Club Proves Professors Don't Live Life Of E's

A professor's life does not consist entirely of giving semiconscious lectures and "E" grades. The work of the Research club gives testimony to this effect. The organization, which includes approximately 100 professors from all departments of the University was organized 20 years ago "to stimulate research among the officers and instructors of the University."

Officers elected at the end of the 1939-40 school year are Dr. Morris Scheraga, head of the bacteriology department's president; Dr. J. W. Martin, professor of economics, vice-president; and Dr. R. H. Weaver, professor of bacteriology, secretary.

The retiring officers were Dr. A. E. Evans, dean of the College of Law, president; and Dr. O. J. Stewart, associate professor of chemistry, vice-president. Doctor Weaver was re-elected as secretary.

The Research club has manifested an increasing interest in problems that affect the well-being of the Commonwealth, with the result that the club has been making considerable study of the material, social and cultural assets of Kentucky and of means for their development in the interest of a better economic and cultural life.

On The Air

By WAYNE HOWELL

Out over the wires linking the UK radio studios with the world of air communication, goes a new piano concert, especially composed by Jack Peterabend (PRCA-sophomore) to go with the "Recent American Short Stories" adaptations by Greer Johnson, which are heard each Thursday from 1:45 to 2:00. GET over the Mutual Broadcasting System, "Passion Panorama," as it's ingeniously named, carries enough changes in mood to accompany any mental decor such literary up-rights as Ernest Hemingway, Elizabeth Madison Roberts, William Saroyan, Erskine Caldwell, etc., may choose to conjure.

Like the captions in modern children's music ("Peter, the rabbit jumped out"—"Jenny ran down the steps") Jack lets the readers know that there is "Tempo de mad de joint," "Mucho Schmalter" ("Come home, all is forgiven!"), etc., and "nausium!" Hobnobbing the mail with the long haired literati, Greer Johnson (Arts and Science senior) adds an imposing group of scrips, via the continuation of the popular

STOP! LOOK! and GLISTEN!

By JANE BAYNHAM

Now that these U. of Ky. he-men have brought to a close their rush week, and broad smiles and bright pins are gaming all over the campus, the masculine minds have finally turned to thoughts of the fairer sex, (ahem!) and to anticipation of future dates and fun. So, in accord with this changing trend of thought, I'm turning this column into a very inferior Dottie Dix affair, the subject of which will be the way men like college girls to look! So sit up and take heed 'cause after chasing 25 attractive maes (uh-uh!) from the Student Union to the Ag College, I think I have some very enlightening and perhaps surprising information for you potential Cleos. If you think that false eyelashes and a "knowing look" are all one has to have to be a two-whistle girl on this campus—well, just stay with me for a few minutes, and you'll see that I'm not kidding.

I didn't imagine when I began this survey that men noticed as many small details in a woman's appearance as they do. In fact, some of their revealing remarks really brought home to me the adage that women really dress to please other women, rather than men. And after talking to such representative men on the campus, I think that we'd do well to mend our ways. Don't forget that there will be a football game a week from tomorrow. It's no fun to go alone. So stand by while I tell you that men like: (1) A coed's hair to be long enough to be pretty; short enough to stay put. That "stay put" must be vital to them, because several told me that they didn't care how a girl wore her hair, as long as it was neat. (2) Her make-up to look natural, but to bring out all her prettiness. (3) Her nails to be—well, there are two schools of thought on this question: a) Just medium-length and definitely pastel as to polish; b) sensibly short with either no polish or colored polish (Don't blame me, gals, I only work here). I was surprised to hear such violent reactions to brilliant nail polish! (4) A co-ed's clothes to be comfortable sport clothes, but with some degree of originality and becomingness. (They put the long baggy sweaters on their black list. I know how you feel—size 38 that just misses being a perfect fit for one of our football heroes. But, since Fashion is very definitely not Spinach in these BMOCS, I guess I'll for the benefit, if any, of the reader. We shall have the aid and the advice of the well-known tailoring shops and stores down town in our dissertation upon the dress of University men.

As this is the first of our articles, we shall discuss the general trend of the clothes that will be worn on campuses this fall. There will be a tendency for the University man to achieve a casual effect which distinguishes from the ordinary human being. This is particularly seen in the style and material of suitings. The more popular materials will be flannels, glen plaids, coverts, tweeds and English woolsens with the prevailing colors of greys and browns. A preference has been shown for long three-button coats with notched lapels and a length of thirty-two inches for the average man with some desiring even longer ones. They will have a "straight-lapelled" comfortable appearance with moderate shoulders and a loosely fitted waist. The back of the coat is plain with a single vent adding to its ease. Trousers, to set-off the coat, will be pegged at the bottom to a width of seventeen or eighteen inches extending to the shoe top.

