STUDENT COUNCIL

This week will witness the annual election of the Men's Student Council, the group which during the next year will serve as representatives of the university student body.

University officials have been more than cooperative with past student councils. Years ago, in an effort to make the members of the student body a sense of responsibility in campus affairs, the University Senate assisted in the establishment of student government.

Wednesday the first section for next year's council will occur after the engineers' convocation. Friday will see the consummation of this polling. Men student at the university are facing a test which is to determine the course of campus activities in the future.

No acceptable excuse can be given for the lack of student participation in student government election. Instances such as these of last year's election when council members, who were to represent the entire student body of their respective colleges, were chosen at meetings attended by as few as three and four persons.

First Revue Given By Stroller Players

They were next on the program with a comedy song and dance of take-offs on campus life. A beautiful chorus number, "The Palomares," featured Gay Lougridge, dancing in utter darkness with luminous paint on her hands and feet.

campus elections. The Kernel urges every man student at the university to attend the meeting in which representatives of his particular class and college are to be selected.

FRATERNITIES AND THE UNEMPLOYED

Fraternities at the University of West Virginia are sponsoring a project which is of the greatest interest in fraternity circles.

Fraternities on this campus might render considerable service to their community by following this example. The University of Kentucky has been one of the few universities in this section of the country which has not offered its help in some tangible way toward helping the city with unemployment problems.

The expense of such a plan is very small. The average fraternity serves about twenty at each meal; two more, instead of necessitating extra expense, would merely take care of extra food which is usually wasted.

The Kernel thinks that this would be a most worthy project for serious consideration at the next meeting of the fraternities. Several of the larger universities are giving this idea a great deal of publicity and attention.

THE NEW LIBRARY

The new library swiftly nearing completion, is to be the most imposing building on the campus and one of the most complete libraries in the entire South.

The architects and contractors of this new building have apparently thought of everything. The floors are cork covered to deaden sound. The ceilings are high; the rooms are well lighted.

The new library building, with its unlimited room for the use of the old library is now being converted into a museum. The university has long needed a building in which to place all of the various relics which are now scattered here and there about the campus, and the idea is an excellent one.

Johnston, was a scene of a dean's office and preceded the Grand Finale. Music and Lyrics for the entertainment were by Noel Walton and Horace Kane.

PHI BETA KAPPAS

Time there was when the name of Phi Beta Kappa conjured up a picture of solemn, over-learned, unapproachable scholars.

In the last several years on our own campus, this picture of Phi Beta Kappas whom we might have known, has become more enlivened. It has expanded until now the sound of that impressive name does not frighten us away, rather does it bring us to closer inspection and appreciation.

In the last elections to the Kentucky chapter of Phi Beta Kappa the candidates chosen were indeed outstanding, not only in scholarship, but in the other contributions which they have made to their alma mater.

INTRAMURAL CARNIVAL

The first intramural carnival of the university will be held for both men and women on Stoll field Saturday afternoon, May 23.

The women's department of physical education is sponsor of the fete, and everything which will go toward making it a success has been arranged. It is the hope of the physical education department and the physical department that students of the university will display an interest in the event and that the carnival may become an annual feature of the spring athletic program.

There is no organization on the campus that cannot find one or more events in which its members might participate and it is only through the participation of the various organizations that the carnival can be made a success.

COLLEGE CLIPPINGS

In father's day were were forced to do work and were really fit for the hard job of being men, but the twentieth century codifies its young men.

Is he financially unable and mentally too immature to take on life's duties? Does the time spent in college benumb the man's sense of responsibility?

In his conversation a hedge-podge of platitudes comes out of a corpse-decked in evening duds that still do not sparkle?

Does he get his opinions from the newspapers and journals and especially from the sport page? Can it be truthfully said of the collegian that he aims to please but fails to satisfy?

The modern woman answers all the above questions in the affirmative. She has developed an acute sense of dominance and pities herself because she fears that she must associate with second-rate men.

Men today are as aware of their shortcomings as before. If this impression of the modern woman is true it is lamentable. But despondency has never won a cause.

XCHANGES

By Gertrude Evans

Notre Dame's famous football coach, the late Knute Rockne, will be honored again May 23 with the sixth annual running of the Central Intercollegiate track and field meet at Marquette stadium in Milwaukee.

At the University of Nebraska, when a mild plus a girl, it is traditional that he buy her a huge box of chocolates, which she passes in the morning hours dormitory afternoon dinner, and a box of cigars.

The annual Northwestern circus was produced last week. After the parade of floats three competitive rings of entertainment are held. If organizations are good enough to get their show in the middle ring they are pretty sure to win one of the prizes, which are much coveted.

The 33rd annual production of the Harefoot, one of the foremost collegiate musical comedy clubs in America, was given recently. This year it was "It's a Gay Life."

A paragraph clipped from a certain college paper—same withheld purposely—with the headline "Evilyn to Wash!"

The Carnegie Tartan of Carnegie Tech, Pittsburgh, tells us that a letter which was mailed from them on September 26, 1921, was returned the other day.

Somebody's political science notes, somebody's old newspaper, and six Literary Digests in the way. As an additional example of the expert planning of the authorities in charge, we note that the building where the old library is now housed will be converted into a museum.

