UK Faculty Rejects Proposed Calendar

The University Faculty rejected the proposed 1962-63 calendar at its first fall semester meeting yesterday.

The group also discussed at length the proposed University budget.

Dr. Frank D. Peterson, vice president for business administration, gave a lengthy and detailed explanation of the proposed budget for the next two school terms.

The proposed calendar was presented by Dr. Morris Scherago, head of the Department of Microbiology and chairman of the calendar committee. The faculty offered several amendments and objections.

Approval of a calendar was postponed until the next meeting in November.

Dr. Leslie L. Martin, dean of men, objected to the week's allowance in the calendar for Welcome Week activities. He said most new students attend the activities during the summer and that therefore there is no need for an entire week of activities in the fall.

He added that a recommendation had been made to the calendar committee for Welcome Week activities to be cut short.

Dean Martin said this year all freshmen had registered by Tuesday night of Welcome Week, leaving the remainder of the week for activities of the students.

Dean Martin suggested that classes start on Thursday, Sept. 13, instead of Monday, Sept. 17.

He said the early classes would cut the orientation activities of new students to a minimum for the first week, but that most freshmen will have attended the Welcome Week program in the summer.

Dr. M. M. White, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, suggested the final examinations for the fall semester be moved up to Jan. 18-23 instead of the proposed schedule of Jan. 19-24. The semester then would end on Wednesday, Jan. 23.

Members of the Faculty also objected to the starting of examinations the day after classes ended.

An objection was made to the proposed nine-day delay between the end of final examinations and the commencement exercises in June.

Dr. Peterson, explaining the new budget, used charts and graphs to tell about the breakdown of the proposed expenditures.

He emphasized that the "proposed amount to be spent by the University is in line with 15 colleges that are comparable to UK."

Some of the members wanted a further explanation of the budget at a later meeting. The University Faculty agreed to discuss the budget at a later meeting.

U.N. To Be Subject Of Blazer Lecture

Dr. Joseph Johnson, president of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, will speak on "The United Nations and the World Power Conflict" at 10 a.m. tomorrow in the Guignol Theatre.

The talk, second in the Blazer Lecture Series, will also be given at a Wednesday luncheon of the Patterson School of Diplomacy at Donovan Hall Cafeteria.

Dr. Johnson left the history department at Williams College in 1945 to join the U.S. Department of State where he served two years in the Division of the American Republics.

Later, he became chief of the Division of International Security Affairs where his main duty was creation and early operation of the international security machinery designed to make future wars less likely.

Professors Say Students Are Selfish

"If our Lord were teaching a philosophy class at UK, he would have trouble filling it on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday."

So believes Dr. Eugene Evans, professor of political science. The remark came during a panel discussion about the faults of UK students, part of the seventh annual Leadership Conference held last weekend at Camp Daniel Boone.

Other members of the all-faculty panel were Prof. Morris Clerley, Dr. J. W. Patterson, and Dr. J. Eduardo Hernandez.

The panel members were unanimous in finding UK students guilty of insufficient educational background and, in general, the same defects from which all society suffers.

Clerley, professor of education, maintained that the wrongs of students are identical with the wrongs of society. Students, he said, are selfish and lack convictions and ideals.

"But the youths of today are more responsible than those of any other generation," Prof. Clerley continued. "They are more delinquent, but then they have more ways of getting into difficulty."

Dr. Patterson, professor of English, who commented only briefly during the discussion, said that because former generations were not what they should have been does not excuse the students of today.

"This does not mean we are doing well enough," he continued. "I do not think we are."

Dr. Evans said students come to the University degree-oriented but not education-oriented.

He said that one of the most important goals to a student is obtaining a 2.0 standing. He added that the average student does not try to make himself a part of the intellectual process and expects to be taught rather than to learn.

In commenting on the use of the Margaret I. King Library, Dr. Evans said, "My impression of the library is that of a social gathering place. I used to refer to the library at the University of Illinois as a temple of fertility rites."

Dr. J. Eduardo Hernandez, associate professor of modern foreign languages, contended that another problem of students is the lack of sufficient educational backgrounds. He attributed this to poor high school teachers.

Following the discussion, Miss Vanda Marcum, chairman of the conference, said Dr. Hill Shine, professor of English, had asked that the delegates and professors discuss an honor system for the University.

