PRESIDENT M'VEY REVIEWS YEAR

ber of disasters from the use of planes multiplied during the year but gave no evidence of retarding the growth of this new industry. "The stock crash in October netted losses of over fifty billion dollars upon the holed-out stocks and the end is not yet. Roger W. Babson, in his last letter to the press, indicated that the year 1930 would be a conservative one, resulting in easier money, higher prices of bonds, letdown in sales, cutting of prices and considerable unemployment, and the holding of price levels for agricultural products. Immediately following the crash in Wall Street, the President called a conference of business leaders and bankers for the purpose of discussing the needs of the country and of providing for some offset to possible unemployment of labor during the year.

"Congress passed the Farm Relief Act and set up a Farm Board which has unlimited power to support agriculture through the utilization of five hundred million dollars for loan purposes. The act was passed in the face of the carefully scrutinized and the country is waiting in expectant attitude hoping that the relief offered by this act may be really farm relief rather than bankers' relief.

Meanwhile at Washington, the House of Representatives passed a tariff act which satisfied no one and the Senate fell upon it with varied emotions. Western Senators by a coalition with Democrats and Progressives modified the bill and held it up during the extra session allowing the regular session to deal with an impossible situation. The people of the country are seemingly greatly concerned about the tariff, if newspaper comments throughout the Nation are to be regarded as evidence.

"As in past years the motor industry occupied an important place in the news as it passed all records in production. The New Year points to reduced output, consolidation of weaker concerns with stronger ones, the dropping of price-chases to lower priced cars, and the increased pressure of used cars and their disposition upon the automobile business. Accidents and deaths from the operation of cars on highways increased during the year.

"It was fifty years ago that Mr. Edison invented the electric lamp and laid the foundation for the great electric lighting systems of today. To celebrate the event, Mr. Ford brought the "laboratory" and its equipment and set them up at Dearborn, inviting distinguished guests, including the President of the United States, to commemorate the birth of Mr. Edison's invention, and to re-enact the scene of fifty years ago. The National Broadcasting Company and associated stations brought the picture to thousands of homes and millions of listeners.

"In Kentucky one of the important events of the year has been the opening of three bridges over the Ohio river at Paducah, Louisville, and Madison, bringing about very much better communication with the States north of us. The Highway Commission has added to the mileage of roads and much improved the system. The coal mining situation, which has been unsatisfactory for some time, has shown some improvement during the latter part of the year.

"Mr. Hoover visited Louisville honoring our largest city thereby, and at the same time celebrating the opening of the Ohio River and project inaugurated many years ago by Congressional appropriations for the construction of dams and extensive dredging of channels.

"The people of the State have been interested in the controversy over textbooks and they are looking to see more adequate legislation passed in the next session of the Legislature. Among the colleges three new presidents took up their duties and began their work as directors of institutions. These men were: John Howard Payne, former head State Teachers' College; C. M. Dannelly, Kentucky Wesleyan College, and Raymond A. Kent, University of Louisville. Among the

University includes six different great colleges with many activities, a great experiment station, an agricultural extension department with representatives throughout the state, experiment sub-stations at Quicksand and Princeton, and a bureau of school and business service. Because of its size and varied activities, comparison of the University and its expenditures with a single institution is inappropriate, he said.

President McVey further explained that a statement recently released at Frankfort to the effect that expenses of the state educational institutions in 1929 exceeded five million dollars is misleading since the University and other state institutions merely act as trustees for large sums of state money which are expended in agricultural extension, experiment station and public work not actually a part of their educational activities. The University alone acts as trustee for approximately $700,000 of this money, he said.

He showed that while $5,496,178 went through the treasury's book of all state schools, including the Kentucky State Industrial College during the year, but $3,213,247 was received from the state from tax receipts and $876,000 of this amount was for the construction of buildings. The six state educational institutions get but 58 per cent of their total receipts from the state, he said, explaining that their total receipts include federal appropriations, gifts and money from sales, fees, tuition and receipts of a smaller nature.

