Sophomores Will Battle Freshmen This Afternoon In Annual Tug-of-War

Struggle Will Take Place on Stoll Field at 3 o'clock; All Classes to Be Dismissed at 2 o'clock

FROSH WON LAST YEAR
Two Three-Inch Fire Hose Will Be Played Between Struggling Warriors

"Doomed to be dragged through converging streams of water from two three-inch fire hoses, the team is beat man win," reads the sentence of the Men's Student Council for the loser of the annual frosh tug-of-war which takes place this afternoon at 3 o'clock on Stoll field.

All classes will be dismissed at the end of the fifth hour, this afternoon in order to permit evenness to rain watering seats before the battle begins.

The "two three-inch hose" decree is a new howl in the same franchise designated to add force to the usual wetness which has accompanied the former struggles over Clifton pond near the Men's dormitory. The proper mud setting will be supplied by the torn sod of the Wildcat practice field.

At present there is no favorite in this event. Last year the sophomores favored and the frolicking frosh came along and kicked the dope bucket and seventeen different ways. They kicked the sophs an equal number of different ways into the depths of Clifton pond.

According to the plans for the tug-of-war this year, the sophs and frosh will have an equal number of participants. They will line up on the opposite ends of the historic steel cable and at the signal will pull according to their desire to retire from the field in a dry condition.

The incentive for "pull and lots of it" will be in charge of a three-inch fire hose which will be connected to the fire plug on Winslow street. Standing on opposite sides of the cable, they will be connected by a water directly across it, midway between the warring students.

If the affair is a walk-away, only one class will be allowed to use the product of the city water company. However, if the struggle should lapse into one of the harassing give-and-take battles, the

Doctor Crane to Address Student Body Tuesday

Well-Known Minister to Speak at General Convocation and Three Other Meetings; Public Is Invited

The second convocation of the year will be held in the Men's Gymnasium, Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock, when Dr. Henry H. Crane, of Malden, Mass., will address the student body. Doctor Crane will be introduced by Pres. Frank McVey, who will preside at the convocation. Following Doctor Crane's address, Prof. Carl Lampert will conduct the singing of hymns, and George Arkwell will sing a solo. The benediction will be pronounced by Dr. C. C. Eaton.

Doctor Crane is the pastor of the Centre Methodist Episcopal church in Malden, and is one of the outstanding religious speakers of the day. His pleasing personality is well known to the students of many of the schools where he has spoken. Pres. William Hutchins, of Berea College, says of him:

"He is one of the two or three most intelligent and effective speakers on religion whom we have had in Berea. Dr. H. H. Taylor, business manager of Berea College, writes of Doctor Crane:

"He is accustomed to speaking before audiences of university students and has the faculty of getting his message across without obtruding his personal views or sickening his audience with the usual religious evangelistic talk. Personally, I think he is one of the strong men of the United States."

The University of Kentucky extends an invitation to the public to attend the series of talks to be given in the Men's Gymnasium, Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Wednesday night at 7 o'clock.

Doctor Crane will leave Thursday for Malden, Mass., Tenn., where he will be one of the speakers at the Hlanton Conference of Methodist Episcopal Churches.

Prof. H. H. Downing Back From Chicago

Spends Sabbatical Year in Research Work on Calculus Variations

Professor H. H. Downing, of the department of mathematics, who has spent the past fifteen months at the University of Chicago working on his doctor's degree, has returned to Lexington to resume his work at the university this year. Although it had been more than seven years since his previous leave of absence, Professor Downing took last year as his sabbatical year. He was accompanied by his family, who made their home in Chicago while he was studying.

Professor Downing received his bachelor of civil engineering degree in 1908 at the University of Kentucky and his master of science degree at the University of Chicago eight years later. When he returned to Chicago in June '26 for his Ph. D. degree, he took with him some of his required courses and languages and part of his residence.

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES CAPTURES HONORS

ATHLETES PREDOMINATE
Largest Vote Cast in Election Is by Sophomore Class

Campus prognostications were upset this week in the election of class officers for the year. For the past few years it has seemed impossible for an Arts and Sciences student to be artistic enough to use his science in a political campaign.

Gayle Mooney, well-known in college athletics, and one of the luminaries of the Wildcats this year, was elected to the presidency of the senior class over King, Bryant and Bullock. Mooney has shown his ability on the football field, has been chosen as an all-Southern man in basketball circles, and he has made an excellent scholastic record. He is a member of the Alpha Epsilon Delta, was elected vice president.

