. Mr. Rhoads was promoted in rank from Captain to Lieutenant Colonel.

With him in Greece are Mrs. Rhoads and his daughter, Louise, who plans to attend the University of Switzerland this fall.

Louise, in letters to her brother and sister, Billy Mac and Betty Ree, both University of Kentucky alumni, describes many experiences which they have had since reaching Greece. Louise was doing stenographic work last summer with the United States Delegation to the United Nations Special Committee on the Balkans.

One letter states that "Daddy really has a job laid out for himself. He has charge of all livestock work including veterinary work. His main problem now is fighting the disease. It's almost impossible to believe that so much disease that will transmit also to human beings could exist as it does without more people dying... Greece has never had a veterinary school and Daddy is trying to get one established... He does quite a lot of traveling and has been over most of Macedonia and the Peloponnesus, Rhodes Island and the Dodecanese Islands. Next week he's going up the Albanian border."

"We've done as much sight-seeing as could be expected for ten days (this letter was written shortly after her arrival in Greece); but there is loads yet to see. The Parthenon and Temple of Zeus are very impressive as is the ancient amphitheater. It was built by the Romans around 50 A.D. and is Roman style architecture instead of Greek. Located right at the foot of the Acropolis it is still in use just as it is and most of the seats still remain. The only new addition is the marble floor on the stage to make the dancing easier. It is in the shape of a half moon and the seats rise very steeply.

"The trip over, through the Mediterranean, was extremely interesting. We stayed in Genoa about eight hours and in Naples about six hours. We saw the house and garden of Columbus in Genoa and passed fairly close to Anzio where the Americans landed in Italy."

Mr. Rhoads and his wife and daughter expect to be in Greece about two years.

GUY A. HUGUELET HONORED

Alma Magna Mater, through its acting president, Kenneth Blevins, of Covington, presented to Guy A. Huguelet, '14, the organization's annual trophy to the alumnus "giving the most unselfish service to the University," at the opening of the homecoming game Oct. 8. Alma Magna Mater membership is composed of the children of former University students.

Transfer Bolsters '50 Net Squad

By Larry Shropshire, '30,
Sports Editor, the Leader

Adolph Rupp, pondering a sudden and strange transition "from the most despised to the most beloved coach in the land," said recently he expected that some University of Kentucky varsity basketball games would be played this winter in new Memorial Coliseum.

He also 'lowed as how he doubted that he ever again would draft a regular-season schedule of more than 24 games for any of his quintets.

That's about the number a rookie team of Wildcats will play during the coming campaign and, according to Rupp, that's all—even if rival coaches are now fairly drooling to get on the UK card.

Things have been different. When the greatest team in college cage history practically swept the boards and brought the local school national championships, Kentucky found it impossible to book tilts with some major schools sought as opponents. "They said they didn't have a place where they could put us on their schedules," Rupp remarked.

"Now," he continued, seeing no need to mention that four regulars of last season had completed their eligibility, "we're getting letters from guys all around saying they've always admired and respected us and hoped that we'll give 'em a game."

These rival coaches, he feels, "seem to have an idea that now that we have old Adolph down—and we might be down this year—we ought to give him the works."

Good games with worthy foes have been booked, but Rupp says he sees no need to kill himself and his boys just to give all the others a chance to do that. He had cut back his schedule from a high 31, excluding tournaments, to a 26-card game book for winter, and he intends to trim back a little farther to a maximum of 24.

Only One In Louisville

It's known that the Cats will play St. John's at Madison Square Garden again, they are booked again in the Sugar Bowl tournament at New Orleans, and they have signed with Purdue for a new home-and-home series. Also they are expected to have two clashes each with their usual foes from the Southeastern Conference.

"It's crazy to play the number of games that we have in the past. We're cutting down a little, and gonna stay that way."

Along with conference foes, UK will schedule three or four good teams from other leagues or sections—such as Purdue of the Big 10, a team from the Southern Conference, maybe one from the Southwest Conference and an Eastern school—to provide a home schedule of 10 to 12 games. The game in Louisville will be with DePaul, and a return game with the Demons will be played as usual in Chicago.