Receipts from book stores, dining halls, residence halls and similar operations merely add to the total incomes as money taken into these operations is turned over again and again, raising the total receipts many thousands of dollars, but netting the institution little or no actual income.

SMOKER PLANNED

Sigma Delta Chi will hold a smoker Thursday night, January 17, in Dickler Hall, at 7:30 o'clock. All men students in journalism are invited to attend.

Has happened during the year and my time now having reached the conclusion. I take opportunity of wishing all a happy and prosperous new year, and that we, as a people, may work together during the year with understanding and appreciation on the problems of our State, Kentucky.

"Football also received a great deal of attention and the interesting thing from the point of view of the national situation was the transfer of the supremacy in this sport from the eastern States to the central part of the United States and the Pacific Coast.

QUESTIONING

By GRACE NOLL CROWELL

I asked the New Year, "What am I to do.
The whole year through?"
The answer came,
"Be true."
I asked again, "And what am I to say
To those who pass my way?"
"The kindest words," he said,
"That you can say."

"What thoughts am I to think, day long, year long?"
And clearly as quick-struck gong,
The answer,
"Think no wrong."
"And what roads take across the earth worn sod,
Where many feet have trod?"
Swift came the answer—
"Those that lead to God."

THE HOME STRETCH

After a fleeting glance at our calendar we are reminded that only about two weeks time will elapse before final examinations. Certainly that is not an especially pleasant thought for those of us who consider examinations as the most outstanding horror of our college days. But if we consider the situation seriously, it is apparent that in all justice to ourselves, and especially to our parents, we are obligated to acquit ourselves in the best manner possible.

These next few weeks are in some respects like the home stretch of a horse race. If you are "way out in front, then you have to keep plugging along to stay there. If you stumble now, then it is quite likely that one will not finish at all. The progress around the race track hasn't counted so much, it's the one that comes in first that gets the money. And only a certain portion will get paid. Thus, it behooves all of us to take stock of ourselves at this critical time and see where we stand in the race.

Whether we like it or not, we are obliged to admit that after all the grades that one gets in school count for a great deal. There isn't another thrill in the world that is comparable to the one that the son or daughter gets when he takes his or her semester report in to the family and says, "Look here folks at these!" If your grades are good, your family can well be proud of you, and one should in all justice be proud of himself. Those grades represent a certain amount of endeavor, of pleasures that have been denied, of mental labor into the far hours of the night that is not always pleasant.

There are many things to consider in preparation for final examinations. The most important thing is to get started early in your reviews. A week or two before the final examination a student should have completely reviewed all of his courses. After having covered all the material that has been gone over during the entire course, one will find it easy to pick up details that are not surely established. And, having conducted a logical review prior to the final examination, one should have no particular cause for worry on examination day.

Another item which is worthy of consideration in preparation for examinations is that one should develop a proper frame of mind. Examinations will continue to be held whether we like them or not. Our own status will continue to be calculated from the amount of information that we can put down on a piece of paper in a given time. The only situation in which we can do ourselves justice is when we have done our preparation thoroughly and go into the examination with no fear of the consequences. That is possible only when we refer to consider final examinations as a bug-aboo which is sure to devour us.

A JUNIOR COLLEGE FOR PAINTSVILLE

(Lexington Herald)
There has been discussion of a proposal for a junior college of the University of Kentucky in Paintsville.

This is a movement that merits commendation. It is reported that developments are such that there is question if the present legislature will be asked to act in the establishment of such a college on the grounds of the Mayo school where there are three modern buildings. The people of this section of Kentucky have never had recognition in the location of schools. They feel that it is time that the state is waking up to the fact that thousands of boys and girls in that part of the country are needing a better chance for education.

A junior college of the University at Paintsville in no way would conflict either with the work that is done at the Morehead Normal school or with the university but instead would stimulate the desire for education and add both the light of learning in the commonwealth.

Paintsville made a strong bid for the normal school that was located at Morehead, but the fight which was occasioned over the normal school has ended and the proposal for a junior college has no connection with this, although the fact that Paintsville was disappointed in her effort for a normal school would make it highly desirable to establish such a state institution as a junior college would be in Paintsville which is at the crossroads of the Garrett highway and the Mayo Trail.