Another backfield man was shoved into the limelight when the junior class elected Elmer "Baldy" Gibb of Newport to pilot their ship for the coming year. Gibb's standing as a student also makes him an "all-around man." He was opposed by W. D. Simpson. Miss Lucille Short, a Chi Omega, was chosen for vice president over Miss Margaret Simpson.

The largest vote cast in the election was by the sophomores in naming another "Cat," Will Ed Covington, of Mayfield, freshman member of the Phi Kappa Psi, as their leader. Miss Sara Lynn Tucker, a Kappa Gamma, won the vice president.

Fat Alberts of Winchester, a Tri-Alpha pledge, was elected president of the freshman class, and Miss Ruth Bonnin, a pledge of the Alpha Gamma Delta, vice president.

The program on secondary education will be held in the auditorium of the City Stand, Tuesday, October 18, at 8 o'clock. The program is being presented by the University of Kentucky, University of Tennessee, Eastern Teachers College, Richmond.

Florida Is Favorite Over Scrappy Blue and White Eleven; Kentucky Was Victorious 18-13 Last Year

THIRTY-THREE MAKE TRIP

Gators Have Heavy Line; Team Is Given Wounding Send-off Wednesday Night

Yesterday morning the team paraded breakfast in Atlanta and that afternoon at 1:30 o'clock trotted onto a playing field which the honorable sports editor of the Atlanta Georgian, Ed Danforth, has secured for the chance of the Blue and White to a tentative signal drill and limbering up exercise.

Late yesterday afternoon the team again boarded their special car and departed for Jacksonville, where this afternoon their second session of signal drill will be held. With the Kerenski team should be able to stand up under the long train ride.

Florida will out weigh the scrappy little Wildcats and will be the favorite when the game starts. The sweltering heat which is predicted for the Southern city this week may prove fatal to the chances of the Blue and White as Coach Ganage's men are in none too good condition.

Gibb and Dees will be two who are absent from the starting line-up and these two may not see action. Both were hurt in the Wesleyan game and have been out of uniform for the Kentucky game. The Blue and White will take Gibb's place and Pence will act as center.

The 'Gators' decisive defeat of Auburn in their last Saturday, sent Florida soaring to the sky and the Florida are out for their second conference victory. The Wildcats were the only team to win a victory before the Gators dropped the Tigers but now the Florida eleven looms as the better of the two. Last year the Gators defeated the Gators by the count of 18 to 13 and J. A. Murphree, scout of Florida, who saw Kentucky play the Gators last year, said that Gainesville aggregation was determined to even up affairs.

Those who are on the trip are: Coach Danforth, Dr. Dees, Pence, Scott, Belt, Bickel, Van Meter, Drury, Walters, Jenkins, Mooney, Scott, Ellis, Curry, Ford, Gibb, Miller, Conner, and the Kerenski team. The Kerenski team will be in charge of the game.

Kentucky's starting line-up will be: Mooney and Lyons, ends; Drury and Pence, guards; Pence, center; Ford, quarterback; Jenkins and Portwood, halfbacks; Scott or Ellis, fullback.

New Stroller Officers Are Elected for Year

Three officers of the Strollers, dramatic organization of the University, were elected last Monday afternoon to the vacancies of those who failed to return to school this year. The new officers are Hunter Moody, president; Turtel, secretary; Richard McIntosh, treasurer, and Addison Yeaman, director.

Southern College Association of Chicago Will Be the Name of Recently Formed Organization

KENTUCKY CLUB ELIGIBLE

Chicago, Ill., October 14.—The initial step was taken in the organization of a Southern College Association...

With the election of officers and the adoption of a constitution the association established headquarters at the Congress hotel and started a campaign to have every southern college and university organize a Chicago alumni club to become a part of the Southern College Association.

The majority of alumni clubs have small membership and the association will bring these clubs together so that the members will be able to have the advantages which a large alumni club offers.

The annual University of Kentucky dinner in that city a success. He has been active in the association ever since he graduated and has been paid up every year with no exceptions.

Officers of the association are as follows: president, Warren Wheary, Georgia Tech; vice presidents, B. D. Eames, University of North Carolina, Carl Lee, University of Texas, Grey Jewett, Virginia Polytechnic Institute; secretary and treasurer B. W. Ruark, Duke University.

SOCIETY NOTES

TO A SPHINX WITH GREY OR BLUE EYES

(By Katherine Metcalf Root)

Grey eyes sweet with promises
They do not mean to keep.
Depths that are shallows,
Shallows somewhat deep.

Blue eyes that stab the heart
Sharp like a blade.
Death, if one loved you—
You make me afraid.