Topcoats will have a trend toward "levelity," being shorter than last year's models with easy-going lines. Fly-fronts will be very popular and the coat will have notched lapels. Coverts and tweeds are favored. Fly-fronts will be very popular with raincoats. The military collar with tabs and buttons at the cuff, and a generous sweep at the bottom is noted in this coat, which has raglan sleeves. Material will be gotten wool and gabardine.

Music Center Fills Rooms vacated By Art Department

By HAROLD WINN
In keeping with the general expansion of the University, the music department increased its quarters when the art center moved to a new location in the Biological Science building. The additional rooms added to the music department are being called the Music center.

According to Dr. Alexander Capurso, executive director, the change will bring about greater coordination, closer supervision, and more modern facilities.

Several additional rooms will be transformed for dramatic productions and Guignol will continue to occupy the west wing of the building. A small band library will also be added, so that students may check out instruments during school hours. The safety and care of instruments will be assured with an assigned student appointed to issue them.

Additional practice rooms in the east rooms of the building will be available to music majors every night from 7 to 9 with a student monitor in charge.

The center rooms, formerly equipped as art rooms, have been divided into private offices and classrooms with a tier being installed for rehearsals in one of the large rooms.

Perishing Rifles, Scabbard and Blade and Tau Beta Pi. And these organizations are by far the worst offenders, flaunting their inferiority-complexes in the face of every classing student right on the campus while the Greeks at least keep most of their sardim in their houses. So the dull trick of shifting the load over to the Interfraternity Council has solved, and could solve, absolutely nothing.

Optional Attendance Far Off
Of course, this is just one example. Optional class attendance, long a student dream, is another one on which the legislature has defaulted. At first they contemplated passing power they have displayed and consider them improved since the opener.

No injuries have been listed in the Wildcat ranks. Joe Bailey, the Patience poverhouse, who was absent from his customary spot at center on the A team Saturday, is back in uniform and will be ready for action.

So, Xavier, Coach Clem Crowe is holding what most observers consider only "an average team" although it defeated Georgetown college of Kentucky last week 30-0 without undue exertion.

On the whole, the squad is a sophomore organization with experience the quality most lacking. Muzer and McDaniel in the backfield and Lintinger at end are probably the outstanding Mucksters.

McDaniel is an excellent passer, and the Cats are expecting Crowe's men to come on the field with orders to pass at every opportunity. Several Xavier scouts made the trek to Lexington Saturday to see the Kentuckians open their season, and they probably will not soon forget the 121 yards an otherwise helpless Yellowjacket eleven gained through the air.

But neither are neutral observers forgetting the terrific power of Kentucky infantry as they ripped through their opponents' line for 347 yards.

So the bookmakers are spotting Xavier 26 points, which may or may not be a good bet.

GRAGIS SAYS

I found three-quarters of an hour later by some Wisconsin delegates who helped me into a cab and to a hotel. For two days I was confined in bed under a doctor's care.

In spite of this ruthless suppression of constitutional rights and in spite of the ultimate passage of the bill, our efforts in behalf of peace-loving Americans cannot be called a total failure. The Fish Amendment was attached, if only temporarily. And true lovers of democracy will be more than ever determined to defeat those who sold democracy down the river, and to defeat them by constitutional means. "Not by bullets but by ballots" will the American people keep out of any European, Asiatic, or African wars.

Here Is Advice That You WON'T Need To Heed

By Sam Brightman
(In the Louisville Courier-Journal)

When I was a boy back in the primitive days of two-wheel brakes and battery radio sets, young folks considered it a privilege and a pleasure to go to school, and we couldn't spend enough time on our lessons. Not so with the members of the present younger generation, as I have dubbed. Among them, alas, I sometimes detect a supercilious attitude toward schools.

The other day I was visiting my noble Canebootham at Ripley's Odditorium at the World's Fair, and I said, "Canebootham, I guess you're happy to be getting back to school in a few days."

"Nah," said Canebootham, "schools is for fishes. If you know what I mean and I think you do."

Later, after I had sold Canebootham to a family of gypsies, I found that he had been suffering from a toothache and had been taking a few pulls off a bottle of Old Indian Unquing that I keep around for medicinal purposes, and was not responsible for his remarks. So perhaps I was a little harsh with Canebootham, but I fear that his ill-advised flippancy is typical of the attitude of many young folks toward education. And I am just as opposed to that attitude as Wendell Wilkie is to the New Deal's padding of the relief rolls with man-eating sharks and typhoid carriers.