SOCIETY

Faith
Better trust all and be deceived.
And weep that trust and that deceive.
Than doubt one heart that, if believed,
Had blessed one's life with true believing.
Oh, in this mocking world, too fast
The doubling field o'er takes our youth:
Better be cheated to the last
Than lose the blessed hope of truth.

May Issue of 'Letters' Featured by Poem by A. E.

The May issue of "Letters," university literary publication, has been released within the last week and is now in the hands of the subscribers. Letters has several short stories, editorials, and poems that are worthy of consideration.
Many people, opening their copies of the magazine, will be surprised to find a facsimile reproduction of the poem "First Love" by George William Russell, noted Irish agriculturalist and poet who was a recent visitor at the university. The poem is signed simply "A. E." The poem itself is written in a hand that is scrawly but easily read. The editor's note with the poem explains that Russell, who had promised a contribution to Letters was not able to do so.

upward into the clouds. The other "Degrade Leaves." The truth of detail of an ramshackle farm is plainly shown and the reason for the leave-taking made clear. Miss Shute has contributed to the magazine often since its conception. "Song and Dance Suite" is a collection of poems contributed by Marion F. Gilmore, who was formerly a professional dancer in Hollywood. Each poem is written in the rhythm that the dance interprets and the dancer has succeeded admirably. "The Swan" is dedicated to Anna Pavlova because of her great interpretation of Saint-Saens' "The Swan." The other two of the collection are "The Oriental Dancer" and "The Dancer."
"On Big Hill" and "The Purple Veil" are the two short stories for this issue. The first was written by Sidney Green, Louisville, whose work is recognized quite extensively. It is the story of a Negro and his reactions to life, in particular to another "nigger," Mary Lanier Magruder of Kevill is the author of the other. Miss Magruder is the author of the Harper novel of 1924 which she called "Wages."
Prof. Edward W. Rannels of the university art department has a article which he has entitled "This Terrible Modern Art." There are several good book reviews and poems written by students and other contributors.

SEEN FROM THE PRESS BOX

By RALPH E. JOHNSON

HE WHO GETS SLAPPED

Friday afternoon Kentucky entertained the Vanderbilt baseball team in the first of a two series contest. The game was well on its way and Kentucky led the Southwesterns by one run.

The writer has seen games in every size lot, and he has seen a motley crowd of "umps." They are all bood, etc. but never has the writer seen an ump with the audacity to attack a spectator.

But professor or not, he was one of the paid attendance and in one light was part of the corporation that hired the umpire. He is due an apology.

LAST SATURDAY

This department has to hand it to Bernie Shively for the way he handled the high school track meet last Saturday.

All of the high schools in the state had to be notified and the entry blanks sent out. The extension department financed the idea, and the rest was up to Shively.

From the north, for the past week or so, there has been a breath of hot air stirring. It seems that a certain sprinter from Cincy has been blowing off a lot of steam about his speed.

The afternoon of the day appeared and with it came Sweitzer and Yagi. They stepped off a few hundred yards to warm up before a large crowd who were out to witness the duel.

And after it was all over and Kelly had led Yagi over both courses in record times, Sweitzer had nothing to say. Somehow, this fellow from Cincy reminds the writer of Sharkey, the erstwhile slugger from Boston.

"Now that you have seen Kelly, do you think he has a chance for the next Olympics?" a reporter asked Yagi. "Kelly has a fine body, and I think he might do all right," Yagi replied.

Dr. H. Forschhammer Upholds World Plan

There are vast tracts of wasted space in Arizona and New Mexico. Too, our cities follow a different plan altogether in their architecture, for the law in Denmark prevents any building from being above six stories.

She smiled at the idea of our awe of royalty, and said that the ruling house of Denmark is very democratic. The King is a well-known figure on the streets of Copenhagen, his great height making him easily distinguishable.

The only university in Denmark is in Copenhagen, and it is strictly a place of teaching, Doctor Forschhammer says. It is coeducational but makes no provision for the life of the students outside of their college hours.

And will you stay over for the derby? she was asked. "Derby? The English derby? Or is there one in America? No, I have never been to a derby, and I don't think I'll start now."

And we were forced to leave her with a somewhat chastened dream regarding the world-wide importance of the event soon to take place at Churchill Downs, of which such a distinguished visitor had never heard.

"I am a small man and must practice all year, but in this country I can not do it. For five years I have not run, and now I am getting too old to run."

Yagi finished third and second in the hundred and 220 respectively. Sweitzer didn't even finish the race in either dash.

In every college town there is one outstanding smoking tobacco

At Illinois it's

ALONG Green Street, where campus leaders stroll . . . in the great plate-roofed fraternity houses of Champaign . . . there is one pipe tobacco which always rolls up the biggest vote.

A pipe—Edgeworth. That is the smoking combination which has won the college man. Harvard, Cornell, Michigan, Stanford, Dartmouth—all agree with Illinois. Natural merit has made Edgeworth the favorite tobacco in America's leading colleges and universities.

College men everywhere respond to the appeal of pipes—packed with cool, slow-burning Edgeworth. Be guided by their verdict: try Edgeworth yourself. Find it at your nearest tobacco shop—15¢ the tin. Or, for generous free sample, address: Larus & Bro. Co., 105 S. 22d St., Richmond, Va.