The mountains of Kentucky have waited long for good roads and educational facilities. They are getting both and the junior college as proposed at Paintsville would serve a worthy purpose.

Consideration further is due to that section of the state which pays large taxes. The delay which has been occasioned is due to the fact that the Mayo college which it is proposed that the state should acquire for junior college purposes is now in the hands of the Methodist church and there must be no action until the conference meets in September.

Just what action will be taken The Herald does not predict but it does not hesitate to say that a junior college at Paintsville such as has been proposed would be a vital factor in the development of a region that has a great destiny and would aid in Kentucky's educational progress and general advancement.

THE LEAGUE

The League of Nations is holding its tenth annual convention this week in New York City. We take this method of bringing to the attention of the student body the advisability of studying and contemplating on the purpose of this commendable society.

It should be recalled that the League of Nations was originated and fostered by Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States during one of the most critical periods in its history. America has not, as yet, joined with this federation of countries, but there is every reason to believe that it will not be many years before the United States will enter into it wholeheartedly.

It is a common belief that the one and only purpose of the League is for the prevention of wars between nations within its fold. This conception is extremely erroneous. That may be one purpose, but there are many others and when the inhabitants of the United States thoroughly understand this, they will immediately wish to take steps toward joining the League.

The Kernel wishes to advise the whole student body to take time to study the constitution of the League of Nations thoroughly. Our present generation, at some time in the near future, will have to deal with this momentous question, and must we not handle it well?

There has been so much necking in correspondence schools lately that the authorities are now making the boys and girls use different mail boxes. We see no hint or indication of "four years of handicap" in this way of getting the degree, but then you fail to get the B. S. degree.

CONVOCAION SPEAKER

Victor F. Calverton, who will speak at the general convocation Tuesday morning in Memorial hall, is one of the most distinguished sociological and literary critics in the United States today. University officials are to be complimented upon their success in arranging for Mr. Calverton's appearance here.

Calverton is an intellectual pioneer and an exponent of the most modern thought. His store of information on "The New American Literature" is perhaps more comprehensive than of any other living American.

HOSPITALITY

Tradition and hospitality combine to immortalize the delightful Wednesday afternoon tea given by Mrs. Frank LeRond McVey, wife of the president of the University, to which all members of the University faculty and student body are invited. For many years, this custom has been renewed each week, until it has grown to be an honored feature of University social life. Embodying the true characteristics of a southern hostess, Mrs. McVey is strengthening the feeling of friendliness between faculty and students at these affairs.

COLLEGE COMMENT

A negro sorority, Alpha Kappa Alpha, held the sororities at the University of Kansas in scholarship during the 1928-29 school year.

Oregon State recently bought between fifteen and twenty tons of Italian prunes to use in experimental work to determine new standards for drying. Then, we suppose, they'll feed them to the students.

Princeton, N. J.—For a young man planning to enter business as a career, a college education is a four-year handicap, according to Floyd L. Carlisle, prominent business man and himself a college graduate.

De Pauw University has been presented with a flag that once flew over the National Capitol. The flag was obtained and presented to the school by one of the alumni.

Loyola, Chicago, has organized a "No Cut Club." Membership is restricted to men who are expert class cutters. Amateurs who cut only one or two classes a week are ineligible for election. And, once a member, it costs money to cut a class. The club fines each member twenty-five cents per cut, and expects to hold an annual banquet on the proceeds.

The great, big arm of the Law reached out tapped three bad, bad boys who happened to be in a University of Illinois fraternity house when the Law made an unexpected visit lately. The tap-see landed in the cooler. The liquid contents of the house were removed, for evidence, from nearly every room. Police say the house will be padlocked if the actual owner can be found. Even in that event, the boys need not worry about a future residence; twenty-two are staying at home from now on, and the president of the chapter promised to produce any others when the police wanted them. The University is at Champaign, Ill.