Miss Marcum said Dr. Shine told her he felt the main problem of the student is his lack of responsibility. The English professor said he was interested in seeing an honor system started on this campus.

Three members of the panel did not believe such a system was needed. Dr. Hernandez and Dr. Evans said they felt students were basically honest. Prof. Clerley said he did not feel such a system would develop a sense of responsibility.

During the Saturday session, President Frank G. Dickey told the 64 delegates that an institution such as the University should fix its eyes on greatness.

The proposed budget increase, he continued, could help the University do this.

Delegates attended three different sessions on either religious life, student government, social life, scholarship, service programs, or spirit and morale.

In a convocation following the discussion, group leaders and faculty members summed up the problems brought out in each group.

Dr. J. W. Patterson, in summarizing a student government discussion, said the problem confronting Student Congress is a lack of communication which results in apathy and a feeling of not being involved in congress activities.

The problem of communication was also discussed in the "spirit and morale" discussion group. Dave Graham and Janet Lloyd, discussion group leaders, pointed out the lack of communication between Greeks and independents.

The student scholarship group listed four points it felt would aid scholarship.

1. Classrooms should open at night for study.
2. Buildings should remain open until 10 or 10:15 p.m.
3. A file of old tests should be kept in the Margaret I. King Library.
4. Students with an average of 3.5 or better should have unlimited out cards.

Engineering Dept. Commerce Seniors Given $37,000 To Sign For Interviews

The UK Department of Civil Engineering has been given a $37,000 grant from the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads and the Kentucky Highway Department.

This grant was given for the continuance of the department's work on an electronic truck weighing system. The system will do the weighing and recording of the weights automatically.

The department under the direction of Prof. David Blythe has been working on the project for over a year on a $20,000 grant.

In addition to the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads recent grant, it has also loaned UK a $25,000 instrument van from its road testing site at Ottawa, Ill.

If the system is perfected it will detect overloads as well as collect information on all axes which use the highway. This information will be helpful in the design of highways.

Near Mt. Vernon, Ky., is Great Saltpetre Cave where remains of mining operations dating from the War of 1812 may be seen.

Graduating seniors in the College of Commerce should sign for job interviews before Nov. 1, Prof. W. A. Tolman, head of the Commerce Employment Association, said.

"Bargains in Brains, a booklet containing the pictures of the graduating seniors and their qualifications is now being prepared. The purpose of this booklet is to help the seniors to attain better jobs upon graduation. Seniors wanting to have their pictures in "Bargains in Brains" should contact one of the following; Prof. Wm. Tolman; John A. Thompson, president of the C. E. A. or Frank DeSanto, auditor of the C. E. A.

World Series fever has hit the college set around Greater Cincinnati. Scores of Xavier, University of Cincinnati, Northern Center students, and even students from as far away as the University of Dayton have been enthusiastic members of the gigantic "Root the Reds Home" rallies held recently at Fountain Square in Cincinnati.

Along with the usual victory songs and banners, spur-of-the-moment inspirations included snake dances from the collegians

(the rallies were televised). Of course the after-effects are not as pleasant as one might expect—blood-shot eyes and that "after the night is over" feeling the next day. But then it's the first time in 21 years that the Reds have been a challenger for the World Series title and every real Reddie fan is delirious.

At the first rally over 30,000 fans were on hand to greet the 1961 National League pennant winners. The following Tuesday, part of the rally activities were televised coast to coast.

Northern Center students have been viewing the World Series games on a television set in the lounge and adding their own philosophies of the games.

Withholding The Returns

The Kernel has made a deliberate effort this semester to treat Student Congress as a mature legislative body. We have urged students to forget the congress' past failures and to offer the organization "more help, less criticism." All our efforts were guided by the hope, however faint, that someone might at last stumble over the long-veiled formula for successful student government.

But our hopes were wasted—so it would seem from observing the flippant fashion in which Wednesday's general elections were carried out. Voting irregularities were rampant. Campaigning, believe it or not, was often carried on within a few feet of the actual polling places. Election officials were not always well informed about election rules (one poll official told a voter he would have to vote 42 times on his Arts and Sciences ballot—once for each seat open in the college). And there was no attempt whatsoever to provide privacy for voters—no pretense of a secret ballot.

