Soon after his graduation he became director of the Burley Tobacco society, and in 1917 became a member of the executive committee of the directors of the University and the Kentucky Experiment station, in the Kentucky Legislature, and served as a member of the rules committee of that body.

In 1922 he was named a director in the Burley Tobacco Growers Co-operative association and about ten years later was named president of the Kentucky Farm Bureau federation. He has been president of the Edinart Packing company, Louisville; manager of the Regional Agricultural Credit corporation for Kentucky; and president of the Louisville Bank for Cooperatives; and director of the Bourne, Stockyards Co., Louisville, besides his private farming interests. He is a member of the Louisville Pemmican club, and lives on his farm near Shelbyville which he operates in partnership with his son.

Prehistoric Bones Collected By Archeologists

By JUNE DAVIS

If you are interested in studying the prehistoric bones of your several grandfathers on your mother's side, just ask someone in the Department of Archeology and Anthropology to show them you. They might not be able to show you the exact skeleton of your ancestor but they can show you one that looks exactly like his.

The archeology department has been busy for a couple of weeks cataloging bones of prehistoric people of Kentucky, and placing the bones in numbered boxes. Any student or person interested in this subject need only to look in the filing index, get the number of the specimen he wishes to study, take the numbers to the custodian of the library situated on the top floor of the new Home Economics building, and he will receive any bone which belongs in the human body to study.

The department has employed several persons on this project. These workers already have classified and indexed more than 800 boxes of bones.

These bones have been brought to the University from all parts of the state. The boxes are inspected and catalogued on the second floor of Pence hall. Then they are packed back in their boxes, and hauled over to the Home Ec building which will be their permanent resting place.

On The Air

By JOHN SUTTERFIELD

Dr. W. D. Funkhouser's recent radio series, "Popular Science Chats," brought in some interesting figures to the University radio studio. The series consisted of six fifteen-minute talks, and was sent on the coast-to-coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting System on Tuesdays, from 1:45 to 2:00 p.m. CST, from January through February 11.

The response was as follows: 286 requests from 29 different states, represented by 168 towns or cities. The largest response came from California, where the program was heard from 11:45 to 12:00 noon, 36 cities in California were represented, with Los Angeles holding high score of 21 letters.

Of the 286 people asking for copies, 187 were men, and 103 were women.

The states heard from were: Alabama, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Georgia, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, Minnesota, Missouri, Nebraska, New York, North Carolina, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Virginia, Washington, Wisconsin.

Dr. Funkhouser's talks were entitled: Something Good To Eat, The Long Journey, Our Sinuous Friends, Be Careful, It's Poison!, It's Bad Luck To Do That, and I Don't Believe in Such Things. The first one was the most popular with the fifth, and sixth runners-up.

Radio big-wigs figure 20,000 listeners for one reply that calls for enclosed money. At that figure, Dr. Funkhouser's programs were heard by 5,800,000 persons.

Here's one you Keweenaw fans ought to get before the meet's over. Back in merry old England, they gave a silver ball to the winning owner in a horse race.

Running Wild

By JOHN CARRICO

Only once in a while do we burn with the desire to get off a stirring editorial that will reach to the very heart of the gentle reader.

No sooner had we laid the groundwork for our masterpiece than we ran into one of those people that you always meet when you have something big. Proudly we laid before him our plan, blushing in anticipation of the expected praise.

Thoroughly crushed in spirit, we mournfully mulled over the thought that you would never realize that while a nation over there worries about their sons who might be called to the slaughter, a nation over here is in suspense over Hank Greenberg or Bob Feller being nabbed by the draft.

Now you'll never know how wonderful it is that the only man who wears a mask lally over his eyes is charged to "up and at 'em" that the uniforms over here will bear insignias of Cubs, Pirates, and Incapacitated.

All this you will never know. Instead, we must resort to the sportsperson's perpetual comfort in times of stress—letting off steam. And so, we propose to let off a little steam on your predictions in the major leagues.

In the National League we like Brooklyn. The Daffness boys should win it through the late of aviators—Cincinnati can't win forever. The Reds will take second and St. Louis third.

Frankie Frisch's bustling Pittsburgh Pirates will take fourth followed by the New York Giants. The ever-treading and ever-cooked Chicago Cubs will be berthed in the sixth ahead of the Boston Bees. The lowly Phils will still be lowly.

In the American League, October will find the Yankee's return to Detroit. Tigers will retain their grasp on seventh, much to the despair of the cellar-crawling Athletics.

After 63 out of 85 baseball writers picked the Cincinnati Reds to repeat, our prediction is like a voice in the wilderness. But, despite the abundance of warning, we persist in our nomination of the Dodgers as the leaders in the senior circuit.

Editorial comment: President Roosevelt pitched the first ball yesterday at Washington. If he stays in much longer, he will be greeted with a nine-inning no-hit performance.

In Friday's column, we said that the Wildcat nine lost only Wilce Caine through graduation. Eddie Kuller pointed out to us that George Tognocchi was also lost. Give that man ten silver dollars!

Students To Attend Folk Dance Festival Students from Kentucky, Tennessee, and North Carolina, including 11 from the University, will attend the annual Folk Dance festival April 17-19 at the Seabury gymnasium, Berea college.

University students planning to attend are Mildred Gravette, Mary Johnson, Jean Ray Crawford, Charlotte Sale, Douglas Montondo, Frank Calvin, Alonzo Combs, Nelson Eddis, Steve Graban, George Cunningham, and Eugene Whalen. Accompanying the group will be M. G. Karsner and Miss Lorraine Lewis of the physical education department.

English, Danish, and American folk dances will compose the festival program. Karsner will lead a group of dancers from the Lexington folk dance center.

DIAMOND, TRACK, TENNIS TEAMS TO INVADE DIXIE

Eight Tilts Slated For Baseball Crew During Vacation Paced by Frank Moseley's baseball team who will play eight games in nine days, three university athletic teams depart this week for an extensive campaign through the South.

Coach Downing and his tennis team will go to Knoxville to play Tennessee April 16. They will journey on down to Atlanta and engage the Engineers of Georgia Tech the next day, April 17.

Returning to Kentucky Downing's men will battle Western State Teachers April 21 at Bowling Green.

The track team under the direction of Coach Joe Rupert leaves Lexington 8 a.m. Friday morning for a track meet with Vanderbilt Saturday afternoon. This will be the Wildcat's first meet of 1941.

Yanny, however, has already met Tennessee and Mississippi. Rupert gives his boys a good chance of taking the field events but fears that they will be beaten out in the track events.

Record Almost Tied In Rifle Shoot

With Harold Gravis firing 383 points, one point below the University record. The Pershing Rifles team scored 1876 points in the first round of the Regimental matches last week.

The individual scoring record was set in 1935 by Lieut. John Carter, now a member of the military science staff. M. Mitchell led the marksmen in the second round with 383 points.

This regimental match will be completed by the end of this week, military officials said. The University team, composed of five men, is in the first Regimental area, which comprises six other universities.