Grey eyes that ask for love,
Blue eyes that deny—
Soul windows? I doubt it.
Just a grey or blue lie.

The wedding music was played by Mr. Cromwell Allen, organist; Miss Marie Fitzgerald, harpist; and Mr. David Young, violinist.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Smith left on a wedding trip, after which they will go to Eldorado, Ark., where they have taken an apartment and will go to housekeeping.

NOW FLORIDA

It is certain that neither the team nor the student body was especially optimistic before last Saturday's game. Wesleyan had beaten Cincinnati and was hopeful of gaining the state title. To confront the strong Winchester aggregation Coach Gamage was able to collect only a badly-crippled eleven. The general consensus of opinion echoed Gamage's remark that Kentucky "ought to win but probably wouldn't."

Despite the absence from the line-up of several star players, despite Wesleyan's splendid team and courageous fight, the Blue and White warriors did win. On last Saturday the university registered her first victory of the '28 season.

Tomorrow afternoon the team will meet the strong eleven of the University of Florida. Kentucky's chances of winning are exceedingly slim; all the odds are against her. But win or lose, the student body can rest assured that the team will do its utmost—which is the most any student body can ask of any team.

The cheering and enthusiasm of the student body this year has shown a marked improvement over that of past years. Keep it up. And when the team returns from Jacksonville meet them at the train and let them know that you are proud of them for doing their best.

FRIENDLY RIVALRY

Immediately after the Kentucky-Maryville game the Men's Student Council of the University passed resolutions expressing regret for the trouble at the game between Centre University of Kentucky and Centre College students. Upon receipt of these resolutions, the student body at Centre College adopted similar resolutions and pledged themselves to do all in their power to maintain the old spirit of friendly rivalry between the two schools. The Kernel is much gratified to see the stand which the student bodies of the two institutions have taken.

In the Lexington Herald of October 6 there was printed an editorial which The Kernel takes pleasure in printing herewith.

"BLESS'D BE THE TIE THAT BINDS"

(From the Lexington Herald of October 6, 1927)
Resolutions have been exchanged between Centre College and the University of Kentucky expressing regret of the student bodies of both colleges at the unpleasantness which developed at the football game between the university and Maryville, September 24. The student council of the university acted promptly and with a most commendable spirit by addressing a letter immediately to the student body of Centre College expressing fullest regret at the disturbances which occurred. Apparently, the matter started in a spirit of fun and there developed some interchanges that perhaps seemed more serious to the onlookers than they really were to the participants.

Nevertheless, it is gratifying to all the friends of both institutions that the young men and women of the student bodies of both Centre and the university are now of such a spirit that they are willing immediately to take all necessary steps and to go to the full length to preserve that friendliness and sportsmanship which has glorified the rivalry between Centre and the university for many years.

There is a still more striking feature about the two letters which were exchanged between the student bodies of the two schools. The resolutions of the student council of the University of Kentucky placed the full blame upon the students of the university. In the response made from the student body of Centre College they courageously said, "we accept our full share of the responsibility."

It requires courage as well as courtesy to take such a position. If either Centre College or the University of Kentucky had attempted to shove the blame on the other, the aftermath of this incident would not be so convincing and would not command the same admiration for the noble spirit expressed by the students of both institutions.

Centre College once taught Harvard how to play football and the entire student bodies of Centre College and the University of Kentucky are now offering an example which might well be called to the attention of Harvard and Princeton. If the student bodies of those great institutions took such an attitude, the breach of relations between the football teams of the two schools would have been impossible. In the interchange of polite resolutions between the student bodies of these two neighboring schools there is nothing of the empty gesture. Their chivalry is worthy of the days when "knighthood was in flower." The faith expressed by both that the friendly relations will continue is fully justified and there is no cause for any difficulties between the students of the two schools so long as such a spirit is preserved among the students of both of them.

WAILS OF THE WEEK.

In spite of the rigid enforcement of traffic rules on the campus, it remains an indisputable fact that the student who doesn't choose to run, stands a mighty good chance of getting a worm's eye view of someone's automobile.

LITERARY SECTION

(MARTHA CONNELL, Editor)

"REVOLT IN THE DESERT." By T. E. Lawrence. George H. Doran Company. New York. 1927.