Layne Is Added Starter

While rival coaches and fans in general may expect Kentucky to be "down" this year, in comparison with recent championship seasons, Rupp apparently isn't ready to concede any such situation.

He expects to have in harness only

Jay Rhodemyre, '49, of Ashland, Ky., former University of Kentucky football great, was honored at the All-Star football game played in Chicago August 12, when he was presented a trophy as the outstanding collegian of last year's tilt.

Paul Bryant, his former coach, made the presentation at half time.

Rhodemyre, a center, played last for Kentucky in 1947. He played with the Green Bay Packers last year, and on August 20 last signed his 1949 pro contract with the same club.

He broke into the National Football League in 1948 and promptly won a starting assignment.

four members of last year's varsity squad—Dale Barnstable and Jim Line, seniors, and Walt Hirsch and Roger Day, juniors, but to support that quartet and rookies coming up from last year's freshman team he has lined up a junior-college transfer, a seasoned performer, and two promising second-semester freshmen due to become eligible for the varsity at midyear.

The transfer, eligible for two years in regular college play, is six-foot, seven-inch Roger Layne, high-scorer and star last year of Magnolia A. and M. in Arkansas.

Layne was chosen the most valuable player in a regional junior-college tournament last season and possibly is regarded as ready to step into a regular berth.

The midyear reinforcements will be 6-6 Shelby Linville of Middletown, Ohio, and 6-4 Reid Morgan of Milwaukee.

Along with the four chosen from among the varsity holdovers, Rupp said he would have places on his varsity squad at the start of practice for the following 10 cagers from last winter's undefeated frosh squad: Bill Spivey, seven-foot frosh center; Len Pearson, Bob Watson, Skippy Whitaker, Guy Strong, C. M. Newton, Arlan King, Gus Stergeos, Dick Scott, and Walt Whittaker.

UK Diamond Ace Is All-American

Dominic Fucci, slugging catcher-outfielder of the University of Kentucky baseball team, was named to the first annual college All-American squad by the American Association of College Baseball Coaches last July.

The husky Wildcat backstop finished the season with a .459 batting mark, highest average compiled by any member of the mythical All-American nine.

Fucci, who hails from New Village, N. J., led this year's UK team to first place in the Eastern Division of the Southeastern Conference and to the finals of the NCAA Third District tournament at Charlotte, N. C. last summer. He also plays quarterback on the Wildcat football team.

Georgetown Signs Yarutis As Coach

Leo Yarutis, B.S. '48, M.S. '49, formerly of Gary, Ind., who played three years varsity football at the University of Kentucky and coached the freshman line here his last year, has been named line coach at Georgetown (Ky.) College.

Yarutis is working on his doctor's degree at the University, and will coach in the afternoons.

Ralph Beard, former University of Kentucky baseball and basketball star, signed a contract last summer with the Boston Braves to play with its Pawtucket, R.I. farm club. He is a right hander, almost six feet tall and weighs 175. His home is in Louisville.

Alumni Organize In Kentucky

Having as his goal the organization of an alumni group in each of Kentucky's 120 counties, President H. L. Donovan, '14, loaned to the Alumni Association this past summer the services of Hambleton Tapp, assistant to the president, for the purpose of visiting the various communities throughout Kentucky and interesting alumni in forming permanent organizations.

Mr. Tapp has worked tirelessly and with amazing results, and numerous clubs have been formed and are still being organized. In a number of instances the alumni secretary and members of the alumni executive committee as well as administrative officials of the University have appeared before these county organizations, outlining to the groups a program of action which will redound to the further growth and progress of the University and the general alumni association.

It is the hope of the Alumni Association's executive committee and of the President of the University that each club will adopt a forward-looking program which will include a more active relationship between Kentucky alumni and high school graduates; a legislative committee to outline to each community the needs of the University; and an active membership campaign which will insure the University a militant and powerful alumni group throughout the commonwealth.