REMEMBERING

I sat and talked to you today,
Mindful of those around us,
"You're not listening to what I say!"
You cried, then swiftly understood.
(For as we spoke of trivial things
I remembered through the words
The happiness a single look brings
When you and I are together.)
And so we talked—
(Each of us conjuring back
The sweet tenderness of our kiss)
Wondering, if in time
All our words might not become like this
A meaningless pattern?

RIGHTMYER TALK TO PHYSICISTS

Cornell Professor Addresses Students and Faculty on "Tweedle Dum and Tweedle Dee in Science"

Speaking under the auspices of Sigma Xi, national scientific fraternity, and choosing for his topic, "Tweedle Dum and Tweedle Dee in Science," Prof. F. K. Richtmyer, professor of physics at Cornell University and head of the physics section of the American Association for the Advancement of Science, addressed an assembly of 75 persons in the lecture room of McVey Hall at 8 o'clock Monday night. Members of University staff, students, and many other persons who were interested were invited to hear the lecture, according to Dr. W. R. Allen, president of the University chapter of Sigma Xi.

In stating his topic Professor Richtmyer explained that "Tweedle Dum" and "Tweedle Dee" are twins in "Alice in Wonderland" who are represented as being practically identical in every respect. He stated that in science the small differences, which are not apparent to the average person, often lead to important discoveries.

Illustrating his point, Professor Richtmyer stated that Kepler's observation that the orbits of the planets are not exact circles led to later discoveries by Kepler and finally to Newton's "Laws of Gravitation." "A genius," the speaker explained, "is a man who is capable of observing and interpreting the differences between 'Tweedle Dum' and 'Tweedle Dee.'" "If that is not the true definition, it differs from the true definition by the difference between 'Tweedle Dum' and 'Tweedle Dee,'" he said.

In addition to the lecture Monday night, Professor Richtmyer spoke at 3 o'clock Monday and Tuesday afternoons in the University Physics and Civil Engineering building.

William H. Debord Is Called by Death

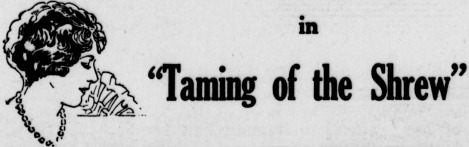

Arts and Sciences Freshman Dies at Ashland During Holidays
William Howard Debord, of Ashland, a freshman in the College of Arts and Sciences, died Thursday afternoon, January 2, at the King's Daughters' hospital in that city, following an operation for appendicitis. Funeral services were held Sunday, January 5.

Mr. Debord was the son of Dr. and Mrs. William Debord, and was spending his Christmas holidays at his home, when he was stricken. He had long been troubled with chronic appendicitis. John Pennell, president of the Men's Dormitory Association, and Herbert Howard were sent as official representatives of the University and the Men's Dormitory Council to attend the funeral. At a meeting of this group, resolutions expressing the sorrow of University students were drawn up and copies sent to the family.

Telephony knows no barriers

Telephone lines must cross natural barriers. This means construction methods must be flexible, readily varied to peculiar local conditions.

Special problems arise, too, in telephone laboratory, factory and central office. How to protect poles from insect attack? How to develop more compact equipment for use in manholes? How to assure a sufficient number of trained operators? How to build long distance business?

It takes resourcefulness to find the answers, to surmount the barriers. There is no stereotyped way.

INTRAMURAL TOURNAMENT WILL OPEN MONDAY NIGHT

MANY ENTRANTS ARE REGISTERED

Preliminaries Will Get Under Way at 7 o'Clock Opening Night, According to Sid Robinson

Trophies Will Be Awarded

By VERNON D. ROOKS
It's a great life—but most of them will weaken before the third round. The annual intramural boxing and wrestling tournament will get under way Monday night at 7 o'clock with the first-round preliminaries in an improvised arena in the Men's gymnasium, according to Sid Robinson, director of intramural athletics.