In 1914, T. E. Lawrence, "a subaltern with no respect for his military superiors, with a sensitive and vigorous mind, undisturbed either by military regulations or a desire for glory, and with a scholarly taste in reading," was occupied, as his publisher remarks, in "digging Hitler remains out of the banks of the Euphrates." In 1916, after the British had recognized the value of an Arabian revolt against Turkey, and after the British had thoroughly fuddled the organization of such a revolt, Lawrence set out to do the work single handed. This he accomplished by "making himself as obnoxious as possible to his military superiors," and then asking for leave. He got it; his superiors thought themselves well rid of him. Then this blind young Englishman, with neither authority nor passes, penetrated into Arabia, alone, organized and actually led the revolt to a successful consummation.

"Revolt in the Desert" is his own story of this Arabian uprising, a book opposed to travelogues in that it is delightful, opposed to fiction in that it is true. It is one of the few books written in the first person plural; it is not "I" but "we" who accomplished the Arabian uprising which put Turkey out of the fight in the East, although just to whom the "we" refers is a question which the reader settles immediately in favor of Lawrence. As a story, the book abounds in action, in colorful marches, tense attacks, taut suspense; it is gaudy with Arabian costume, bizarre trappings of the East, flamboyant camel charges, and all of the elaborate paraphernalia of an ordinary adventure story.

Adventure there is, full measure, but what lifts "Revolt in the Desert" above adventure is that, throughout this two year campaign, which, after all, has ceased to concern anyone except military experts, there is a steady infiltration of the author's personality, a delicacy of style, a perfect proportion, a ray alchemy of youthfulness which transforms what it touches into gold; which—r markable achievement—transforms a military campaign into reading matter. The book is full of quaint sidelights, lite inspired flashes into Arab character, sudden dips into paths, and now and again a shaft, barbed or not, of humor.

And this strangely urbane young English subaltern did not seem to realize that he had done anything in any way remarkable. Devoid alike of conceit and any respect whatsoever for authority, he paraded casually enough through Asia Minor, incidentally wiping out the Turkish forces in between. Having done all this, having accomplished what his superiors had failed dismally to do, he refused to indulge in histrionics. It was an adventure ended, a chapter closed. In the short foreword to the book, he says, "If I am asked why I have abridged an unsatisfactory book... I must plead that to do so nice a job in the barracks which have been my home since 1922 would need a degree of concentration amounting in an airman to moroseness, and an interest in the subject which was exhausted long ago in the actual experience of it." His interest was so exhausted, in fact, that he refused to correct the manuscript, and when the publisher wrote, regarding what he considered a slip—a reference to "Melesger, the immortal poet" which he thought should read "immortal poet" which he thought should read "immortality I cannot judge. As you like. Melesger will not sue us for libel."

All in all, "Revolt in the Desert" is one of the most interesting books of its type that has appeared for some years. The matter is interesting, the style is clear and unstudied, the whole is dashed with flashes of humor, feeling, tragedy, and—great departure from the mode—it is refreshingly free alike from the morbid and the inane.

PREVIEWS OF LOCAL SHOWS

KENTUCKY THEATER

FIGURES DON'T LIE

An irate wife attempting to shoot her husband's beautiful blonde secretary, a thrilling rescue of that secretary from a treacherous surf, a tender love scene in which suspicious circumstances are explained; all these are pictured in Paramount's clever production "Figures Don't Lie" starring Esther Ralston, which comes to the Kentucky Theater tonight and tomorrow night.

Miss Ralston takes the part of a private secretary who carries on the business of her employer, Ford Sterling. While doing so she wins the love of Richard Arlen.

Thrill follows thrill and laugh succeeds laugh until Arlen rescues Miss Ralston from drowning. Then the secretary finds herself in a still more dangerous spot when, garbed only in a silk quilt, she is confronted in her employer's home by the jealous wife.

A pistol shot... But see it in the picture.

Edward Sutherland, the man who made "We're in the Navy Now" and many other successes, directed the picture. Esther Ralston looks particularly stunning in her modish bathing costume.

"THE KID BROTHER"

"The Kid Brother," Harold Lloyd's latest photodrama, will be the feature at the Kentucky Theater starting Sunday and running for a period of four days.

Advance reports say that Lloyd is funnier in "The Kid Brother" than ever before and critics have praised the picture highly in those cities where it has been shown. "The Kid Brother" is a Paramount feature.

BEN ALI THEATER

"RICH BUT HONEST"

That a man may be rich but honest is the theme of a clever Fox Film comedy drama, which is based on a story by Arthur Somers Roche, coming to the Ben Ali Theater next Thursday for a three day showing.

This is one picture that gives the rich young man courting a working girl a chance to prove that wealth is not synonymous with evil intentions in young men who pay court to poor girls.

Three acts of vodvil including an act by Elliott Dexter, movie star, together with his company of six others, complete the program.

