ALL-STATE CONCERT

The concert of the all-state orchestra, under the direction of Prof. E. J. Weigel, Ohio State university, will take place at 11 o'clock Saturday morning in Memorial hall.

LEGAL SIDE

There is something rotten in the building program. There is no need to spend one and a half millions on Midland and Main and move out Main to Broadway, C. V. Magrath of the University board will be in charge of the parade.

Various Factions Present Opinions Without Violence

Members of the Board of Trustees' resolution demanding an "apology" from Prof. Lester S. O'Bannon, restoration of O'Bannon to his former status, and an investigation to determine responsibility for the recent reconstruction program was advocated in a resolution adopted by approximately 1,000 students at the mass rally last night in the Union ballroom.

MOEGAN DUNKED

The picture showed John Morgan, ODK president, planting ivy, and the paper quoted him as remarking that it was being done "to hide Dean Graham's mistakes." Engulfing students, taking exception to Morgan's remark, set him Wednesday morning, and before a rapidly-congregated crowd of 600 students, dunked him in a fish pond.

Early that morning campus police discovered a swastika flag waving from the flagpole and hauled it down. The banner bore the Nazi symbol with the word, "Graham," under it.

Carol Coed has voiced her ideas of how she should act when she meets people and when she goes to the movies. But Carol has not exhausted her store of knowledge. She knows how to act in other situations.

When Carol is out or even dead, people will read her letters. Then how will they sound? Will they be masterpieces or disgraces to her name? For Carol is average in her letter-writing ability too. A letter written in a scrawly hand is discouraging. People who write badly should make a practice of typing. That's easy on the eyes.

Diamond Cats Defeat Eastern; To Meet Commodores Today

The Locker Room

By BEN WILLIAMS

Another Kentucky Derby has been written into the records and heading the list for the sixty-sixth running is the name of Gallahadon, gangling bay son of Sir Gallahad III, who swept down the stretch to victory a length and a half ahead of Col. E. R. Bradley's Bimblech, the 2 to 5 favorite and idol of the sports writers. If all the praise that has been spoken about Bim were uttered at once the blast would have been sufficient to blow the tired "wonder horse" in first.

Apparently we stand almost alone, at least in print, in thinking that Bim lost because jockey Smith gave him one of the worst rides we have ever seen.

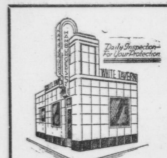

Even before the race was run this same opinion was voiced by a man who knows horses and knows jockeys, the owner of many good races, who said that he wouldn't let Smith ride the worst horse in his stable. "I won't stick my neck out for the six by giving this too much weight. But we will be watching largely to see if Bimblech romps home to victory tomorrow over Gallahadon in the Frosh race, Maryland's classic."

GETTING BACK HOME
Almost any time during the afternoon now it is easy to find half-a-dozen or more baseball games in progress around the campus. These

Homer By Charlie Martin Clinches Eastern Game

Recovered from a fielding slip after Tuesday's 11-10 victory over Eastern, Coach Moseley's diamond cats will face the Vanderbilt Commodores today and tomorrow on Stoll field.

Today's game is slated to start at 3:30 p. m., while Saturday's battle will begin at 2:30 after the Kentucky-Cincinnati track meet. Ticket books will be required at both times.
An eighth inning home run by Charlie Martin, pinch-hitting for Grover Cardwell, gave the Cats the victory margin Tuesday in the Eastern slugfest. Driving in a man ahead of him, Martin crossed the plate for Kentucky's 11th and last score.

Kentucky's eighth inning lead barely sufficed for two Eastern sluggers, Lefty Shetler and Chuck Schoster, stole the spotlight of the show by hammering homers off George Tognocci in the second and third of the ninth. It was the first circuit-clout for both of the Easterners. Schoster scoring in the third and Shetler in the sixth.

Tognocci went the route on the mound for the Wildcats. Alternately hot and cold, he managed to pull out of the tight spots to retain a third inning lead garnered by his team-mates. Though giving up seven walks, he struck out seven men and allowed the usually hard-pounding Easterners only 10 hits.