The largest number of entrants ever to participate in the events has been registered at the intramural office in the basement of the gym. In an effort to run up their standing in participation trophy race, a number of the fraternities have entered a large number of men regardless of experience and condition—which means a good time will be had by somebody. Competition will be included in nine weight divisions as follows: 125 pound class; 135 pound, 145 pounds, 155 pound, 165 pound, 175 pound, 185 pound, and unlimited. Entrants must weigh under the poundage given in order to be eligible for any class. The men will weigh in on the day of their matches, Mr. Robinson said.

All entrants are required to present a certificate from the hygiene department stating that they are physically able to take part in the matches before they will be allowed to compete. The men who were champions of their respective weight divisions last year will be required to step up into another division, according to the rules of the matches.

Individual trophies will be given the winners and runner-up in each division in both boxing and wrestling. A silver cup will be the prize in either case. A desperate attempt to get into condition within a week has been the end to which a large number of entrants have been working this week. Most matches will be decided in the second round when the men who are not in condition begin to weaken.

Coch. Bernie Shively has been conducting length classes in the gentle art of slamming one another down on the neck, at others, the football squad and other ambitious ones have been taking advantage of the instructions and some flashy holds and positions will be demonstrated in the wrestling matches. The judges (there will be three) have not been announced by Mr. Robinson but an effort will be made to get men who know the finer points in the game. Including among those who have entered the tournament in their respective divisions are the following:

Rannells Arrives To Assume Duties At Art Department

Prof. E. W. Rannells, formerly assistant dean at the Chicago Art Institute, arrived in Lexington this week to begin his work as head of the art department at the University. Miss Ann Worthington Callahan has been acting head of the department since the resignation of Prof. Carol M. Sax some time ago.

Professor Rannells received his A. B. degree from Ohio State University in 1925 and taught in the State art school for short time before transferring to the Chicago Institute. No classes will be met by Professor Rannells this semester, but he will spend the remainder of the term acquainting himself with the work of the department.

'CATS, CREIGHTON MEET TONIGHT

(Continued from Page One) the ball rolling in grand fashion by impudently snubbing the Oklahoma Aggies and sending them home on the short end of two games. The Bluejays won the first one, 30 to 14 and the second, 55 to 26. And then to further spread joy among their Nebraska kinpeople they defeated Syracuse University 31 to 27 in the first game of a double header and lost by only two points, 25 to 27, in the second game. And when you stop to think that Syracuse is leading the East this season with victories over Dartmouth and three other outstanding quintets—figure it out for yourself! A victory over the Catholics would give Kentucky wins over teams from four states: Georgetown and Berea in Kentucky; Miami, from Oxford, Ohio; Clemson, from South Carolina, and the Bluejays, from up Nebraska way. Success in the Creighton games will mean nothing as far as standing in the Southern Conference is concerned, but as to rating nationally, and in the south—all of which can be discussed with more integrity on Sunday. Others who will be in line to see action against Creighton are "Little" McGinnis, Kleiser, Trost, Yates, Owens, and McLane.

YESTERDAY, the rattle, creak, and plod of cart and oxen. To-day and to-morrow the zoom of airplanes. Faster production. Faster consumption. Faster communication.

Significant of electricity's part in the modern speeding-up process is the fact that during the last seven years, consumption of electric power increased three and one-half times as fast as population.

General Electric and its subsidiaries have developed and built much of the larger apparatus that generates this power as well as the apparatus which utilizes it in industry and in the home.

The college-trained men who come every year to General Electric take a responsible part in the planning, production, and distribution of electric products, and at the same time receive further technical or business training.

ZANDER ADDRESS PROVES BEST OF ASSEMBLY TALKS

One of the most artistic addresses ever given before the Engineering Assembly was that of Fred Zander, of Buffalo, N. Y., on December 18, just before the Christmas holidays. Mr. Zander's subject was "Men Worth While".

He paid high tribute to many famous men whose outstanding deeds history records, but said, "while comparatively few can reach the dazzling heights of the name of those who were unusually endowed, every man can, if he will in his way and day do his best according to his endowment, according to his capacity, work for the lessening of the evil things in life, and for the increase of all that is good, prove himself to be a 'man worth while'."