But one of the most galling low points of the entire election, beyond doubt, was the pompous refusal of the election committee to release partial returns from the College of Arts and Sciences. At 7:30 p.m. (Kernel deadline) Wednesday, fewer than half the votes from Arts and Sciences had been counted. A Kernel reporter requested that the partial returns be given her for publication in Thursday's Kernel.

It was not an unreasonable request. Newspapers have always published partial returns from free public elections—they could not do otherwise and still adequately inform the people. Incomplete returns were reported from the Lincoln-Douglas presidential election in 1860, just as they were reported from the Kennedy-Nixon contest in 1960. To put it succinctly, our reporter was not breaking precedent when she asked for partial returns.

But following a line of thought that still seems somewhat beclouded, Miss Jo Hern, chairman of the election committee, and John Williams, then chairman of the Judiciary Committee, told the reporter it would be "unwise" and "unfair" to publish partial returns. Williams added that incomplete returns would be "meaningless."

Obviously it has never seemed significant to Miss Hern or Williams that it has been the traditional role of any free newspaper to decide which facts merit publication. While certain facts (like incomplete election returns) may not contain the ultimate, illuminating truth, they are facts nonetheless. It is this newspaper's conviction that people have a right to know the facts, especially the facts about a public election, regardless of who calls those facts "meaningless."

Only in backward places kept by demagogues should election returns be hovered over in shadowed secrecy until a final total can be reached.

The Readers' Forum

'Paging The Past' Brings Readers' Comment

Takes Exception

To The Editor:

As a former "veteran staff member of the Kernel," I should like to take exception to the somewhat hackneyed comments of the unidentified writer of the article concerning "the big cartoon" of 1959 (Kernel, Oct. 3). Contrary to the author's statement, I can "turn (my) thoughts back to this week in 1959 without suffering some embarrassment, and a little consternation."

Since there is no one on the present Kernel staff who was intimately familiar with the cartoon in question (which, for the enlightenment of readers who may not have seen the cartoon or may not remember it, depicted a woman in an advanced state of impending motherhood being asked what she had done that summer), I can only assume that the writer fabricated the lead paragraph from his overactive imagination.

The "flood of letters" spoken of in that so-called file feature simply did not exist. The Kernel received one letter from a student who questioned the taste of the cartoon. Another letter writer questioned whether the young woman's summer activities could have brought her to the advanced state of pregnancy exhibited in the drawing. The astute reader noted that biology rules out the possibility of any summer misconduct's contributing to the pictured situation. There was a third letter written by the president of the University which sharply criticized the cartoon. It was not published as it was not directed to the Kernel editor. Three letters scarcely make a flood.

The editorial apology did appear in the Kernel, but one would have to stretch one's imagination to term it a retreat. Apology was extended to the one student letter writer whose delicate tastes were offended, no more, or less.

In the future, it would be well for your "Paging the Past" writer to leave all editorial comment to the editorial page and remain in his dusty cubicle reading and rereading old Kernels until he fully comprehends what he is writing about and is able to separate fact from fancy. Then, and only then, should he be permitted to come forth with his contribution to what is easily the most insignificant tangle of prose ever offered Kernel readers.

Wants 'Crusade'

To The Editor:

Today, as in past Student Congress elections, many didn't vote. I was one of them—for good reason.

What powers does the Student Congress possess? I didn't know, so I asked this question of several friends. They didn't know either. One remarked, "Damn little, but if they had some money of their own, they might have some." Pooling our ideas, we agreed that we thought their funds came from student activity fees, but we didn't know.

The point that I'm trying to make is: The number of sources of information on the UK campus is at an all-time low!

There is no point in voting for officers if you don't know what powers they possess or what they stand for.

Mr. Sipple's recent resignation received quite a bit of publicity, but the candidates for SC received almost none. The powers, aims, and basis of organization of SC have been given very little attention in the Kernel and elsewhere.

Incoming students receive little or no information concerning Student Congress. In time they end up, like my friends and I [sic], non-voters.

Student apathy (last year's song, this year's verse) will continue as long as the students remain uninformed.

So please, Mr. Editor, let's have a Kernel that is informative; one that is willing to "crusade" at the drop of an issue. It would be easy for you to simply say, "If you didn't vote, don't gripe!" Please don't! Instead, say: "We gave you the information—now, let's see you act!"