"WEDDING BILLS"

Raymond Griffith is his own harshest critic. The silk hatted comedian is always on the lookout for opportunities to improve upon his work, and is never too proud to listen to suggestions from anyone who offers them. He seeks criticism in his never ending quest for new ideas.

ful and at the same time quiet and unassuming chaps around the Paramount Hollywood lot, Griffith is forever on the go when working on a picture. "Wedding Bills" his latest Paramount comedy coming Monday to the Ben Ali Theater is a good instance of the way he works.

At the conclusion of each scene in "Wedding Bills," Griffith was to be found outside the shooting lines asking some friend or visitor how it was. Any creative suggestion was listened to eagerly, and more often than not, the comedian would get together with Director Eric Tenet and do it all over again.

Three acts vodvil will also be given.

STRAND THEATER

"CAMILLE"

Shakespeare's contention that "the play's the thing" is unmistakably proved by the present-day trends in motion picture production, according to Norma Talmadge, whose latest screen vehicle, "Camille," will be the feature attraction at the Strand Theater for six days beginning Sunday.

With Fred Niblo as director, Miss Talmadge's "Camille," produced by Joseph M. Schenck for First National release, also represents one of the season's most interesting supporting casts.

Norma's new leading man is a Spanish youth, Gilbert Roland, whose portrayal of the lover, "Armand," is his first big role. Also appearing as featured players are Lilyan Tashman, as the courtesan "Olympic"; Rose Dione as "Trudene"; Harvey Clark as "The Duke"; Helen Jerome Eddy as "Nanette," Camille's maid, and others.

CROSS-COUNTRY CALL SOUNDED

Coach Bernie Shively Asks All Candidates to Report for Real Work Next Week

WILL HOLD TWO MEETS

With cold weather just around the corner and the call for cross-country candidates sounded, a squad of not less than 20 is expected to report to Coach Bernie Shively next week. Manager Ray Bowser is hanging around the gymnasium every afternoon and all aspirants can obtain equipment from him.

The material for a cross-country team to represent Kentucky this winter is very promising and a revival of this sport may be made. Not much interest has been shown in this phase of athletics prior to this time and Coach Shively is anxious to get all the men possible interested in the sport.

It is possible that two meets will be held before the conference season. It is known that one team will be played before the conference meet and if the team develops at a good pace it will seek other opposition to get in trim for the final meet.

Any student who thinks or knows that he can develop into a runner is urged to report to Manager Bowser next week and get equipment so he can start right into real work.

INDIANA PANHELLENIC TO PATCH UP DIFFERENCES

Presidents of thirteen of the seven-ten fraternities on the University of Indiana campus unanimously adopted a resolution asking their chapters to empower them to reorganize the men's panhellenic council, split and dissolved last year by disagreement among the organizations, at a meeting called by the Daily Student at the Phi Kappa Psi house. Three presidents and one vice president of the remaining four organizations approved of the resolution when it was read to them later. The presidents agreed to take up the matter with their chapters and ask verification of the plan, and that they, the presidents, be empowered to meet and form the new organization.

Plans for a new library at the University of Oklahoma have been completed, according to a statement of Dr. W. B. Bizell. The new building will accommodate 1,000 students at one time and the racks will hold 500,000 volumes, thus giving Oklahoma one of the largest libraries in the west.

KITTENS' HOPES SEEM DISTANT

Many Men Have Dropped Out Since First Practice Held; Coach Major Has Big Problem

TO PLAY CUBS OCTOBER 28

Only a few days are left for Coach Major to whip his crippled Kittens into shape for the tilt with Georgetown on October 28. The meager turn-out has become conspicuous in the poor showing the Kittens put up against the regulars in scrimmages. The Kittens will have to use all of their tricks against the Cubs if they hope to defeat the strong Georgetown aggregation, which has the state title.

The outcome of this game will probably determine whether the Kittens have a chance against such aggregations as Vanderbilt, West Virginia, and Tennessee. Everyone wants to see the Kittens win the championship but the prospect is gloomy. The vast number of men who have dropped out on account of injuries and other reasons has made it practically impossible for the coach to assemble anything that might be called a team. The Green team has a very weak line and the back-field isn't much better.

Too much cannot be said of the Centre and Georgetown teams. Reports show that both of these teams are fast and heavy, possessing no outstanding stars, all being crack players. As far as is known, the Georgetown Cubs have suffered no serious losses in practice and are in fine shape for the fray with the Kittens.