Mr. Zander paid a tribute to the great corporations, reserving the statement once made that co-operations have no souls. He said to disprove this we have but to look about us to see what wonderful welfare work these great corporations are doing, their efforts to bring complete happiness and contentment to other people. Mr. Zander said he was proud to be connected with a corporation, which, like other great corporations, has a soul, a corporation, at the head of which there are men with great hearts.

Before Mr. Zander entered into the serious discussion of his address, he gave several charming recitations, among them being "Me and Booth" and "Hoch der Kaiser." As the closing touch to the philosophy back of great corporations' he quoted the famous creed of Mr. R. T. Crane, the philanthropist and the founder of the Crane Corporation known throughout the world of engineering.

Resolutions Passed By Association on Death of Debord

The following resolutions were passed by the Men's Dormitory Association at a meeting held Tuesday night, January 7:

WHEREAS: William Howard Debord, Ashland, Kentucky, who died suddenly at his home during the Christmas holidays, had been a resident of Bradley Hall and a member of the Men's Dormitory Association during his attendance at the University as a freshman; and

WHEREAS: His many associates and friends will greatly feel his loss which they have sustained by reason of his death; and

WHEREAS: The residents of Bradley, Knick, and Breckenridge Halls wish to express in a small measure their deep sorrow at the passing of their school mate and friend;

BE IT RESOLVED: That an expression of this loss be recorded in the minutes of the Association, and that a copy of the resolution be sent to his parents with an expression of deepest sympathy, to the Kernel for publication, to the Ashland Independent, and to the Dean of Men, thereby attempting to show the esteem in which he was held by all who knew him during his stay at the University.

BEAUTY WINNERS ARE ANNOUNCED

College of Arts and Sciences and a member of the Alpha Gamma Delta sorority.

The contestants for the coveted "Beauty Crown" were guests of honor at the annual "K" dance which is sponsored each year by the staff of the university year-book. The eight winners were introduced to the persons attending the dance. The winner was presented with a basket of American Beauty roses, symbolical of her selection as the "Most Beautiful Co-ed of the University of Kentucky." The seven other winners were given blue ribbons. G. K. Barnes, chairman of the committee in charge of the beauty contest, made the presentation.

The beauty contest, which is an annual affair, attracted a far greater number of contestants than ever before. In previous years there have been but a few entrants and the section has suffered from lack of competition. This year the large number entered, while it gave the judges additional problems, at the same time offered a greater representation of the campus beauties and the staff of the Kentuckian hope that an ever increasing list of co-eds will strive for the honor of being known as the University's "Most Beautiful Girl."

The beauty section will feature the 1930 Kentuckian, and pictures of all of the contestants will be included. Pictures of the eight winners will appear in the large "Daniel Boone," one of a series of pictures of the Yale collection, will be shown at 7:30 o'clock, Monday night in McVey Hall under the auspices of the history club. Dr. Knapp will give a short talk before presenting the picture.

WHAT YOUNGER COLLEGE MEN ARE DOING WITH WESTINGHOUSE

The Westinghouse equipped all-electric locomotives of the Canadian National are the most powerful in the world.

The steam locomotive has a new rival

ATTENTION in railway circles focuses this year on a spectacular undertaking by the Canadian National Railways—the electrification of certain trains on non-electrified lines.

One great oil-electric locomotive is already in service. The largest and most powerful of its type in the world, this giant electric locomotive that carries its own generating plant develops 2660 horsepower, uses only 43 lb. of fuel per horsepower-hour developed at full load.

Many interesting features are incorporated in its design. The speed and voltage of the engine-generators are automatically controlled by the power demands.

The engine exhaust is directed through automatically regulated economizers that heat the coaches and serve as well as mufflers. Control is placed at both ends, to enable running in either direction. Only in a difference in gearing need the passenger type units differ from those adapted to freight service.

In the development of this locomotive Westinghouse engineers co-operated with the Railway's own engineers and leading locomotive manufacturers and frame builders. Every year hundreds of important jobs in which electricity is involved are delegated to Westinghouse, the clearing house for electrical development.