First I want to say a word to you young folks starting into college. Each year I see a new crop of freshmen embarking on their college careers, and each year I suffer a twinge of jealousy over the profitable times ahead for these youngsters, immersed happily in their Latin and mathematics, savouring the quiet pleasures of study and meditation. For truly, you are starting the happiest four years of your life.

In college, for the first time you will be allowed freedom to choose your own courses and gather about you a circle of friends who will wear your clothes and borrow your money. If you can stave off bankruptcy during your four years of college you are a cinch to at least become a foreman on the W. P. A. when you graduate. (If Wilkie is elected and there is no W.P.A. you will start out as a utilities magnate, junior grade.)

Surface changes are apparent in college life, but the underlying principles remain the same. In my day we didn't wear black and white saddle shoes in January and we wore coats and pants that matched if we could afford them, but classroom life was the same then as it is now, with the exception that many of you will not be exposed to a culture-forming acquaintanceship with bootleggers and speakeasy proprietors.

The chief advice I want to give you who are entering college is to take it easy! Watch what the other students are wearing and wear the same thing. Listen to what the other students are saying and say the same thing. Play the same games, have about the same bands, repeat the same wise cracks. Appear to take no interest in your class work. Busy yourself making valuable contacts. Don't go to classes any oftener than fashionable. If you aren't careful about these things, you're liable to be branded as what we called in my day a "grind," and that is a very bad thing indeed.

CONVOCATION (Continued from page One) scientific and classical studies, and including military tactics, to teach such branches of learning as related to agriculture and the mechanic arts, in such manner as the legislatures of the states may respectively prescribe, in order to promote the liberal and practical education of the industrial classes in the several pursuits and professions in life.

"As the year begins," Doctor Cooper said in closing, "let us by our thoughts, words, and actions, manifest our loyalty to our country. Let us use temperance in expression and judgment in action, that our people may feel that we have met satisfactorily our fullest obligation... Cooperation Asked."

"I have confidence that the student body and the staff will measure up to the expectations of the state and of the nation. As we go through the year, I ask your complete cooperation so that we shall meet all the requirements of good citizenship and of strong leadership from Kentucky's University."

Acting President Cooper was introduced to the convocation audience by Prof. Edward F. Parquhar, professor of English and chairman of the University convocation committee.

Speaking also on the program were Head Football Coach Ab Kirwan and Athletic Director Bernie Shively, who "debunked" football, stating that the sport is "overrated as a builder of character but also as a distraction from serious educational pursuits."

Kirwan stated that the newspapers were responsible for the emphasis placed on the sport. He reminded the students that a university was a place of learning, of mental effort, as well as a place to produce Rose Bowl football teams. Taking himself as an example, he attempted to prove that football players do not always become great financial successes, that they are not necessarily superior physical plants, and that they do not always persevere to the end of a task.

He tried to disprove another fallacy of opinion about football players, that they are always inefficient students. He cited the fact that 11 of last year's players had a University standing of over two.

He ended his speech with the following warning: if, on Nov. 2, when the Crimson Tide of Alabama is lined up on Stoll field and the Big Blue team is missing, look for them in the library, browsing among the books.

Coach Myers, As Usual, Says Frosh 'Look Bad'

Kitten Eleven Has Three Games On Schedule

By ROY STEINFORT

Gene Myers lived up to his reputation yesterday when he frankly admitted that his Kitten football team "looked rather bad" as the fourth week of fall practice rolled into motion for the yearling crew.

In the early stages of the season, Gene is always pessimistic about the prospects of his yearlings, but when the opening gun is fired most often Gene relaxes and displays perfect confidence in his boys.

If past records mean anything and they should in this instance, Coach Myers has every right to be calm when his boys open the freshman season October 19 against Vanderbilt.

Only once in two years have the Kittens lost a game, that one being two years ago to Tennessee. This year's grid men for the Kittens finds them opening against Vanderbilt, meeting University of Cincinnati in the second contest, and rounding out the season with their old rivals, Tennessee. Last year they bested Vanderbilt and Cincinnati, and the game with Tennessee was called off because of rain.

With the completion of fundamental drills last week, Myers plans to put his team through its first scrimmage late this week. Although it is really too early to determine any fragment weakness in this year's squad, they are short on linemen, Coach Myers said.

