

WHITMORE PUBLISHING COMPANY, Inc.

STATIONERY Printing ENGRAVING

Salesbooks - Office Supplies - Signs - Show Cards

35 South Main Street, Reisterstown, Maryland

February 11, 1932

Mr. Herndon Evans
Pineville, Ky.

Dear Mr. Evans:-

Do you really believe that the vast population of this country is going to believe the lurid story you tell of Waldo Frank and Allan Taub fighting one another to produce injuries?

I am surprised at an editor who is supposed to be an intelligent leader of a community attempting to palm off such a ridiculous story on the people.

The people of Pineville are evidently of a very low order or they would never have objected to the relief of the starving fellow-citizens---but the crowning insult to the intelligence of this country is your wild story of how the donors of free food became injured.

I do not know anyone connected with this---I am not a radical at all, but I do resent a community such as yours, which would rather see its strikers starve and their children perish, rather than to admit its own inability to care for them.

To the rest of the country the name of Pineville, Ky., is a disgrace.

Sincerely yours,

John M. Whitmore
John M. Whitmore