ActOut presents The Twilight of the Golds

ActOut invites you to their production of Twilight of the Golds by Jonathan Tolins, directed by Robert Parks Johnson. Performances will be held at the Central Public Library Theater, 140 E. Main St., over two weekends in March. Curtain's at 8 pm on Friday 14, Saturday 15, and Saturday 22. There will also be a matinee on Sunday, 23, at 2 pm. Admission is $8.

This drama is set in the not to distant future when geneticists are experimenting with testing for sexual orientation of a fetus in utero. Suzanne Gold (SarahKate Moody) is married to genetic researcher Rob Stein (Bill French), the son of Orthodox Jews who disapprove of what they perceive as their son's meddling with God's prerogatives.

When Rob submits his and Suzanne's unborn son to his colleagues' experimental test procedures, the baby appears to have a 90 percent chance of being homosexual. Rob thinks they should consider abortion. Suzanne confides in her mother, Phyllis Gold (Robin Roth), that she fears for the added burden her new family will face.

Mom's got a big mouth, and before long Suzanne's father, Walter Gold (Michael Thompson) and gay brother, David Gold (Andrew Hyde), are weighing in with their conflicting opinions about whether or not Suzanne should have an abortion. David, naturally, has strong feeling about his family members even considering this alternative. The Gold ...continued on page 2

Soulforce

Soulforce Lexington has biweekly meetings on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month at the home of Jamie McDaniel. Soulforce follows the principles of non-violence practiced and taught by Gandhi and Martin Luther King, Jr.

King's dream and life work was to move our society nearer to what he called "the beloved community." McDaniel believes that "an essential component of realizing that dream is for us to understand the injustices of yesterday so that we are better equipped to recognize and work towards ending the injustices of today."

Therefore, Soulforce has begun an in-depth study of the Civil Rights Movement of the 50's and 60's. For the study group, each participant will be given free copies of two books about that era and will be asked to purchase a copy of A Call to Conscience: The Landmark Speeches of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. For information or directions, call Jamie McDaniel at 859-230-5625. Past topics of discussion have included dealing with past and current guilt, coming to terms with our transgendered nature, coming out to friends and family members, and discussing how gender affects our role in society. We hope to have makeovers planned for the March meeting.

Lesbian Fifty Plus Group

by Ginger Moore-Minder

I want to start a new group for lesbians fifty and over and their allies. In January I attended "Silver Threads" a convention for 50+ women in St. Petersburg, FL. The St.Pete, Tampa area has several very active groups for women in their fifties and I thought it would be fun to start one here. I have been advertising in the "Meeting Place" to let people know that do not get this newsletter and to increase our attendance.

The first outing will be Saturday, March 15. We will go to The Red Seville Restaurant on Limestone in front of the Main Library at 6pm. A section has been set aside for us and a special menu of Spanish and Latin (Not Mexican) food has been arranged. At 7pm we will be entertained with Flamenco dancing. At 8pm we will go across the street to the Act-Out Play, "Twilight of the Golds". It promises to be a very special evening. Reservations and tickets to the play are required by March 12, call 253-3233 or 276-0673. Let all your friends know.

LYONS LEVI / LEATHER CLUB

The Lexington Lyons / Levi and Leather Club meets at the Pride Center on March 10 at 7:30. We welcome new members and individuals interested in learning about our organization.

The Lyons recently donated a copy of A Handbook on the Leather & BDSM Lifestyle to the Pride Library. This notebook has information about the BDSM lifestyle gathered from a variety of sources and is particularly designed for the gay male audience. It includes information about the history of the leather tradition, terminology and current day Pride material. It is available for loan from the Pride Library.

PRIDE CENTER NEWS

389 Waller Ave. 859-253-3233 Mon-Sat 10 - 3

LESBIAN VIDEO NIGHT

In honor of Women's History Month, we'll be viewing Aimee and Jaguar Friday, March 14 at 7 p.m. This 1998 drama is based upon the true story of two women, one German and one Jewish, who fell in love in Berlin during World War II.

Maria Shrader and Juliane Kohler won best actress awards at the Berlin Film Festival for their performances as the title characters. The film is in German with English subtitles. The version that will be shown has not been rated.

(For additional information about gay men and lesbians in Hitler's Germany, see the article on page 16 or check out the documentary Paragraph 175 from the Pride Library.)

