We Retract An Obituary

Just about the time everyone has resigned himself to the fact that UK would be pitiless during the spring semester, the Civil Aeronautics board changes its mind and decides Kentucky might be pretty deserving at that. The news is now that we'll have the flying course after all, perhaps even as early as March 1. Needless to say, it's pretty embarrassing to have to retract the obituary we published on Tuesday, but in this case it's a welcome retraction. Which statement, in view of general student enthusiasm, needs no interpretation. So we'll just let Tuesday's thank-you to Doctor Cooper stand as is, and alter the platitudes to-the-students department to read: All things come to him who only stands, etc.

Two Theories Which Break Down In Practice

In the past couple of days we have heard several UK students say they think their organizations ought not be expected to contribute to the Community Chest. The two explanations offered for this attitude are: 1) "Some of our parents subscribe in our home towns, and we don't think it is fair to ask them to pay twice," and 2) "our organization already pays taxes; why should we be expected to come across again for something we've already paid for?"

No both of these, we will admit, are very beautiful and doubtless comforting theories. The trouble is, they both break down miserably in actual practice.

To begin with, in the drive by the student Chest committee no individuals—only organizations—are asked to contribute. Practically all the organizations approached have separate funds of their own, apart from the allowances of their individual members. They are in every sense autonomous; that is, they are not a part and parcel of the folks back home. They exist as University institutions and also—since the University is situated at Lexington—as Lexington institutions.

The folks at Cow's Lick, therefore, may very well contribute to the Cow's Lick Community Chest; but such an act—good as it is—does not entitle them to say they have also contributed to the Lexington Chest on behalf of Son John's fraternity at the University of Kentucky. Nor does it entitle Son John's outfit to use at the same time.

And in the second place, city and county taxes and the Community Chest do not overlap. The Chest funds take care of those charitable institutions and health organizations which America's citizens have long since decided would be better off under private support than they would be under government support.

It obviously would be a comparatively simple matter for U. S. cities and counties to raise their tax rates and take over control of such agencies as crippled children's hospitals, founding's

Not Waves, But Undertow

BEHIND IVIED WALLS BY ALLEN E. WINTER

This is a confession of faith. It is as sincere and heartfelt as Anne Morrow Lindbergh's The Wave of the Future.

The chapters of world history are marked by thousands of accounts about man's constant struggle for "peace and happiness." These chapters also relate of the "realization" of great causes and the arrival of "Utopias." And then they tell of how these "Utopias" melted away before the heat of more wars.

The tragic chapter being written today in Europe and in America is that of another "Utopia," which was born after The World War of 1914-18, and is now being melted to liquid by barbarous fires.

These fires not being kindled by demons any different than those who kindled the old ones. Nor is the character of the flame different, for it flares from embers which have glowed long and dangerous in man for centuries.

Anne Morrow Lindbergh looks at the world dilemma as a great wave which will bring a new order to mankind. At the top of this wave there is scum, or the dictators of Europe, who were merely foul oozing at the crest and who will themselves eventually become submerged.

Anne Morrow Lindbergh is wrong. We are always riding a wave of the future; but the wave we are upon today is not only covered with scum . . . it is scum at the middle and scum at the bottom. There is not a drop in it that is not scum. The "wave" which we are riding is actually not a wave but is really a backwash, an undertow carrying the scum of foul orders that have maintained in the world for centuries. When this wave passes over us there will be no brief moment of pain and then peace and the "good life." For the designs of the dictators are not short-lived ones, nor are they made to live only while the present conflagration lasts.

It is true, as Mrs. Lindbergh says, no matter which side "wins" this war there will be a change. It takes no magnanimous person to understand this. But this change will be of a treacherous type if the fascist side wins; it will be less treacherous if the "democratic" side wins. Mrs. Lindbergh foresees the same change no matter which side wins; she is wrong. For with an allied victory there can be change with reason. But, regardless of which side wins, man need never accept these changes as the "best changes."

To accept things without any effort at guidance is the state of mind the German machine wishes to instill in its enemies. "Accept our methods as the best. There can be nothing better." This state of mind is dangerous. It is fatal. Mrs. Lindbergh has become a victim to it.

No, we are not riding any wonderful wave of the future the way Mrs. Lindbergh sees it. We are fighting a backwash, the undertow of weaknesses which have not their solution in waves of fascism.

Mrs. Lindbergh is wrong. The wave of fascism is not sugar beneath the surface.

Half Minute By Elevator . . .

Four floors up in McVey hall—seven flights of steps if you walk, 29 seconds if you take the elevator—are the University radio studios.

Very few people, we have found, have ever taken the trouble to go upstairs to investigate this literal "voice of the campus"—a sad commentary on the constructive inquisitiveness of UK. Fewer still seem aware of the fact that the University of Kentucky studios are now recognized in radio circles as having outranked all other college broadcasters in the nation. That sounds like a pretty large order, but statistics prove it.