It takes coaches to make a team. Kentucky's Kittens should be a hum-dinger. Assisting Myers this season are Joe Shepley, captain of last year's varsity and Bill McCubbin, scrappy end from last year's eleven.

Among the twenty-nine boys listed on the Kitten roster is black-haired Tommy Bell, Bell, as high school football fans remember, is the lad who literally set Kentucky's high school season on fire two years ago when he played at Lexington's Henry Clay. Bell comes to the University after a year's experience at Petty's prep school in New Jersey under the coaching of Larry Kelly, Yale's All-American end of a few years back.

fully to what the professors say, and parent. It back to them when you are called on to recite or when you take an examination. If you become interested in some course and develop ideas of your own, hide it from both your classmates and your instructor. It will make them uncomfortable and they will not like you. Don't be caught dead discussing something about your studies with a professor, because this is apple-polishing and no one approves of that.

Don't be a smart aleck and try to get ideas of your own, and don't try to connect anything you learn in school with anything you read in the newspapers. You are in college merely to have your mind disciplined and to make contacts, and it will spell the valuable effects of this training if you try to throw out of gear by making it with anything practical.

You will not have much time, because you will be little tempted to do anything more than memorize a sufficient number of sentences to achieve a passing grade. In some studies, to do these highly irregular things, because your professors will conduct your classes in such fashion that you will be little tempted to do anything more than memorize a sufficient number of sentences to achieve a passing grade. From The Hill

By FRED HILL

Visiting the Kaintuck camp and circles a week ago was Ed Danforth, premier Southern sportswriter and Lord High Mogul of the Atlanta Journal. Ex-Kentuckite, weather-beaten and caustic Mr. Danforth, who looks more like a veteran railroader than a scribe, was here to survey the Wildcat football activities as background for one of a series of articles on Southeastern teams. Probably the top sports man south of the Mason-Dixon line today, his word is almost law in these heat-prone hills—hence the bosses around the athletic department have been sitting on the edge of their chairs waiting to hear his opinion on their chances in the conference.

It came Tuesday in the form of a column dedicated to the Bluegrassians—and was downright enthusiastic, with probably his most favorable comments centering around the prowess of "Rough Robert" Herbert, the wildman from West Virginia who is starting to star as fullback for the Blue and White.

This is what he said: "This Bob Herbert, the sophomore fullback, is the best looking prospect your reporter has seen. He is the most explosive runner for a big man you ever saw. He is 190 pounds and loves to hit something. He runs like Father Lumpkin and, I may say, is about as mean. Kentucky uses a set similar to Notre Dame without the shift and he has the speed to run reverses. When he hits inside tackle he knocks them winding..."

Adding to what Mr. Danforth noted with actual proof gleaned from observation of his combat technique... Herbert was the top ground-gainer against Baldwin-Wallace with 77 yards—he toted the ball 6 times, averaged 13.8 markers to a go—made the longest Cat jaunt when he tramped on about every Yellowjacket in the line and backfield to roar 50 yards for a score.

This Xavier team we met Friday night may turn tough—seniors aren't forgetting the 1938 nightmare we lost, 26-7, in Cincy, but from all reports, they won't.

Georgetown gave them a tough battle last week before falling, 20-0—and if the Tigers' starting guard, John Chamberlain, played against them Friday and trekked to Lexington to see the Cats last Saturday, can be believed—well, we're quite some several scores better.

Still, let nobody forget that Coach Clem Crowe should know some Wildcat angles, having watched from the press box while the Big Blue routed their first Ohio opponent—and that the Muskies consider the Kentucky tilt their "game of the year."

After Xavier comes Washington and Lee—a team we've been tangling with off and on since 1899—and one who started a feud by clipping Coach Kirwan's cohorts their first year in harden—that was '38-8 to 0.

After that is the Vandy. The Nashville tribe has a new coach, Red Sanders, and their athletic set-up is undergoing a remodeling— plenty of first team power, but probably weak in reserves this season.

George Washington, with 17 men back from a thrice-defeated team, is boasting of big things. Their chances for an undefeated season may hang on the result of the duel with Kentucky—and, incidentally, keep your eyes on Murray "The Hat" Fedora, top back from all reports he'll be hard to handle.

From the Saturday afternoon we play G-W, the Kentucky athletic office is going to be a welter of prematurely grey heads—for the Big Blue starts taking on the nation's leading teams. It would be silly to try to tell anybody who ever bothered to read the football scores the type of squads schools like Georgia Tech, Alabama, Georgia, and Tennessee, not to mention Bill Kerns revamped West Virginia, will have. We may beat them all—more likely we'll only beat a part of them—personally I don't think anybody really can figure where Kentucky will end up this year.