Xena at the Pride Center

by Jane Minder

It's been two long years since Xena, the Warrior Princess and her gal pal (wink), Gabrielle traveled the world, fought bad guys (and girls), died and came back to life, hung out with goddesses and gods, traveled through time, and generally kicked ass where ever they went. Are you are still suffering the effects of Xena withdrawal? Or maybe you are an "X:WP Virgin" who missed out on the whole phenomenon. Well guess what? THEY'RE BACK!!!

Join us for the return of Xena and Gabrielle at the Pride Center, on Saturday, March 15th at 1pm. Every third Saturday of the month we will get together to watch several episodes of this classic series, in order, commercial free, in the newly issued DVD format. See their journey from the beginning and decide for yourself when all that "lesbian subtext" started.

It's free and everyone is welcome. We are hoping for a big crowd so bring a friend and some snacks to share. For more information call the Pride Center at 253-3233 or email Jane at ladyjaneky@yahoo.com.

Art for Fun

We are proud to announce a free art group which will meet on the first, second, and fourth Saturday, from 1pm to 4pm at the Pride Center. The group will be led by two local artists with occasional guest artists. Informal instruction will be given in such arts as drawing, pastels, watercolors, acrylics, oils, sculpting, or whatever medium you'd like to work with. The goal is not to produce great artists but to help you release your creative energy that was no doubt squelched in elementary school.

This group plans to do gallery hops here in town, and trips to Louisville and Cincinnati art museums. Some art history and appreciation will be taught. The group will be drop-in so you do not have to attend every session. Come see what fun it is to enjoy the process of creating without too much concern for what is created. Art for fun will be offered from March to May.

Discussion Group

The GLSO Discussion/Support Group meets every Wednesday at 7 pm at the Pride Center. We are always open to new people dropping in to join us. We discuss a whole range of issues. If you have something that you need to think outloud about, we will listen. For information contact the Pride Center at 859-253-3233, or Jane at email ladyjaneky@yahoo.com.

Pride Center Library Highlights: "Gays in the Military"

By Jane Minder

For most GLBT persons "Gays in the Military" brings to mind the U.S. government's "Don't Ask, Don't Tell" policy. But with the threat of war looming on the horizon I began to think about all the people past and present, gay and straight who have served in the military. I know people in this community who have served our country with honor and valor. I would hate to think of their stories as being defined by the political issues of our time. In some small way I hope that this month's selections of fact, fiction and biography, will honor their service.

GLSO Rummage Sale & Craft Fair

The GLSO Pride Center is planning a rummage sale in May. This is a perfect way to get rid of all your gently used clothes, furniture, knickknacks, linens, dishes, etc and help the pride center at the same time. As you do your spring-cleaning, please put aside anything you think would be appropriate for this upcoming fundraiser. Due to space constraints we ask that you do not bring anything to the Pride Center at this time.

In conjunction with the sale, we will set aside an area for a Craft Fair. Crafters may need to provide their own tables and will need to pay a fee or donate part of their income for the day. We will be heavily advertising this event and are looking for a large turn out so this would be an excellent way to make the transition from a hobby to a business.

To complete the fair atmosphere, we would like to have a food wagon offering hot dogs, chips, drinks, and funnel cakes. If anyone has a food wagon they would like to donate for the day or knows how to go about renting one, please let us know.

Look for more information in the next newsletter. We will need volunteers to sort and price items to help work the day of the sale. Call Ginger or Sharon to volunteer, for additional information about donations or about selling crafts, or if you have information about acquiring a food wagon. Pride Center - 859 253-3233, Sharon at 859 338-1046 or email lexingtonglso@yahoo.com.

Andrew's Club: Fear Factor

Andrews Club for GLBT young adults has kicked off with a bang. Members gather at 7 pm at the Pride Center and often go from there to other locations in Lexington. It meets on Saturdays March 8 and 22 and is open to young adults 18 and up. If you are a somewhat older, come anyway and see if it fits your needs

At one of the February meetings, Andrew arranged a game of Fear Factor. As seen on NBC, everyone competed in outlandish competitions ranging from eating sardines and transporting crawfish in their mouths, to climbing a 40 foot rock wall and hanging upside down by a bungee cord for an extended period of time.

"It was hysterical watching everyone compete so ferociously," Andrew said, "Luckily I was just the host." The fierce competition ended with a champion who was awarded the coveted "Andrews Club Champion" T-shirt.

Andrew Hyde, from CBS' The Amazing Race reality TV show, started this group in January and looks forward to all the group has planned for 2003. The group will have a different activity each meeting ranging from hiking, going to the movies, weekend trips to places such as Gatlinburg, and New York City in June. Andrew will be speaking during New York's Pride Events.