For example, of the 468 presentations planned for the first half of this year, 140 will go out over the coast-to-coast network of the Mutual Broadcasting System. This, needless to say, is an intercollegiate record.

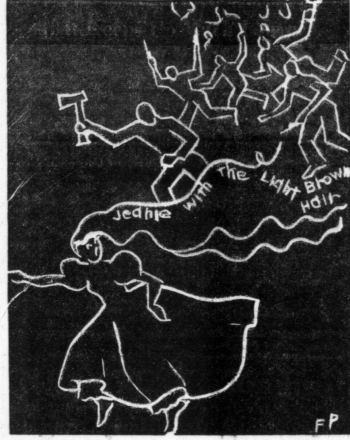

In addition to this national hookup Mutual's Southern network will carry approximately 100 UK programs—in addition to the daily programs carried by WHAS, WLAP, and several other Kentucky stations.

But you don't have to take our word for it; or even the word of the above statistics. Numerous others—most of them persons not connected with the University in any way—have noticed the studios' zombing prestige, and have commented favorably.

To sample: the radio columnist of the Louisville Courier Journal recently wrote, "In view of the fact that university programs must necessarily be educational and informative and at the same time maintain variety and a certain amount of entertainment, UK's broadcasting schedule is the most elaborate and ambitious we know of . . . We shall be interested in seeing exactly how the University of Kentucky handles this problem, particularly in its coast-to-coast broadcasts."

To date the studios have done a most admirable job of handling "this problem"; and judging from statistics again, it wouldn't take you very long to dash upstairs to see for yourself just how they go about it.

If It Keeps Up Much Longer

Wise . . . and otherwise

"University students today are a picked group," says a writer on educational subjects. After being relieved of sums for tuition, books, fraternity bids, YMCA and Community Chest, brother, "picked" is just the word.

Sign posts along the road to culture: Captain Easy in "Wash Tubbs" has started calling them saboteurs instead of saboteurs.

Wendell Willkie is returning from his little jaunt to London to make sure there really is a war going on over there, and to expect Germany to resume bombing the city any day now.

In view of the University Senate's decision that the women's drill team is "not of a worthwhile nature," it might be appropriate to change their name to "Pershing Trifles."

We like to read good literature because we always find out so many interesting things. For instance, John Dos Passos' "The Short Parable," mentions . . . Athens, Kentucky, where they have a hill called the Acropolis exactly the way it is in Athens Greece and culture and a reproduction of the Parthenon just like it is in Athens Greece. This should be a revelation to folks from Athens.

According to some military observers, the airplanes sent from the United States are poorly armed and not at all suitable for frontline warfare. Bungles to Britain?

A milk bottle has been placed in the Union grill to receive contributions to the milk fund of the Lexington Cooperative club. A helpful soul has written in beside the name of the sponsor, "not a campus or peninsula."

Possibility of a rosy party is suggested in this announcement in the colored notes of a local paper: "A lemon square benefit social will be given at the home of Sister Johnson for the Gethsemane Baptist Church."

On The Air

By JOHN SUTTERFIELD
The backbone of the UK Radio studios musical program is the studio orchestra. Although their names are never mentioned on the air, the members of the orchestra are probably the most important factors in a musical broadcast. Did you know that for a fifteen or thirty minute broadcast they sometimes rehearse for two or three hours? Four days each week they broadcast until 2 o'clock and two nights they rehearse from 7:35 to 10:30. It's under-

Tennessee's Student Newspaper Defends Anti-Rupp 'Heckler's Row'

CAMPUS SCENE By BUSH BROOKE

Even though it should run on the sports page, the leadoff spot in the weekly scanning of the college exchanges in this column will be dedicated to the basketball fiasco down at Knoxville a couple of weeks ago.

As you probably recall, the game was preceded with an avalanche of hallway about the University of Tennessee's celebrated "heckler's row." Well fortified with this advance stimulation from some press agent, the row of scorners was in rare form for the Wildcats, and the Cats lost to the Vols.

After the game, Adolph Rupp, the Cats' ringmaster, deplored the practice as not conducive to the best basketball sportsmanship. That's where we pick up the loose ends of the story. According to the school paper, the "heckler's row," a story appeared in several Tennessee papers the morning after the game quoting Coach Rupp as saying he would ask the University of Kentucky President to sever basketball relation with the Vols.

The later denial by Coach Rupp was greeted with "A chorus of horse laughs," the paper said. "When and if Rupp ever wants to quit playing the Vols on the hardwood, it will be because Tennessee is proving too much for the Wildcat outfit." We agree with the paper that the Tennessee-Kentucky game is one of the most colorful traditional rivalries in the nation, but we are disinclined to agree that Rupp will be the first to toss in the towel if and when basketball relations between the Vols and the Cats are ever broken.