CATS ARE RATED FIRST IN NATION

Ab Kirwan's Wildcats, after a smothering 59-7 victory last Saturday over a reportedly strong Baldwin-Wallace eleven, stand as the No. 1 team of the nation, Paul Williamson, football expert, announced yesterday in his weekly football ratings. Xavier university of Cincinnati, Kentucky's opposition tonight, were ranked 47 in the nation by Williamson.

If Williamson is right, and he was last week, picking 39 winners, 12 losers and two ties, Kirwan's crew should find easy pickings with the Muskies.

Second to Kentucky's 96.1 average was the abuzzing eleven from Boston College with a 91.6. In their opening week, the boys from Brighton bowled over Centre's Praying Colonels 40-0.

"Rough Robert" Herbert won't overtop Appalachian Teachers college, earned them the number three spot for this week. Listed among the top ten who receive honorable mentions, was the Washington and Lee crew, who invade Lexington tonight for a game with Kirwan's 'cats.

Wildcat Fullbacks Proved Potency Last Saturday

Despite the fact that his records can't show everything that goes on in a football game, a statistician is a pretty good man to have around. Anyway he can back you up in any hot make on the strength of Kentucky's fullbacks. The records prove their potency.

Together the three who saw action against Baldwin-Wallace last Saturday, senior "Dutch" Ismael, Junior Claude Hammond, and sophomore "Rough Robert" Herbert compiled a total of 209 yards in rushing plays from the line of scrimmage in only 19 starts. That's an average gain of 11 yards each time one of them grabbed the ball.

Herbert, a Fairmont, W. Va. husky who is about the fastest 190-pound fullback tall-rails have ever seen on Soil Field, was the biggest Cat ground-gainer with 77 yards to his credit. He toted the piskin 6 times, averaged 13 yards. His pay dirt was the knotting of the contest.

The number three fullback, Claude Hammond, weighing 175 pounds, was the team's second best "hardest man on the squad to bring down with a tackle", had the most yardage in rushing averages in four times, he traveled 64 yards for an average of 16 yards. He scored twice.

"Big Dutch" Ismael, in at the first of the game, while the Washington and Lee boys were in opposition to the powerful Blue Line, gained 65 yards in the nine tries, averaging a little over seven yards per try.

The Blue-ville plow-man set the stage for the first touchdown by driving straight through the center of the line and over most of the B-W team for 23 thrilling yards.

Intramural Football To Begin October 8

Tennis Tourney Also Will Open Next Month

Players and managers of intramural football teams are already anxiously awaiting the opening "kick-off" of the Intramural department's fall football program, scheduled to swing into motion October 8.

Conditioning and brushing up on the fundamentals of the game was started last week by the seventeen fraternity eleven, Cliff Bailey, senior manager, said yesterday.

A dozen Independent squads are expected to be entered by the time the entry dead-line closes at 5 p. m. October 3, raising the total number of teams participating to 20.

Tourney play will be conducted on a double elimination basis, and official football rules, copies of which are available at the Intramural office, will govern all games. Managers may make arrangements with the Intramural office for a practice field and footballs.

Rolling into action at the same time as the football tourney will be the fall doubles and singles tennis tournaments. Openings will be held by entry under way October 8, with the entry dead-line set for October 10.

Organization teams will be made up of six men, in singles and doubles.

Arrangements for the football tournament will be completed at a special meeting of fraternity and Independent managers at 4 p. m. October 3, in the Intramural office in Alumni gym.

"We need reserve material and plenty of it," Dr. Scott Breckenridge, coach of the fencing team, said yesterday in announcing the official meeting of fencing team candidates to be held at 4 p. m. Monday in the basement of Alumni gym.

Seven members of last year's team, which lost only one match, to Ohio State, were lost by graduation and ineligibility. Numerals and letters will be awarded members of the team at the completion of the season, Dr. Breckenridge said.

North Carolina will be the Kentuckians' opposition in the opening match, with Ohio State, Vanderbilt, Georgia Tech, and the University of Cincinnati following on the schedule.

ASU Will Meet

First ASU meeting of the semester will be held at 7:45 o'clock tonight in room 204 of the Union building, Peter A. Gragis, chapter chairman, announced yesterday.

A discussion of the emergency peace mobilization, which recently met at Chicago, will be held, and a talk given on the recent American peace mobilization at Washington, D. C., Gragis said.