"I'm completely psyched that everyone is having such a blast. It's a very laid back group and is absolutely open to everyone," Andrew stated. For info contact Andrew at KYAndrew1@aol.com.

The Imperial Court

As you can see by the ad on the preceding page, The Imperial Court has many fun activities planned for Spring. The Falsie Awards, The Game Show and Hair Care 2003 are all in the works. If you want

The Entertainer of the Year shows are under way; two successful shows have already raised over $1,000. Members of the Court have traveled to Connecticut and Long Beach recently for coronations. We are excited about planning our Coronation 22 which will be in early June.

Our Calendars are now on sale for $7. Get one at this bargain price. And last but not least, Congratulations to Jenna Jive who was crowned Miss Gay Valentine on February 12.

Mystery Dinner Theater Actors Needed

GLSO and ActOut have commissioned a short play to be presented in May. There are six parts for actors, no previous experience necessary. Tryout are scheduled for Thursday April 2 at the Pride Center with three male and three female parts.

This will be basically a one act play that opens up to audience participation as folks try to solve the mystery of who set a fire at Bell Breezing's House of ill repute. If you are really interested, we suggest you call Terry before the tryout date at 576-5262. He may assign parts in advance of the tryout date. So give him a call and sign up to have some fun.

BLUEGRASS FAIRNESS Annual Meeting Report by Allan Barger and Laura Harris

The yearly General Meeting of the Kentucky Fairness Alliance Bluegrass Chapter was held on January 28 at the Lexington Public Library. State Senator Ernesto Scorsone opened the meeting by thanking Fairness for its work. He shared his thoughts on the upcoming legislative session, where he is filing a Senate bill to protect state employees from job discrimination based on sexual orientation. He emphasized that the most effective approach with legislators is to make a personal contact.

The 2002 Annual Report highlighted some of Bluegrass Fairness's activities and successes: being visible (and winning the Best Float) in the Lexington July 4th parade, the fundraising dinner at Portofinos, and the strong planning and participation in the Hate-Free Lexington rally. Former steering committee members were recognized with plaques of appreciation: including former co-chairs Fe Myer, Theresa McGrann and Miss Fairness, Jeff Jones! Also honored were Robin Maley, Jerry Neff and Melanie Otis. Cindy Downey was honored as Bluegrass Volunteer of the Year.

Fundraising is crucial for Fairness' ongoing work and the concession trailer downtown on July 4th, the annual dinner and t-shirt sales are successes that will continue. Scott Ackerman was recognized for his significant sponsorship for the 2002 dinner. Scott Perry was recognized for raffles he organized at Crossings during the past two years, netting significant funds for Fairness' work. After conversations with Bluegrass Fairness, the Lexington Herald-Leader has indicated a willingness to publish Same-sex Union Announcements. We are seeking one or more couples who have recently had a union ceremony, and who are willing to be named in a statewide newspaper, to pioneer these announcements. If this is you, please contact us.

Bluegrass Fairness' Outreach Committee has information tables at many local events and is planning a Family Legal Issues seminar. Outreach is communicating with Central Baptist Hospital about their deletion of "sexual orientation" from the non-discrimination form required by Community Action Council. Letters to the editor in the Lexington Herald Leader were spear-headed by Allan Barger, who is a community columnist for 2003. Fairness also plans to work with other area media to gain visibility for LGBT issues. If you can work on Outreach issues, contact us.

Fairness worked with an employee of Lexmark to successfully establish domestic partner benefits there. This year Fairness focuses on Ashland, Inc., a major Kentucky employer. Ashland employees are encouraged to state their need for DP benefits with support from Bluegrass. We plan to meet with Lexington's Mayor Isaac about DP benefits for city employees.

Andrea Hildebran, executive director of state KFA, reported on door to door visits in Northern KY that found good support for a Fairness Ordinance. ## Paragraph 175

Nazi Persecution of Homosexuals

by mary crone

The Holocaust Memorial Museum in Washington D.C. is now showing a special exhibition called The Nazi Persecution of Homosexual, 1933-1945. After mid March, it will travel to other areas of the country. Some of the information in this article was taken from the Museum's reports on its exhibit, and some is from Paragraph 175, the documentary directed by Rob Epstein and Jeffery Friedman and narrated by Rupert Everett. This documentary is available in the Pride Library.

The period of the Weimar Republic between the two World Wars was a time of growing acceptance of GLBT people in Germany. In the early 1930's, an estimated 350,000 gay men and lesbians lived among Berlin's four million residents. There were many same-sex "friendship leagues", clubs, cafes, and dance halls.