PAGING THE PAST Dr. Martin Foresees '61 'War Baby' Boom

Dean of Men Leslie Martin could have been classified as the prophet of all prophets this week two years ago, when he made the prediction that the "war babies" were expected to hit the colleges in September of 1961. He added that this would necessitate a continuous building program if UK was to grow with the student body.

This same week, UK set up new standards for admittance. It was to be requested that new students be recommended by their high school principals concerning the likelihood of benefiting by a college education.

Sportswise, the University was readying for an invasion by Billy Cannon and the LSU Tigers.

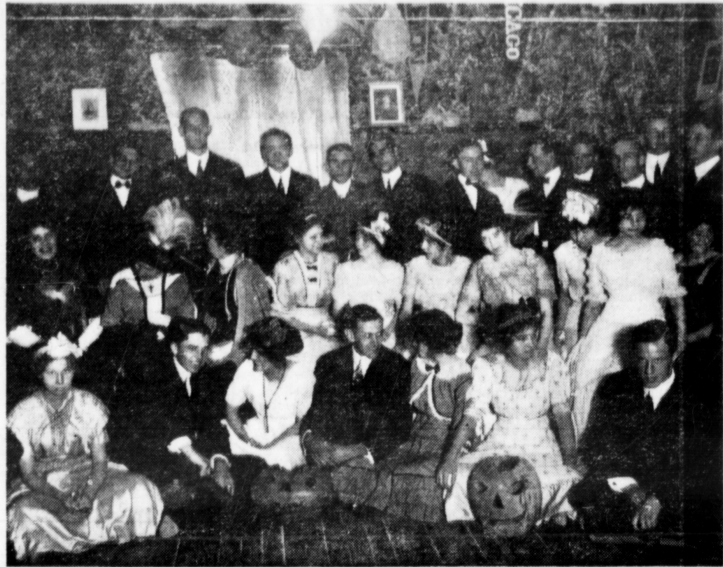

The married students of UK formed the Married Students Governing Council this week in 1959. The council was a merger of the Cooperstown Council and the Shawneetown Executive Committee.

An irate student wrote a letter to the Kernel, complaining that he had been studying by the light of a sorority house window, when he was rudely accosted and told to leave (to put it mildly). Reluctantly, but hastily, he grabbed his books and made retreating tracks.

In his letter to the Kernel, he aired his grievances. "After all," he related, "I was minding my own business."

The letter was signed—P. Tom.

Party Time At UK

Maybe the Phi Deltas of 1961 managed quite a show with the rose presentations to sorority pledges, but the Alpha Tau Omegas in 1912 reveal that they knew how to gather the coeds for an autumn party back in 1912. UK Archivists believe that a well-known Fayette county judge and a widely known Lexington bridge player are pictured in the front row of this happy assembly.

Cats' Victory Over Illinois Sparked Celebration In 1909

Forty-two years ago, the Idea, the student newspaper, was filled with news of the University's football team beating Illinois 6-2. An editorial praised Coach Sweetland, saying, "We cannot praise him too much or will we be able to show our appreciation."

When the news that UK had been victorious reached the campus "a strange body began to form." Students gathered at the gym "with nightshirts over their clothes and handkerchiefs on their heads." A procession headed by a drum corps and large banner with "Illinois, 2—State, 6" marched to the Phoenix hotel.

A snake dance was formed. The Idea says that it was "enlivened by many hideous shouts and yells." The crowd then proceeded to Hagerman College where "it was intended to entertain the young ladies with a choice selection of yells." Upon arriving though, the crowd quieted and left in an orderly manner. From there everyone returned to the dormitories.

The next day when the winning team returned, they were greeted by a circle of students "that filled the whole yard." Nine rahs were given for every player, manager, and the coach.

The players were then escorted home and, says the Idea, "although the weather was damp, everyone was happy."

Near Riots, Wall Cave-In Instill Memories Of Wild '49 Homecoming

Headaches and memories were plentiful this week in 1949, as the campus was recovering from a Homecoming blast which lasted even longer than the three allotted days.

A near riot before the game, and the Phi Delta house walls caving in afterwards, were two of the highlights of the wild weekend. A minor point of interest was the Cats' 25-0 victory over Georgia.

The coeds on campus were doing many flips over a freshman from Madisonville because he had been picked as a stand-in for a movie being filmed near Lexington. The frosh was to stand in for Sterling Hayden in portions of the movie "The Asphalt Jungle." Later, this same freshman was to be nationally recognized for his basketball prowess. The youngster's name—Frank Ramsey.

