Dear Fred:

To me the first and foremost satisfaction in the practice of medicine is to be able to live with one's own conscience and feel that one is practicing as good medicine as his training and ability will permit. I am sure you have always had that satisfaction. The second greatest reward is recognition by one's fellow practitioners. The highest manifestation of this is election to the presidency of the American Medical Association. May I extend my sincerest congratulations to you for this honor which you so justly deserve?

Kindest personal regards,

Sincerely,

Doctor Fred W. Rankin