WILDCAT TEAM TRIMS WESLEYAN 13 TO 7

PAUL JENKINS AND PORTWOOD STAR IN FIRST VICTORY

(By John W. Dundon, Jr.)
A blue-shirted speed demon was sent into last Saturday's game in the third quarter and before the same period had ended a rugged Wildcat team had scored enough points to get its first taste of victory. Not all credit can be given Paul, for it was little Al Portwood's ever-strengthening line plunging that spelled a 13 to 7 defeat for the Panthers.

The first half was a battle, with neither side getting any real chances to cross the goal line. Each team had the ball on its opponent's 30-yard strip, but were unable to push the pigskin any nearer the coveted last line. In the second half, Paul "Eabli" Jenkins, Kentucky's ball-toter par excellence, was injected into the line-up to pep things up. He accomplished his mission to suit every one of the Blue and White supporters, and at the same time cast the Wesleyan clan into the somber shades of despair. He contributed two mighty rambles with the ball, and both of these runs were transformed into touchdowns.

Jenkins Goes 43 Yards
To start things off, Portwood ran the kick-off back 35 yards. Then Jenkins made 12 yards off tackle. Portwood crashed for a first down, but the Wildcats drew a 15 yard penalty. On the next play, Jenkins, behind perfect interference, dashed away for a 43-yard gain, being tackled with barely two yards intervening between him and the goal. In this rally, Jenkins warded off four would-be tacklers. Portwood went over to two tries for the first score of the game, and then kicked goal.

The second touchdown came a few minutes later. Starting about mid-field mark, the Cats pulled the lateral pass to perfection. From a kick formation, Mohney passed to Lyons. The latter, without moving an inch passed the ball to Jenkins, who was sweeping with all the fury of a hurricane around right end. Stopped a few yards from the goal, Jenkins ran left end for the second score. Portwood missed goal. At this point, Jenkins was jerked, to save him from unnecessary running on his injured ankle. He certainly had done his share in the few minutes he was in the game.

Panthers Throw Scare
In the third period, Adkins, who had startled the crowd with previous thrilling runs, accepted a pass from Strother, and with a clear field in front of him, started for the Blue and White goal line. Fleet Gayle Mohney caught him and pulled him down on the 1-yard line. Mohney was injured in making the tackle, and was forced out of the game. The fourth quarter began after this long run had been completed. Cunningham slashed the Blue forward wall twice before he took the oval across, thus attesting the strength and fortitude of the Kentucky defense. This was the last of the scoring, although Wesleyan completed a 40-yard aerial attempt at the close of the game, leaving the ball on the Wildcats' 30-yard strip.

The score might have been much higher, but Coach Gamage preferred to stay on the defensive, and save Jenkins for the Wildcats' initial Southern Conference encounter with the Florida Gators tomorrow. Numerous penalties marred the game, which was furiously fought, especially in the last half.

The first rounds of the intra-mural golf and tennis tournaments started yesterday. In the tennis meet, there are about 65 entries in the singles and about 28 entries in the doubles. About 32 entries are listed in golf.

The tennis tournament is being held on the university courts and trophies will be given to the winners. Some crack players have entered in the singles, among whom are Combs, Ragland, E. W. Johnson, and Knadler, runner-up last year. The Johnson brothers, Knadler and R. C. Dundon are among the outstanding stars in the doubles meet.

This is the first attempt that the University of Kentucky has made toward intra-mural golf. The attitude taken toward this event will probably determine whether Kentucky will form a golf team to compete with other schools in the South in the future. Intercollegiate golf has proved a success and the majority of the universities of the South possess golf teams. Bill Crady, Jack Upham, Burgess Carey are among the favorites to compete. The matches are being held on the Picadome course.

The cross-country runs and track meet will probably take place in the latter part of October or the first of November. If the interest toward these events is as good as is being shown toward golf and tennis, there is little doubt as to its success.

PLAN NEW FIELD HOUSE
Plans are being drawn for the construction of a new field house at the University of Missouri. The building is to cost $200,000. The new field house would include facilities for basketball with a maximum sized court, and permanent seats with a capacity of 5,000. Nothing definite is known as to when the field house will be started. However, it has been estimated that the construction will take approximately six months.

JEFFRIES SIGNS PRO GRIDIRON CONTRACT

Irvine Jeffries, former University of Kentucky athlete, has signed a contract to play with the Frankfort, Penn., Yellow Jackets.

Irvine not only has in his possession a professional football contract, but major league scouts are trailing him, anxious to get his name on the line for services in baseball next year. Inasmuch as the season is over and there is a long winter in which he can do a lot of thinking and decide upon which contract to sign, Jeff has not signed any of the baseball offers.