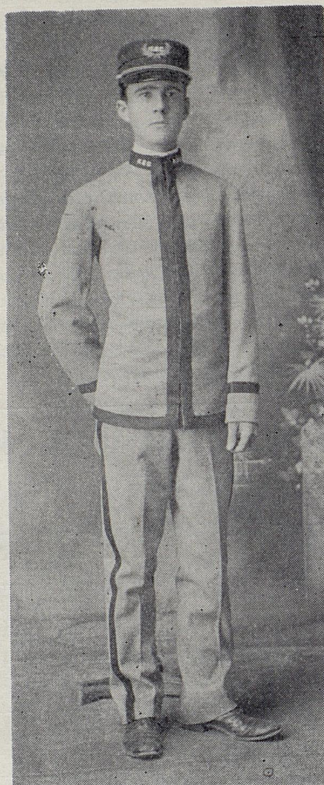

The Alumni Office is prepared to serve the clubs through procuring speakers and films for their local meetings, and generally to assist the groups in perpetuating active, forceful organizations.

Would You Have Your University A Makeshift?

Through the cover of this, the current issue of the KENTUCKY ALUMNUS, and on the following pages, we have tried to portray to you the needs of the University and to outline for you, as briefly as possible, President Donovan's budget request to the 1950 Legislature.

Our purpose is two-fold. We think it is imperative that every Kentucky alumnus should have at hand the information herein contained, as we believe that the University's most loyal supporters are its graduates and former students. Then, too, while many of us are willing and ready to preach the gospel, we lose touch with the University's needs after we leave the campus, and only through the medium of the ALUMNUS are we able to follow the expansion, the ambitions, and the program of our great state university.

This is a crucial period in the University's history. If it is to serve the youth of Kentucky as they should be served the physical, teaching and research programs must be expanded. To stand still is to regress. To fail to see the needs of Alma Mater and to back her program with militant, informative action is to lack the love for the institution which every true alumnus holds.

President Donovan calls his 1950-'52 budget request to the Kentucky Legislature "Realistic." It is not only that, it is modest when one compares it with the budgets which have been granted state universities in contiguous states. It is the sum total of what the University needs to make your Alma Mater fulfill its obligations to you, as citizens, and to your children, as future citizens.

If you would really serve the University then read the following pages, acquaint yourself with the President's budget request, and make it your business to see or write your state senators and representatives and urge upon them its passage. If you live outside of Kentucky write to influential citizens in your home community. Each one of us can be a real force for good if we exert ourselves. President Donovan's creed for Kentucky is, that "you can't have a greater state without a greater state University." Neither can you have a great University without an aggressive, loyal Alumni Association.

This is our opportunity to prove our worth to Alma Mater, and surely not one of us is too old or too disinterested, too young or too apathetic to be willing to see a continuation of the situation which is portrayed on the cover of the ALUMNUS — a beautiful building, obstructed and obscured by a MAKESHIFT building. It isn't good enough for Kentucky — or is it? — the answer is up to YOU.

Budget Needs Of UK Outlined By Dr. Donovan

By Jack Wild, UK '35, Director of Public Relations

Realistic—that is the term used by President H. L. Donovan to describe the proposed University of Kentucky budget for 1950-52.

The University will ask the General Assembly, which convenes in January, and the State Building Commission to appropriate $6,127,300 for the 1950-51 fiscal year and $6,352,300 for the following year. These sums are to cover operation and maintenance of the University, special projects, and capital outlay.

The complete budget is printed elsewhere in this issue of the Alumnus.

Most important item in the budget, according to Dr. Donovan, is for the instructional functions of the Division of Colleges: $2,650,000 for 1950-51 and $2,850,000 for 1951-52. In 1948-49 the appropriation for this purpose was $2,000,000.

The increase in the Division of Colleges item is intended to offset the loss of federal tuition received for war veterans who have been attending the University. During 1948-49 the federal government paid the University approximately $919,000 for veterans' fees. This is expected to shrink to about $400,000 next year and to as little as $200,000 in 1951-52.