In January 1933, the Nazi Party took control of the German government. They had won the majority of seats in the election with a call for law and order, traditional values, and racial purity. Drawing on the "science" of eugenics (improving the "quality" of the human race through selective breeding) they began to advocate for the dominance of the Aryan race in Germany.

Nazi authorities accused homosexual men of carrying a "contagious degeneracy" that would weaken the nation. They immediately shut down homosexual gathering places, organizations, and publications. On May 6, 1933, Nazi student groups ransacked Magnus Hirschfeld's Institute of Sexual Science, Berlin's most visible symbol of the movement for gay rights and legal reform. Four days later, much of the institute's library became part of the first public book burning. It was no doubt not a mistake that the first books burned were by and about gay and lesbian people.

Paragraph 175 of the German Penal Code, an anti-sodomy law, had been on the books since 1871. In 1935, Nazi authorities rewrote Paragraph 175 declaring "unnatural indecency" between men to be punishable by imprisonment, and expanding the concept of "indecencies" to include any interaction deemed to have sexual content.

Over the next several years, the German police forces gained greater authority for surveillance of suspected individuals. 78,000 men were arrested under Paragraph 175, one third of whom were convicted and sentenced to prison. Hundreds more were interned in concentration camps without a trial and with no legal recourse. All were subjected to brutal mistreatment at the hands of police, interrogators and guards. The requirement that gay men wear the pink triangle also dates from this time.

In 1939, Heinrich Himmler, the head of the SS, ordered convicted homosexual men be sent to concentration camps upon completion of their prison sentences. Within a short period of time, other gay men and lesbians were sent to the camps without any judicial procedure. At the camps, gay men as well as other prisoners came under the policy of "extermination through work." Although they were not sent to gas chambers, at least three quarters of these men perished.

Lesbians were not marked for extermination but were persecuted under the Nazis. They were required to wear a black triangle indicating they were part of a larger group of social deviants and were sent to concentration camps where they often died from starvation.

When the documentary Paragraph 175 was shot, less than ten survivors could be found and not all of these agreed to be interviewed. The interviews with these survivors and their ...continued on next page poignant stories create a vivid record of this period of our history. Paragraph 175 is available in the Pride Library.

Eugenics: Past and Future by mary crone

As noted in the preceding article on Paragraph 175, Hitler used the "science" of eugenics as a jumping off point for his attempt to exterminate Jews, Roma people (gypsies), and others who were a threat of his imagined racial purity. However, the idea of improving the human race by selecting for "better" genes did not originate with Hitler nor did it end there.

The ActOut production of Twilight of the Golds suggests a future where sexual preference may be able to be identified in the womb and selected out through abortion. Is this possible or probable?

In the United States, eugenics became popular early in the 20th Century. Between 1905 and 1974, 70,00 Americans underwent forced sexual sterilization.

In Virginia the Lynchburg Colony was established to sterilize children and teens that the state judged to be "defective and unfit to reproduce." The characteristics that were targets were mental illness, mental retardation and epilepsy. These were considered to be inheritable family traits at the time, although little scientific understanding of genetics existed when the project started.

The Winston Salem Journal, a daily paper in North Carolina, has recently been publishing reports on North Carolina's sterilization program that started in the 1920 and continued until 1974. According to their research, most of the sterilization done before WWII focused on poor white women although some men were also castrated.

Following WW II, the focus shifted from a poor white women to poor black single mothers. In the 50's and 60's some experimental methods were used including sterilization with intense x-rays and with radium implantation. Several deaths resulted from these procedures.

The records unearthed by the paper reveal that some individuals were sterilized due to "sexual perversion." One Black man, age 36 with 5 children, was castrated because he was a "sexual pervert and homosexual."

Forced procedures may not be practiced in great numbers today, but women now seek ultrasound and amniosynthesis to determine characteristics of the fetus they carry with the intention of having an abortion if they discover undesirable traits. In India and China where boy babies are much preferred to girls, it is not uncommon for women to seek abortions if their fetus is determined through ultrasound to be female. Many women undergo tests for fetal abnormalities such as downs syndrome with the intention of aborting fetuses that are "abnormal."

Our ability to test fetuses in the womb, to select for traits we or our society deems valuable and to eliminate undesirable traits is become increasingly possible. At the end of February there was a Symposium sponsored by the Lexington Theological Seminary entitled Moral Values and Dilemmas in Bioethics. Two of the presentations were: "From Pre-Natal Testing to Designer Children: The Pastor as a Guide on the Path to the Future" and "Improving Ourselves: Biomedical Technology as the New Means of Grace".