Dr. Elvis J. Stahr Jr., dean of the College of Law, rated a sixth page, one column spot in the Kernel because he had been interviewed by Look magazine.

About 94 percent of the passenger miles traveled in Kentucky by out-of-state tourists is by automobile. The national average is 90 percent.

Gynecologist Recommends New 'Eat Fat' Diet Plan

NEW YORK (AP)—Reducing diets are a dime a dozen these days.

As each ingenious plan is introduced to an ever-intrigued public, the corps of corpulent run practiced eyes over the suggested menus in small type—and usually peg the diet as more of the same: calorie-counting semi-starvation.

But Dr. Herman Taller, a Brooklyn gynecologist and obstetrician who licked his own weight problem, has a new concept. You eat fat to burn up body fat.

His principles may come as a shock to perennial dieters who have been preached the evils of fat most of their chubby lives. But after they've wrapped themselves around his substantial bill of fare, often the first full meals they've had in years, they're pushovers for polyunsaturates. It's a rare diet where you lose weight without a single hunger pang.

You eat large amounts of meat, fish and eggs—preferably fried in safflower or corn oil—plus the chaffers you never get on low-calorie diets. Your vegetables are limited to the non-starchy kind. Fruits, except for avocado (imagine that on a diet) and melon, are verboten. And so is everything that has practically any carbohydrate.

"The average American eats more carbohydrate than he should," says Dr. Taller. "By cutting carbohydrates, you're in no way endangering yourself. You're improving your health. They contain no essential substances that the body must have to repair itself. The energy they provide, thought quick, is limited."

He started with work done by others with animal fats, and extended the research into the polyunsaturated fats. The results of his labors first reduced Dr. Taller, then thousands of people who come to him as patients and end up sylphlike missionaries of the new non-calorie-counting creed. He has put his principles in a book, "Calories Don't Count" just published.

These days when calorie charts are learned more carefully than the multiplication table ever was, Dr. Taller boldly suggests scuttling the whole thing.

For the overwhelming majority a low calorie diet doesn't work, he says. If you do lose poundage, a lot of it is vital body tissue (with his diet you lose only fat) and you rarely can maintain your new weight.

Low calorie diets are medical and nutritional failures, as old hat as amulets and incantations, he says, because they do nothing to treat the cause of obesity.

For Dr. Taller, the villain is carbohydrates, the hero polyunsaturated fats. And obesity is simply the inability to handle carbohydrates.

Dr. Taller's two-prong attack: By cutting down on carbohydrates you help control the formation of fat within the body—and it's body fat that makes more body fat. The fatter you are, the faster you put on fat.

By increasing the fat intake,

Don't Eat

- Fruits (except those listed above).
- Fruit juices.
- Bread (except gluten).
- Starches (any kind or form).
- Sugar and sugar derivatives.
- Cakes, cookies, pastries.
- Candy and chocolate.
- Ice cream and ices.
- Alcohol.
- Vegetables rich in carbohydrates.

especially of unsaturated fats, you're increasing the breaking down of fats within the body. When you eat large quantities of unsaturated fats you stimulate body production of certain hormones which work to release fat stored around the body. Unsaturated fats keep your cholesterol down. You limit saturated or animal fats because of cholesterol.

"The disease of the fat man lies in the size of his fat deposits which act as a manufacturing purpose of this program is to reduce the size of fat deposits," he says.

Briefly, this is how his program works: An obese person eating large quantities of fat is stimulated to burn fat three times as strongly

Eat

- All meats (trim visible fat).
  - All fish (with oils and fats).
  - All kinds of cheese.
  - Eggs, preferably fried in safflower or corn oil.
  - Artificially sweetened carbonated soft drinks.
  - Coffee, tea.
  - Vegetables containing no more than 5 percent carbohydrates (cucumbers, tomatoes, mushrooms, green leafy types) in two 3-ounce servings at lunch and dinner. A baked potato, oozing with corn oil margarine, may be substituted.
  - Fruits containing no more than 5 percent carbohydrates (avocado, melon).
  - Gluten bread (dietetic product from which most carbohydrate removed).
- as a lean person. You lose until you reach your normal weight. Your body adjusts and operates as a lean body. But the high-fat program must be continued. Return to carbohydrates and you'll accumulate poundage.
- The most recently acquired fat goes easily. To get rid of long-stored fat is like blasting a tunnel through a mountain, he says. But it's just a matter of time until it goes too.
- "Certain fats have the property of inhibiting fuller fat formation in the liver and also in the fat deposits. The animal fats do this," he explains. "With the introduction of polyunsaturated fats, linoleic acid goes into the fat deposits and increases the release of fatty acids which burn body fats."