Part of the loss in federal funds will be absorbed by the University. It is not possible, however, for the University to absorb the total loss.

President Donovan pointed out that the Griffenhagen Report of 1947 criticized the University for being understaffed, for salaries being too low, and for classes being too large. "During the past biennium the University has attempted to implement these recommendations, but if we are to maintain the present staff, our present salary schedule and smaller classes, it will be absolutely essential that this (Division of Colleges) item of the budget be approved," he said.

The greatest thing that has happened at the University during the past biennium has not been the erection of some new buildings nor the improvement of its utilities, according to Dr. Donovan, but "the addition of some eminent men and women who will teach and direct the youth of the state in acquiring an education that will make them more useful members of society.

"The addition of a great teacher to the staff is not so evident to the public as the erection of a new building, but in the long run this investment in a great teacher may be worth far more to the state than the construction of a new building."

More permanent buildings have been added to the campus during the past two years than in any similar period in its history. Many temporary buildings also have been erected as a makeshift measure to help relieve crowded conditions in dormitories, classrooms, laboratories, and cafeteria, and these non-fire resistant structures must be replaced.

The University is requesting funds totaling $2,125,000 for construction of needed living facilities—one dormitory for men, one for women, and a central dining room and kitchen—in 1950-51. For the following year it is seeking $2,150,000 for a new science building to house the departments of chemistry and physics.

Commenting on the University's building needs, Dr. Donovan said:

"New residence halls constitute the most imperative need of the University for additional buildings. There are hundreds of Kentucky girls who desire to enter the University each year and who cannot be accommodated because of lack of residence halls. Likewise there are many boys who would attend the University if there were adequate dormitories where rooms could be rented at a reasonable rate.

"For some reason or other, the state of Kentucky has erected by direct appropriation but one dormitory at the University. We are requesting the immediate erection of a girls' residence hall and one dormitory for men to help relieve the critical housing situation for both young men and young women.

"A new science building to house both the Department of Chemistry and the Department of Physics is urgently needed. We earnestly hope that at the next meeting of the General Assembly an appropriation for this building will be made.

"The Trustees of the University have pledged their efforts to secure a new building for the purpose of housing the College of Pharmacy, which was consolidated with the University in 1947. One of the conditions of the contract was that the Board of Trustees would endeavor to secure from the General Assembly an appropriation for the erection of a permanent home on the campus for this college. At present the College of Pharmacy is housed in a building in Louisville which is totally inadequate for its needs."

A new journalism and publications building and additions to the University library and the College of Education building also are needed. Plans have been completed for a building which will house the Department of Journalism, the Kentucky Kernel printing plant, and offices of student publications. At present the journalism department has temporary quarters in the old Guignol Theater building, while the Kernel printing plant, which has been expanded, remains in the basement of McVey Hall.

Increased enrollment since the close of the war has greatly taxed the physical facilities of the University. The University plant, designed to handle approximately 4,000 students, has had to care for nearly double that number and this has resulted in the breakdown of some essential services. New provisions have had to be made at great cost to provide these services, and this has been one of the many difficult problems the administration

The University could have enrolled approximately 1,000 more women students last year if adequate dormitory facilities had been available. Pictured to the left is the proposed women's residence hall and central dining unit which the University will build if the State Building Commission appropriates one half of the cost. The building, will be financed through 50 per cent self-liquidation.

A men's residence hall with central dining room and kitchen has been included in the proposed expenditure of capital outlay, requested by the University from the State Building Commission. This building, pictured to the left, would cost $1,900,000 less 50 per cent self-liquidation, or a total cost to the state of $950,000. The central dining room and kitchen equipment $775,000.

Figures Below Are Total State Appropriations, Including Capital Outlay, For 1949-1950

A REALISTIC BUDGET

That our proposed budget is a realistic one, we need only to point out what the Governors and Legislatures of the bordering states have appropriated this past year for their universities.