It would be interesting to see if people who are working hard to make abortion illegal would change their minds if sexual preference becomes identifiable in the womb. Or perhaps at that point they will be able to change preference by medical intervention. Before that time, I hope "gayness" will be seen as the gift to the world I believe it to be. Every day you talk to someone about your positive feeling about being queer, you increase the likelihood that gayness will not disappear from the world.

One World Film Festival

Now in its fifth year, the One World Film Festival bring films about cultural diversity to Lexington and invites you to attend free of charge. Because of the ice storm, we will be showing the films that were scheduled for February 16 and 18 at the end of our schedule in mid-March.

The first two films in March are feature films by women directors in honor of Women's History Month. On Sun, March 2 we will show Honey and Ashes at the Young Library Auditorium on UK campus. Parking is available in lots around the Library off Woodland Ave. The Women's Studies Program, which is cosponsoring our festival this year, was particularly instrumental in scheduling this film.

Three women in an unnamed Islamic country want to live of their own choosing but are limited by the traditions of male dominance. Leila keeps her relationship hidden from her strict father. Naima, a successful doctor, is pressured by her family to enter an arranged marriage. Amina has few options when faced with an abusive husband. The lives of these women weave together in unexpected ways portraying a society where patriarchal authority limits the freedom of women.

The next two movies will be at the Central Library Theater at 7 pm. On Tues, March 4, join us for a lighthearted Mexican movie, Danzon. Middle aged Julie lives a rather ordered life, which includes dancing the traditional Danzon with her partner of six years, Carmelo Benitez. One day Carmelo disappears and Julia goes in search of him. She is befriended by a cross dresser who gives her affection and fashion tips. Her search for Carmelo fresher from her routine and enables her to find a new way of being in the world. This is a buoyant colorful film filled with music. A demonstration of dance will be performed before the film.

On Sat, March 8, we will show When We Were Kings, which won the Academy Award in 1997. In 1974, Muhammed Ali was past his prime but agreed to fight George Foreman who was ten years younger and the heavyweight Champion of the world. Don King received financial backing from Mobutu Sese Suko, dictator of Zaire, and "The Rumble in the Jungle" became a major cultural event. The film includes scenes from the musical festival that King produced featuring James Brown and B.B. King. There is also commentary by Norman Mailer and Spike Lee.

Lagaan has been rescheduled for Sunday March 9 at 3:15 pm at the UK Worsham Theater in the Student Center. It is a long movie but there will be an intermission and Indian food will be served.

Set in 1893 during the British occupation of India, this romantic costume epic combines sports, politics, romance, comedy, drama, and musical numbers. A British Captain levies a cruel land tax (a lagaan) on the farmers in his district. Bhuvan rallies the farmers in opposition and agrees to play a cricket match to decided if they will pay no tax or twice the tax that has been levied. A highly successful "Bollywood" film and Academy Award nominee for best foreign film.

WICCAN PATHWAY PART 2 OSTARA/SPRING (VERNAL) EQUINOX

By Iggie

As I am writing this it is the end of January and I am wishing Ostara were here because it would likely be warmer. Ostara/Spring (Vernal) equinox is the first day of Spring (around March 21). Is it also called Eostar and Alban Eiler (Caledonii Tradition).

It is the season of rebirth, when we as humans, along with the animals, realize that we need Mother Earth to sustain our lives. We feel life around us beginning to grow and we rejoice. The Earth warms and we shake off the winter blues. It is time to prepare for planting and growing, time to get out and explore the brand new world around us.

The equinox is the point in time when light and darkness (i.e. day and night) are of equal length. This day was the predecessor to the Christian holy day of Easter, which children now celebrate by decorating eggs. In many pagan traditions eggs were eaten to promote prosperity and fertility.

A simple way of marking the first day of spring is to get up before sunrise and take a walk in a park or the woods. As the sun rises, welcome Mother Earth and ask her and Father Sun for their blessings and renewed life. Then returning home, enjoy a good breakfast and prepare your home and garden for spring.

Next month I will write about Beltaine, which is very special to me. For more information about Wicca, paganism or my study group feel free to call me at (859) 492-9904. The study group is open to anyone interested in learning more about Wiccan and pagan beliefs. Blessed Be (Ed note: In the Jewish tradition, an egg is placed on the Seder Plate for the Passover dinner. It is interesting that many people I have celebrated Passover with have wondered why the egg was included since it is not part of the story. I tell them it probably came from pagan practices, and that it is a symbol of renewed life. That is