UK Maintenance And Operations, 1903

Posed in front of the old Central Heating Plant, to the rear of the Administration Building and near White Hall, the University's entire maintenance and janitorial crew showed the world that the campus would be kept spic and span in 1903,

Kentucky Upsets 14th-Ranked Auburn, 14-12; Clark Mayfield Kicks Decisive Extra Points

Kentucky's hard-hitting Wildcats sputtered to an upset 14-12 win over Auburn's bogged-down Tigers in a Saturday afternoon contest at Auburn, Ala.

The Wildcats, now owners of their first victory over Auburn since 1954, fought the heavily favored but fumbling Tigers to a standstill.

Once again the charges of Blanton Collier showed the distinct absence of the big scoring play once inside the opponent's 20-yard line. Running on four cylinders, the Cat offensive machine drove into Auburn territory time and again, only to have the cylinders sputter, cough, and stop once inside the 20.

Kentucky could not move the ball early in the game, but after an exchange of punts, a 15-yard penalty, and a 20-yard pass from Jerry Woolum to Tom "Guess Who" Hutchinson, the Cats had the ball on the 13.

Stopped there, Kentucky sent Clarkie Mayfield in to attempt a field goal. Once again fate frowned on the courageous Cats as Mayfield's attempt was blocked and scooped up by John McGeever, who waltzed 82 yards for a 6-0 Auburn lead.

Kentucky fought back. Dave Gash curled around a Bobby Hunt fumble and UK was in business on the Tiger 31. The Wildcats drove the distance on nine infantry plays, with sophomore fullback Perky Bryant taking it in from the one. Auburn's determined defense almost checked the Cats as it took Kentucky four plays to score from the three-yard line. Mayfield converted for a 7-5 lead.

For the remainder of the first half, Kentucky's slashing, smashing line smacked down everything the Plainsmen sent against it.

But with 1:15 left in the half, an Auburn back was jolted loose from the pigskin and Junior Hawthorne recovered on the 29. Penalties balanced for each club and Kentucky could not move against the unyielding Tiger line. Mayfield tried another field goal, but it just missed, twisting to the left, and Collier's men-in-blue took a 7-6 lead into the dressing room at halftime.

Fired up and vengeful, Auburn took the second-half kickoff and began to march, mainly on passes by quarterback Million Kent.

The drive ground to a halt when Darrell Cox intercepted a Kent pass on the UK 16.

Kentucky punted and fleet Jim Burson gathered in the ball, eluded tacklers, and broke into the open. Just as he crossed the 40, he was smacked hard from behind by Perky Bryant and fumbled with Cat guard Jim Hill pouncing on the ball.

Immediately Woolum fired upfield, but Burson cut across, intercepted the pass, and moved 42 yards behind fine blocking to the 16. Bryant once again nabbed the Plainsman speedster from behind.

The Cat forward wall threw back two ground attacks, and Auburn Coach Shug Jordan sent in his sophomore passing ace, Kent. Kent blazed a strike to end Dave Edwards for the score. Edwards was playing solitaire in the end zone—no Wildcat near him. Woody Woodall missed the point after again and Auburn held a 12-7 advantage.

Again and again Woolum led his blue-clad eleven into scoring territory, but could not score.

Then the big break came—Auburn fumbled (for the fourth time) and Hutchinson recovered it on the Auburn 21. Staying on the ground, Kentucky moved to the six, aided by a good run by Bill Ransdell. With a must fourth-and-six situation, Woolum dropped back and hit "Guess Who" Hutchinson with the big pass and the Cats held a 13-12 lead, which be-

Credit for Kentucky's win must go to a proud, fighting line that after being whipped by Miami, has completely dominated games with Ole Miss and now Auburn. So vicious was the line charge that the Tigers were held to a minus-24-0 to Nebraska.