Study the above map and see if you do not agree that Kentucky should receive the appropriation it is requesting. If the General Assembly approves our request, Kentucky will still be receiving less money than any of her neighbors. Complete figures could not be verified for the appropriation made to the University of Virginia.

From Mr. J. J. Walker, Treasurer of the University of Tennessee, we received a letter in which he says: "The last Legislature appropriated for operating expenses the sum of $4,375,000.00 (for 1949-50) . . . for capital outlay, $2,500,000.00." Certainly Kentucky should support its university as generously as the State of Tennessee supports its university.

* This figure includes $830,715 capital outlay allocated by State Property and Building Commission for steam distribution system. Total appropriation for 1948-49 was $5,404,928, which included capital outlay appropriation of $1,700,000 for Memorial Coliseum, $509,844 for stadium expansion, and $103,284 for steam distribution line.

 State appropriation for 1948-49; $12,200,200 requested for 1949-50.

Bardstown Holds Dinner Meet

Samuels, Wathen Are Re-Named Officers

The University of Kentucky Bardstown Alumni Club held a dinner meeting at the new Bardstown Country Club Thursday night, August 18, with 57 members and guests present to hear Harry Lancaster, assistant varsity net coach; Ted Osborne, football end coach; B. A. Shively, athletic director and Helen G. King, executive secretary of the Alumni Association, discuss the University's program. Beamis Samuels, Bardstown club president, presided.

Preceding the dinner meeting Dr. and Mrs. Joe Wheat were hosts to the University guests and a group of Bardstown alumni at a cocktail party at their home.

At a brief meeting following the dinner, E. B. Samuels and Al Wathen, Jr. were reelected president and secretary-treasurer, respectively, of the Bardstown club.

Enthusiasm and a high degree of interest in the University's future were evidenced by the alumni and friends of the University who were present for the meeting. Out-of-town alumni who attended included Mr. and Mrs. T. Jere Beam, Louisville, Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Hayden, Springfield, Ben Simms Hayden, Springfield, Jim and Jake Sutherland, Bloomfield, and Miss May Beam Noe, of Springfield, who is a University student and who brought as her guests eight young people from her community, several of whom are prospective University students.

Mr. Samuels introduced Mr. Lancaster and Mr. Osborne, each of whom gave a brief outline of football and basketball prospects for the coming year, and Dr. Wheat introduced Mr. Shively.

The president called on the Hon. Lee McClain, newly elected representative to the Legislature from Nelson and Anderson county, who spoke briefly about alumni responsibility to alma mater.

"The University of Kentucky represents the most stable influence, outside of our churches, in the lives of our people," said Mr. McClain, and now, in this period of intensely complex civilization it is important that our leadership be devoted to the cause of the University. This leadership must be obtained through the people who have a spirit of sympathy and cooperation and what more natural than to look to the children who have come from this great institution for sympathy and understanding?

"It is our duty to translate to our friends and neighbors the program and needs of the University, and it is only through an active, militant alumni association that this end can be achieved."

Mr. McClain then introduced the alumni secretary, who outlined some of the ways through which the local club could be of active service to the University.

Among those present were: Allen Abramson, Mildred Beam, George A. Barnes, Mr. and Mrs. T. Jere Beam, Bill Bennett, Freeman Carothers, Elise Crume, Harold W. Dorman, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Elston, Bill Fulton, R. Greenwell, M. Greenwell, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Hubbard, Mr. and Mrs. Lee McClain, Phil McKay, Cox McKay, Jack Kelly, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Samuels, E. B. Samuels, Harry Seeger, Jr., George Spalding, Lloyd Shawler, Harold Strange, Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Wheat, Al S. Wathen, Jr., Gus Wilson, Mrs. Charles A. Wade, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wycoff, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson, all of Bardstown; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Haydon, Springfield, Ben Sims Hayden, Springfield; May Beam Noe and guests, Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. T. Jere Beam, Louisville; Jim and Jake Sutherland, Bloomfield. Many of the above were accompanied by wives and guests.

of the University has had to face during the period of expansion.