During the last month Jeffries has been assisting in the coaching and playing quarterback for the Shawnee Templars, a Louisville independent team.

Jeffries was a star on the University of Kentucky freshman eleven last year.

SMALL COLLEGES
BEST, SAYS WILEY

"Select small colleges for your children," is the advice of Dr. Harvey W. Wiley, noted educator and health authority, in his article appearing in the September issue of Good Housekeeping. "The great universities," he says, "with present-day enrollments of 5,000 to 25,000 are like factories turning out graduates supplied with specified facts on certain subjects, but they lack the advantages of intimate contact between teacher and students and the congenial community life which develops character."

"There is also a social threat which is more dangerous in huge crowds than in small companies," he says. "It is the danger of bolshevism and atheism. It is an easy matter in these crowded educational centers to couple up disbelief in God with disbelief in government."

"One dollar expended at a small college gives as much culture as five at Harvard. As a graduate of both institutions, I can truly make this statement."

"The real specific benefit of the small college lies in the fact that its students are individuals. They know their professors. They are not simply a number in a huge herd without recognition or individuality.

"In a commencement in which from one to two thousand graduates receive their diplomas, as is the case in many of our large universities, there is no individuality. There may be a few who have graduated with honors, but most of them rise and, without even answering to their names, are given the degree of bachelor of arts, or whatever other degree they may receive.

"The whole benefit of personal contact with the professor, the advantage of his personal and sympathetic attention and his interest in each individual character as it is unfolded before him during the years of the association, are all lacking in this mass instruction.

"The safety of the future, the purity of learning and the efficiency of teaching are all intimately bound up with the small educational unit," his Good Housekeeping article concludes.

Three U. K. Students Become New Editors

Whitehead, Higgins and Allen
Take Over Management of Publications

Three university students have become editors during the last few months. They are Kyle Whitehead, E. T. Higgins, and Norman Allen.

Whitehead, a graduate of the university in 1926 and an instructor in the department of journalism there last fall, is editor of the newly created College News at Murray State Normal where he is director of publicity and an instructor.

A second college paper was headed by a university graduate, E. T. Higgins being editor of the paper at Eastern Normal School at Richmond during the summer. Higgins resigned his position several weeks ago to enter Harvard Law School.

Norman Allen, editor of the Floyd County Times at Prestonsburg, Ky., is the third of the new editors. Allen was a student here in 1925-26. His paper is growing rapidly in popularity throughout the Big Sandy valley.

Craig Ruby Were Main Instructors in School

Approximately 50 men, representing six states and fourteen colleges, were enrolled for the two weeks' intensive summer course for athletic coaching in football and basketball which was held at the university beginning August 1.

Each course offered was made up of two hours of theory and two hours of practical work daily. Practice was held on Stoll field and in the men's gymnasium and the lectures were given in a tent on the athletic field.

Head Coach Harry Gamage, of the university, taught the class in football coaching and Coach J. Craig Ruby, of the University of Illinois, the principles of coaching basketball.

This is the first time the summer coaching course has been given at the university but administrative officers say it is necessary as the university has so many requests for teachers who also can coach athletic teams.

A WINNER

When all the world has said it can't be done
And half of them have tried it;
And all have dropped off one by one
All have failed beside it;
And everything you do seems to make it tougher.
The more you work, the more there is to do,
Does it make you feel somewhat a bluffer.
Do you quit and say you're through?
Or do you grab that job right by the snooter,
And start right back to work again
And swear that you won't be a loser
And only work to win?

My son, if you're that kind of worker,
And try no matter what the pay,
Te always show that you are not a shirker,
But tackle every task that comes your way;
And put into that brave endeavor
All the power you have beneath the sun,
E'en though it proves you're not so clever,
You haven't lost, my boy, you've won.

New Guard

JOHN ROSS

Coach Harry Gamage has made a number of changes in the University of Kentucky football team this year, and one of the most important is converting John Ross, Somerset boy, from a full back to a guard.

Coach Gamage, looking over the squad for a guard to help Capt. Charley Wert, picked Ross and Ross is ready for his new job.

Ross has always played fullback, but Coach Gamage believes he can play guard without trouble. Ross can punt and if necessary, he may be drawn out of line when the Wildcats need to kick.

Purest cream, fruits, sugar and flavors make our Ice Cream so delicious

And it is purer because Heathized

Take the purest and finest ingredients—cream, sugar, fruits, nuts and genuine flavors, mix them properly. Pasteurize them for safety and Heathize them for super-safety—you have our ice cream. Good all through.