Lambda Chi Upsets Delta Tau Delta; 5 Frats Still Unbeaten In Flag Play

Lambda Chi Alpha, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, Alpha Gamma Rho, Kappa Alpha, and Phi Delta Theta continued their winning ways in Intramural Flag Football last week. All have a 2-0 mark.

Lambda Chi recorded the biggest upset of the young season as they upended heavily favored Delta Tau Delta, 20-13.

Lambda Chi scored first when Harold Jetter tallied from 18 yards out on an option play. Claude Chaffin added an extra point run for an 8-6 lead.

The Delts scrambled back on the arm of quarterback Juddy Heath. Heath also caught the extra-point pass and made the score 8-7, Lambda Chi, at the half.

The two teams matched TD's in the third quarter; the Delts scoring on a 20-yard pass from Knight to end Lamar Herrin, and Lambda Chi scoring on a pass from Chaffin to Dave Davies.

Then with two minutes left, Lambda Chi startled onlookers as they took a 20-13 lead. This TD came on a Chaffin pass to Davies, who made a diving catch at the end zone line.

The Delts tried to come back on the excellent arm of Knight, but a length-of-the-field touchdown pass was called back and Lambda Chi had its win.

AGE rode the passes of Tom Gobel to a 15-0 win over Triangle. Gobel tossed TD passes to Garnett Crask and Tom Quisenberry, and an extra-point toss to Earl Campbell.

Sigma Phi Epsilon gained a slim win over Phi Kappa Tau on first downs. The game was knotted at 13-13 when the Sig Eps countered one more first down than the Phi Taus, and under IM rules were awarded the game. Frank DeSanto and Jim McGary scored for the Sig Eps, while Tom Scott threw scoring passes to Tom Bright and Jerry Goode for the Phi Kappa Tau points.

The KA's remained undefeated with a second half touchdown to eke out an 8-0 win over Pi Kappa Alpha.

Kappa Sigma won another first down affair as they out-first-downed Phi Gamma Delta, 4-3, to get the winner's nod. The score was tied, 6-6, at game's end.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon managed a 22-14 triumph over hard-fighting Alpha Tau Omega and pushed its record to 2-0.

Defending champion Phi Delta Theta continued to roll over everything in sight as it simultaneously scored its second win and second shutout, a 21-0 romp over Zeta Beta Tau. The big rugged Phi Delts seem to be gaining momentum with each game and appear headed to another crown. Featuring outstanding passing and running quarterback Tom Utley, and end Jack Davis, the Phi Delts have a powerful offense to go with an equally strong defense.

Yanks Cop World Series With 13-5 Win Over Cincy

By The Associated Press

The New York Yankees jumped on Cincinnati pitchers Joey Jay and Jim Maloney for five runs and six hits in the first inning and coasted to a 13-5 win to become the World Champions.

Cincinnati was never in the game after the first inning, even though Frank Robinson blasted a three-run homer and Wally Post a two-run homer.

John Blanchard and Hector Lopez reached the bleachers for the heavy-hitting Bronx Bombers.

Winning the series, 4-1, the Yankees showed their vaunted power for the first time against Red pitching.

Yankee manager Ralph Houk piloted his club to the pennant and World Championship in his first year as head of the Yanks, and is certain to be named "manager of the year".

The only bright spot in the series for Cincinnati was the pitching of Joey Jay when he beat the Yanks, 6-2, in the second game. Yesterday, he just didn't have it.

Our job is providing communications of all kinds, wherever needed—whether in the northern snows to flash word of possible enemy missile attack, or in your home or college, or in serving the nation's business.

When we can't fill a need off the shelf, then we start fresh and create the answer to the problem. We've done that hundreds of times.

We began transatlantic radiotelephone service in 1927. Then we developed the world's first undersea telephone cables to speed calls between continents.

We handled the world's first telephone conversation via satellite. And we have started development of an important world-wide communications system employing satellites.

When industry and government needed a way of gathering huge amounts of coded information from distant points, we were ready with our vast telephone network and Data-Phone, which can transmit mountains of data at extremely high speeds.

And so it goes—Long Distance service, Direct Distance Dialing, the Transistor, the Solar Battery—a succession of firsts which goes back to the invention of the telephone itself.

Universal communications—the finest, most dependable anywhere—are what we deliver. Inside: for home, office, or plant. Outside: on land, under the sea, through the air.