The Maroons were forced to play three pitchers. With a curve that resembled a water-fountain in a high wind, the versatile Shetler started out like a fire engine and handuffed the Cats for two innings. In the third, however, he cooled off and hits by Shepherd, Black, and Ellington forced him to evacuate in favor of George Hill. Hill stuck it out until the eighth, knocking the ball out of the park. Yeager took over from here, setting

Sun Speeds Softball Schedule

12 Games Played; Track Meet Set For May 21-23

With warm weather finally putting in its belated appearance this week the intramural department looks forward to a speedy run-off of the softball schedule which has been marked by frequent postponements due to rain and cold weather. Competition in all leagues got into full swing this week with a total of ten games being played.

Opening the week's play in the Independent league, Tuesday, were three games. Slatt's Independents had a field day at the expense of the Unknowns, pouncing out a 20-9 victory. The other two games on the program saw the Law College taking the measure of the Numerals, and the Lee A. C. fopping the "K" Club.

In Greek league I Wednesday, the SAE's kept up their impressive record with a 5-2 win over the KAN. In the remaining contest the Delta Tau Delta ten swamped the Pi Kappa under a 21-1 avalanche.

In League II, also played Wednesday, the AYCO's made slugfests the order of the day by snowing un-

Harriers To Meet Cincy Here In Season's Finale

Contest Slated For Stoll Field Tomorrow

Kentucky's galloping track team, proud possessors of a two win-one loss record will perform for the last time this season tomorrow at 1:30 on Stoll field against the harriers from the University of Cincinnati.

Doubtful only as to the condition of Captain Paul Durbin, ace distance runner who was splined two weeks ago in the West Virginia contest, Coach Rupert professed confidence in the strength of his squad, reporting that they are in better shape now than at any previous time during the season.

"Despite the top-heavy score run up against us by Tennessee last week," he said, "our team did exceptionally well. Most of our runners lost only by narrow margins."

Coach Rupert was especially pleased with the work of John Dunn, who has lifted his mark in the pole vault to 11 feet, 6 inches as compared with a 10 foot jump in the Hanover contest.

Noah Mullins and Jim Hardin, who failed for the first time last week to place one-two in the short dashes last week against Tennessee, have been working to improve their form and should be able to cut down their time in those events.

If Durbin, whose leg is healing rapidly, is in condition to run tomorrow, rail-birds will be able to watch the much-misused Durbin-Montgomery combination which garnered so many points last week, run for the first time since the Hanover meet. Until the ill-omened Cumberland Gap with stops for inspection trips on route and will arrive in Lexington on Sunday. Members of the Appalachian Geologic society will accompany the group.

The Wildcats, last year defeated the Cincinnati team almost 20

CAT LINKSMEN TO PLAY VOLS

Nearing the end of a season's schedule with a record of three wins, one loss, and a tie, the Wildcat golf team has moved south for the first time to meet the Tennessee Vols in Knoxville today and Vanderbilt in Nashville tomorrow.

Kentucky's club-swingers have clashed with the Vols one before here in Lexington, and come out the winner 16-11. What Vanderbilt has is a mystery, for in golf most comparisons between un-introduced teams usually turn out to be fantastic.

Coach S. A. "Daddy" Boles sent Monte Harris, Granville Clark, Lexington amateur champ Lloyd Ramsey, and Tennessee amateur runner-up Ernie Allen on the road for the Blues.

In Football, Six Are Better Than Eleven, Writer Says

A new kind of football—fast, high scoring, full of spectacular passing and open field running is being played this year in 2,000 high schools, according to the Reader's Digest.

It is six-man football, a game originated by Stephen Epler, coach of a small Nebraska school. The game can be followed clearly. The plays including reverse and trick runs, which the game encourages, are not screened from the customers, by a jumble of the customary 22 men.

One big argument against eleven-man football is that there are too many injuries, because of inadequate coaching and poor equipment in the small schools. Re-

Kernel Readers Ask For Investigation Of Both Sides In Current Controversy

Immediate Action Urged By Reader

To the Editor of The Kernel: In view of the present situation on the campus of the University, I think that several immediate and much needed steps should be taken by those who are informed, and who are in a position to be informed, in regard to the controversy over the building program of the University, as it pertains to the engineering college, and to its faculty, and as it pertains to the other interests involved.