It isn't hard to understand why our fine ice cream has grown to such enormous popularity. We make it so good that people can't help recognizing its high quality.

We safeguard it by every scientific method we know of.

Pasteurization is a big thing. Heathization has proved itself equally important. For Heathized ice cream is made without air, in an atmosphere of super-purity. All these safeguards of purity are expensive, but we consider no expense too great that increases the purity and quality of our ice cream.

Be sure, when you order that brick of ice cream, that your dealer gives you our ice cream. No other ice cream in this city is Heathized.

than one class will go away laden with moisture.

Of course there will be a crowd out to watch the fracas. The tug-of-war is a Kentucky tradition and students and Lexington folk look forward to the ducking of someone with much ardor. In previous years hundreds of persons have crowded the banks of Clifton pond and this year there should be an equal number howling for their favorites from the stands on Stoll field.

THREE FACULTY MEMBERS PUBLISH BOOKS RECENTLY

of the Graduate School of the university. The introduction of this volume is written in French and the text largely in Latin. Doctor Funkhouser has been at work for nearly ten years on this book, which is intended for use of entomologists in all countries of the world.

"A Study of the Relationship Between Intelligence and the Moral Judgement of College Students," recently published by Prof. Paul L. Boynton, of the department of psychology, is the result of a year and a half preparation. During this time Professor Boynton studied the mental tests given to the students entering the University and the moral judgement test compiled by him and given to students in his department. In the division of the boys and girls in his work, he found that they seem to adhere to a double standard of morality and the most profound differences was in the observance of the Sabbath.

Dr. Ralph H. Weaver, assistant professor in the department of bacteriology, has been working for the past five years on tests for incipient putrefaction of meat. Local authorities believe that his test will be adopted as the standard test for meat. Doctor Weaver's work "Tests for Incipient Putrefaction of Meats" enables detection of decomposition in meat before it may be perceived either by sense of smell or sight.

Prof. Grant C. Knight of the university English department, is at work on a new book on the life and works of James Lane Allen. Professor Knight has been working on his doctorate at Columbia this summer. In a letter received by Dean Paul P. Boyd, he stated that he expected to spend years on the book, having access to all the private papers, letters and other personal data left by James Lane Allen.

legee to enter, the willingness of the executive committee (of which our Doctor Funkhouser is a member) to accept them, and if the occasion warrants additional members. Doctor Funkhouser is also secretary and treasurer of the organization.

At the meeting will be discussed any proposed amendments to the constitution or by-laws, or any other topics that may be of interest to intercollegiate athletics. There will be present from each of the above institutions, the president, faculty, chairman, and athletic director. College men from any institution, members of the Southern Conference or non-members are urged to "sit in" at these meetings, as they are highly beneficial to anyone interested in athletics. Very little of the meeting will be in secret session.

The University of Kentucky will have the coveted privilege of entertaining the visitors while in Lexington, and we hope to impress every visitor with the Kentucky hospitality.

the College of Education as well as of the faculties of other colleges.

The types of services to be rendered are school surveys, educational counseling and cooperative research. The school surveys may be complete surveys, including every phase of the school system, or partial surveys on particular phases of the school organization, such as, buildings, finance, surveys of efficiency of instruction, of administrative organization and curricula. Educational counseling is a service of advice to school administrators with respect to particular problems in their local system.

At the present time the Bureau is conducting a survey of George Rogers Clark, Ballard Memorial school in Jefferson county. This is one of the county schools, supported in part from county funds and in part by private subscription.

DR. ALLEN SPEAKS TO PRE-MEDS

The Pre-Medical Society of the university met Friday, October 7, at 4 o'clock in Room 203 of the Science building. Doctor Allen, the new head of the department, gave a brief review of the medical course including the first two years work, major courses, internships and later probable special research work.

FAITH, HOPE AND CHARITY SHOULD BE COLLEGE IDEAL

Should be College Ideal

Faith, hope and charity are the three ideals that a man should follow in his college life and after he has graduated. President Louis Hopkins, of Wabash College, made this statement to a student assembly recently. In enlarging upon his statement, he said: "If one has faith consisting of belief in God and man, he can always start anew if he should at first fail. One must have hope for good things in the future. You should be optimistic. Then, lastly, one who has a regard for his fellowman has the best kind of charity."

Girls hockey practice, under the management of Miss Skinner, started October 5 and will continue daily until November 1. The new athletic field behind Patterson Hall has been completed and the practice will take place there.