In defense of the heckler's row, the writer said "those hecklers had a perfect right to do as they pleased as long as they kept their seats, and if Kentucky fans choose to ride the Vols at Lexington, that is their privilege. Rupp brought on most of those boos and wisecracking by his recent utterances in the daily press deploring the lack of color in Dixie basketball. To the best of our knowledge, the heckling section was composed of Tennessee alumni and others who are rather prominent in local society."

The recent tack of the "all out aid-to-Britain" policy of the present administration to the

"lend-lease" proposal currently pending before exchanges. Although many favor the continuation of aid to Britain, they attack the "lend-lease" bill. Representative of the opinion is that of the Daily Tar Heel, of North Carolina.

Although many view H. R. 1776 as a good thing for the United States, the Tar Heel sees only regrets in the legislation. By making President Roosevelt the "sole executive of the arsenal of democracy," American armaments may be used as he sees fit. Even short term power to lend or lease would "scuttle our security," the paper asserts.

Under the plan, "British ships would be repaired in American seaports," and "warships for Britain would be built in this country." Sabotage to this construction would serve to amplify the all ready growing war hysteria. The Tar Heel declares. The suggestion that American vessels and warships serve to carry the material to Britain would only be asking for a provocation to declare war, the editorial states. Congress has excited much discussion in campus

Up in Oxford, Ohio, at Miami university, the students have a way at getting by with the etherizing of ASCAP songs. The Miami Student relates how barred songs are "legally" broadcast by students through wireless phonographs. These machines blare forth with "Pompton Turnpike," "Stardust," and other dast gathering favorites four and five hours a day. Boycotted records include "I Hear a Rhapsody" and Jeanie With The Light Brown Hair."

The Daily Orange of Syracuse says the public has been "taken in." The Daily Nebraska believes that ASCAP monopolies is "not too healthy a thing. Music lovers are getting angry at BMI for not having what they want, and at ASCAP or denying them the right to hear their favorite songs." The Daily Iocon says that public opinion will force a showdown in the whole case. The paper believes that ASCAP ultimately will be the victor, unless BMI can supply the musical public with an increasing number of good popular songs.

Margaret Armsparger, Arts and Sciences sophomore. The royalties demanded by ASCAP are much too high. Radio is getting along just as well as it did when it used ASCAP music. "Of course, everyone is tired of hearing Jeanie With The Light Brown Hair," but BMI—Broadcasting Music, Inc.—will soon replace it with much better tunes.

Green's carpet industry was introduced largely by modern-day refugees from Turkey.

They Say . . .

By JAY WILSON
QUESTION: What is your opinion of the present controversy between ASCAP and Broadcasting Music, Inc.?

Donald Norman Gallogay, Arts and Sciences junior: The ASCAP—American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers—is effecting its own downfall by demanding more money of radio. The royalties lost during the dispute will seriously cripple this organization.

John L. Taylor, Arts and Sciences sophomore: The music which radio stations are permitted to present during this quarrel is decidedly inferior to that furnished by ASCAP. Most of the songs heard over current programs have been hurriedly written by young song writers, in an effort to replace the loss of ASCAP tunes, which composed 80 per cent of radio's music.

Running Wild

By JOHN SAMARA

When the curtain rises on the first of five consecutive home court games in Alumni gym Saturday night there should be a capacity crowd to watch the Crimson Tide of Alabama try to avenge their defeat of last Monday night. The game is a "natural" from any angle viewed.

Hank Crisp and his gang, still seething over the gunshot that robbed them of the tying tally in Tuscaloosa, will be ready to jump the gun this time and get off to a flying start.

The Wildcats, on the other hand, will be in there trying to hold on to their one-game margin of victory for the season (eight wins, seven losses) and more, raise their Conference standing in second place now, behind Florida. To date, the cagemen have won three conference games, over Vanderbilt, Georgia Tech and Alabama, and dropped one to the Vanierites.

Rupp Expected To Be On Hand

The close over the Tide Monday night enabled the Cats to return home from their first road-trip-without-a-loss with two conference scalps, and gave Assistant Coach Paul S. McBrayer a potent pill to bring home to "Ailing Adolph" Rupp, The Man in the White Suit, in Good Samaritan hospital. It is hoped that under the good influence of that pill, Coach Rupp will once again change to his customary Brown Suit and be on hand for Saturday night's set-to.

Another invalid, sophomore sharpshooter Milt Tico, is expected to be on hand to get more ardent Tuscaloosa ballsters. And just to show the incoming Tide that our hospitality will not be entirely of the distasteful variety, Director C. W. Maguire has promised to bring out his "B.B.D." to soothe the ruffled spirits of the southerners whenever the going gets too rough.