President Donovan, in describing the needs of the University also underlined its accomplishments by citing these facts:

1. By using new and improved methods of farming advanced by the Agricultural Experiment Station and the Agricultural Extension Service, Kentucky farmers in 1948 received $36,000,000 more for their corn, $77,000,000 more for their burley tobacco, $40,000,000 more for their dairy products, $33,000,000 more for their hogs, $40,000,000 more for their beef, and $8,500,000 more for their sheep.

2. The University adds many more millions of dollars each year to Kentucky's income through improved building methods, new teaching materials, better ways of preparing and preserving food, additional uses for coal and other minerals, improved air transportation, more effective public services, new materials and processes discovered by UK scientists.

3. The work of the tobacco laboratory alone returns to Kentucky each year an income greater than the total investment of the state in the University over a 25-year period.

4. The University of Kentucky serves more than a million people every year through its teaching, research, and extension programs.

5. The University's seven colleges and Graduate School train Kentucky men and women for positions of leadership. In the fall of 1948, 7,929 students were enrolled, an increase since the fall of 1939 (largest pre-war enrollment) of 108 per cent.

6. Agricultural experimentation and extension serve rural Kentuckians through one experiment station, two substations, five experiment fields, two 4-H Club camps, 153 county agricultural agents and assistants, and 102 home demonstration agents and assistants.

7. University extension reaches the

Death Claims Prof. Lampert, August 27

Professor Carl Albert Lampert, 75, of 348 Aylesford place, for 26 years head of the University of Kentucky Department of Music, died August 27 at St. Joseph's hospital.

Beloved as "Prof" Lampert to hundreds of former University students, the Lexington educator and musician came to the University in 1918 to establish and head the department of Music during the administration of Dr. Frank L. McVey.

Progenitor of music participation in the University and throughout the state of Kentucky, educationally as well as culturally, Professor Lambert brought wide experience to his position as the result of many years of training and actual participation throughout the United States and Europe.

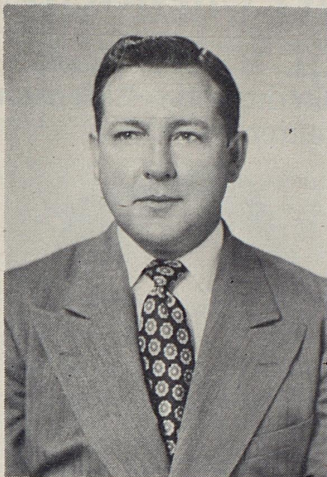

Composer of the University of Kentucky pep song, "On, On, U of K," and the UK Alma Mater, Professor Lampert organized the University's band, the Men's and Women's Glee Clubs, the Central Kentucky Choral Society of approximately 400 voices, and the University's Philharmonic Orchestra. He inaugurated the state music contest for high school students at the University.

He was born in Minden, Germany, May 13, 1874, and came to the United States at the age of six. He became a naturalized citizen in 1899 and was educated at Elmhurst College, Elmhurst, Ill., and at the Chicago Musical College where he studied violin under Jacobson in 1900. He continued his musical education in Europe, studying in Prague and Berlin in 1910 and 1911 under Suchy. He was graduated with distinction from the American Conservatory of Music at Chicago, where he was under the tutelage of Adolph Weidig. He held the B.M. in music from that institution.

When Professor Lampert reached 70 in 1944, he was placed on a change of occupation status at the University.

The music educator played for seven years in the Theodore Thomas orchestra and played for two years in

Granville deRoode With Liberty Life

Granville deRoode, '42, formerly of Lexington and until recently assistant manager of the home office agency of the Commonwealth Life Insurance Co. in Louisville, has joined the Liberty Life Insurance Co. as a home office ordinary supervisor, with headquarters in Greenville, S.C.

Mr. deRoode, a veteran of World War II, served in five battle campaigns in the European theater and was a captain when he received his honorable discharge.