Such steps should be taken in justice primarily to the State of Kentucky, which has not only a financial responsibility to its citizens, but also a moral obligation to maintain the standards of its educational institutions on the highest possible plane. The administration at the University, both executive and scholarly, is also entitled to a clarification, and if need be, a recitation, not only because of their obligation to render service to the state but because of their personal reputations both as teachers and as citizens.

"Colonel" of the Week

Granville Clark
This week's "Colonel of the Week" goes to Granville Clark, a sophomore in the Law College.
Granville is captain of the U. K. golfers, an athletic team with an imposing record. They have lost to only one team in five encounters, despite the competition offered by some of the best inter-collegiate golf teams. He is a member of Phi Alpha Delta, honorary law fraternity, associate editor of the Law Journal, and a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, social fraternity.

To show our appreciation come in and enjoy any two delicious meals from our menu.
Next Week's Committee: Charles Smith, Chairman; Betty Elliott, Dolly Delta Delta; Vernon Albert, Independent.

Upperclass Engineers Voice Their Support

Fundamental in Americanism or any other "ism" worth its salt is freedom of expression without fear of violent reprisal. Democratic is the hall-pint Hitler of the engineering college who "dunked" Morgan.
But maybe they were only apting the principles in the controversy. Yours for free speech and common sense.

Four Students Asked To Picnic To Honor W. H. Danforth, Donor of Scholarships

Four agriculture students, accompanied by Prof. L. J. Hercher, assistant dean of the college of agriculture, will attend a picnic Monday at the Boy Scout camp at Cynthia, in honor of William H. Danforth, St. Louis, Mo. Danforth donated four scholarships to outstanding agriculture students of Southern universities.
Taking the trip are last year's scholarship winners, Helen Horcher, Lexington; Billy Smoot, Louisville; and Sara Triplett, Henderson. The fourth member of the group is Glenn Clay Myers, 4-H club scholarship recipient.

Prevalence Of Cheating On Campus Is Deplored

To the Editor of the Kernel: That cheating is an evil that should be abolished is a statement disputable only by those guilty of its practice. Cheating is defined as fraud and is, therefore, regarded as such by students and faculty alike. There are rationalizations protecting the practice; there are arguments condemning it. In order to prescribe a remedy for the educational ill, let us diagnose the bically contagious case in our own mind.

First appears the rationalization that we shall have to contend with cheating later on in business life. Perhaps this is true, but is there any better way to eliminate fraudulent business practices than to build men and women whose ideals are above those of cheaters? Next comes the ancient contention that the cheater is hurting only himself, that in the long run his ignorance will condense him.
But doesn't cheating hurt also the honest student, students whose grades are figured on the curves set by the cheaters? True, cheating may serve as a crutch for many mental cripples, but some day those crutches will not be able to lean on that trusted crutch, and there will result a reflection on the university.
Looked upon as a means of avoiding easily of required courses that seem of little or no value, cheating is held justifiable by many. But the corrective for a poor curriculum is not cheating. Regarded as a beautiful method for "remembering" unnecessary facts and figures, cheating finds many supporters. But here again cheating is not the solution.
Let us now draw some conclusions about this disease of our educational system. There are many simple ways of reducing the amount of cheating at the university. Because of the lack of close supervision during examinations, the professor can also relieve the situation by changing his tests from year to year and by omitting the required memorizing of unnecessary, unimportant, soon-to-be-forgotten facts and figures.
Cheating may well serve as an indictment of some instructors who are incapable of putting across the subject matter of the course. In the second place, if the fault is an inadequate or injudicious curriculum, there is a simple remedy.
Third, the student's desire on the part of students to cheat may be cooled considerably by more severe punishment, such as expulsion from the university.
Fourth, the situation is perhaps an indication that entrance standards are too low; this has a practical solution.
Fifth, an emphasis on honesty by students, faculty, student organizations, and honor societies may well result in an increasing death rate of the art of cheating.
Honest effort and self-respect should appeal to one's conscience far more strongly than dishonest practice and absence of self-respect. Cheating represents a distortion of the right to have an education and a destruction of the obligation that that right implies. It represents a failure on the part of a people to live up to a democratic ideal.