Cats Meet Mississippi Next

Following the Alabama vendetta, the Wildcats have a date with Miss-issippi, the glamorgal of the Southeastern conference, on Monday night, and on that same "Lover's Lane"—Alumni Nook, too. After the Alabama fracas, this should resemble a scene from Romeo and Juliet, but the Cats promise not to get any ticks for parking.

This year's brood of Cage Kittens will make their season's debut in Alumni gym Monday night, preceding the love scene, with the Georgetown Frosh as their opponents. The Kittens are being boomed as a likely crop of sucklings, and boast an imposing record so far this season, brief though it may be.

They triumphed over Ashland Junior College by a 63-41 score to open their season, then went on to take the measure of Cumberland Junior college by a 65-40 count. Warming to their task, the Kittens went down to Lancaster to play a charity game with the Grayson County All-Stars. The score? Well, we're almost afraid to mention it. The Kittens, it seems were in such a charitable mood that they just gave their philanthropic "all"—and ran up 100 points to their opponents' 29.

Pershing Riflemen Give Exhibition

Members of Company C, Pershing Rifles, opened training in preparation for the defense of their Fifth corps area drill championship by giving an exhibition before Fort Knox officials and state recreation leaders last week in Louisville's Jefferson County armory.

The annual inter-state regimental drill meet will probably be held in April, Major John E. Brannon of the military department, announced Monday.

About 50 men will be selected from the 120 candidates remaining of the 200 aspirants who applied at the beginning of the school year. The final selections will be made within the next 60 days.

Catholics To Meet

The University Catholic club will attend Mass at 9:30 a.m., Sunday at St. Catherine's academy, George Riley, president, announced yesterday. Breakfast and a brief business meeting will follow in the academy dining hall.

Catfish Set Three Records, Swamp Murray By 48-24

Murray Salvages Only Two Firsts In Cats' Opener

Kentucky's Catfish started their 1941 swimming season off with a resounding splash Monday night and when the tidal-wave had subsided Murray had been engulfed by 48-42, with three new pool records established by Kentucky swimmers.

Frank Blazorn set a new pool record of 22.8 seconds for the 60-yard free style while his teammate Gilbre style while his teammate Henry Hillenmeyer captured the 90-yard free style with a new record of 52.8 seconds. Gilbert Wymond, swimming in his last meet for Kentucky, broke the existing 210-yard free style mark in two minutes, 30.5 seconds.

Murray Takes Two Murray was able to salvage only two events from the flood of Kentucky wins. Jones took the 420-yard free style in six minutes, 4.5 seconds, but Hillenmeyer finished a bang-up second. In Murray's other winning attempt, the Seahorse 270-yard relay team was victorious in three minutes, 58.8 seconds.

Murray conceded the 210-yard breast stroke and the diving events to the Catfish in order to be at full strength in the 270-yard medley relay, but Gene Hildner, Grayson, Rood, and Hillenmeyer combined to win in three minutes, 24.2 seconds.

Wymond Takes Backstroke Wymond finished first and third in the 100-yard backstroke event with Wymond and deRoode in the event time of two minutes, 15.4 seconds.

Individual scoring honors for Kentucky went to Wymond and Hillenmeyer who tied with a total of 10 points each.

Museum Pieces Transferred To New Quarters

By BOB CONWAY

Museum facilities of the University have been expanded with the establishment of a new zoological museum in the basement of the Biological Sciences building.

The zoological specimens found in this museum were formerly on exhibit in the museum anthropology in the old library building, but were transferred to their new location early this fall. Expansion of the two museums affords opportunity for expansion, which was difficult under the old setup. Dr. W. R. Brant, the museum professor in the zoology department, said.

More Funds Expedited The museum's present arrangement is only temporary, Dr. Allen stated; further improvement will be made with the appropriation of additional funds by the state legislature. Collection of specimens and equipment was begun as far back as 1880, which necessitates a need for modernization of facilities.

Chief attraction of the museum is the skeleton of the great Kentucky thoroughbred horse, Hanover. Foaled on the Runnymede Stud farm, Bourbon county, in 1884, Hanover won 32 races during his career, was second 13 times, and third 3 times.

Called the greatest racehorse and sire of his time, he won $1,012 for his owners. Hanover died at the McGrath farm in 1909, the property of Col. Milton Young.

Birds Exhibited There is a special exhibit of many birds, ranging from the tiny hummingbird to the mighty eagle. Other exhibits include skeletons of gorillas, monkeys, sloths, bats, and a number of rare vertebrates. Preserved in alcohol are many varieties of snakes together with a large collection of invertebrates of all classes and orders.