He is married to the former Amy Smith of Jackson, Ky., and they are making their home at 207 Butler Ave., Greenville.

the Chicago Symphony. He also taught at the University of North Dakota as head of strings and orchestra from 1911 until 1913.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Jeanette Phillips Lampert, a native of Little Rock, Ark.; three daughters, Mrs. Jeanette L. Willis, Memphis, Tenn., Miss Marcia Lampert and Mrs. Wilhelmina L. Johnson, both of Lexington, and one grandson, Phillips Edward Johnson.

Burial was in the family lot in the Oakland cemetery at Little Rock, August 29.

Three Faculty Men Given Honoraries

Three members of the University of Kentucky faculty, one an alumnus of the institution, were awarded honorary degrees by other universities last summer.

Dr. Thomas Poe Cooper, dean of the College of Agriculture and Home Economics and director of the Experiment Station was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Science by the University of Minnesota, his alma mater.

Dr. Thomas D. Clark, UK '29, head of the department of history and well-known southern historian and author, received the Doctor of Letters degree from Lincoln Memorial University at Harrogate, Tenn.

A. B. Guthrie, Jr., lecturer in creative writing at the University, author of "The Big Sky," an historical novel of the opening of the west and one of last year's best sellers, was awarded the Doctor of Literature degree by his alma mater, Montana State College.

In commenting on the honors, the editorial columns of the Lexington Leader stated that: "the degrees granted these men are a tribute not only to them personally, but to the University of Kentucky, on whose faculty they serve, and to granting institutions, in which they were educated or to which they have given valuable assistance."

people with home study courses for adults, study centers for business and professional groups, institutes and forums, educational motion pictures, debating and discussion contests, music and art contests, and service bureaus for various organizations.

8. Technical and advisory boards help Kentuckians in many ways. "Actually the whole state of Kentucky is the campus of the University," Dr. Donovan said, "and you cannot have a greater state without a greater state university."

University Alumnus Perfects Methods To Extract Chemical

Successful methods of extracting thorium—a metal potentially useful in atomic work—has been perfected by Dr. Louis Gordon, '37, formerly of Lexington and now chemistry professor at Syracuse University.

A story in the Lexington Leader dated July 20 states that "according to a report of the American Chemical Society, Dr. Gordon worked out a practical method of extracting thorium with the assistance of H. H. Willard, University of Michigan professor and C. H. Vanselow, a Syracuse chemistry student." The Society reported that the method involves removing thorium from certain sands, and that the process is applicable to large-scale industrial procedures.

"Thorium cannot be used itself as atomic fuel but can be converted into a form of uranium, known as uranium 233 which is closely related to uranium 235 which was used in the atomic bomb."

The story continues that "chemists for some time have been trying to extract thorium sand but have been unable to separate the metal in a form suitable for use. Dr. Gordon used a method which produces grainy material similar to ordinary table salt."

T. L. Hankins Heads Northern Ky. Extension Center For U.K.

The appointment of Prof. Thomas L. Hankins, B.S. '31, M.S. '40, head of the Department of Industrial Education in UK's College of Education, to the directorship of the University's Northern Kentucky Extension Center in Covington, was announced last July.

Alumnus Rewarded For Good Teaching

Richard Malcolm Weaver, '32, formerly of Lexington, and now assistant professor of English at the University of Chicago, was one of two Chicago University professors to receive cash awards of $1,000 last summer for excellence in undergraduate teaching.

Chancellor Robert M. Hutchins of Chicago made the presentation. These cash prizes are the only awards of their kind in the country.

Mr. Weaver is an author as well as a teacher, and spent last summer in Weaverville, N.C., his old home, writing a new book.

Professor Hankins, who has already assumed his new duties, succeeds Dr. William C. Wesley, who recently resigned to go to Mount Union College, Alliance, Ohio.

A native of Waddy, Ky., Professor Hankins has been associated with UK's College of Education faculty since 1938 when he was appointed instructor in industrial education. He became an assistant professor in 1941 and was made head of the department in 1944. During 1948 and the early part of the present year he served as acting chief of the Division of Vocational Education.
