Panel Defines UN Ideals, Realities

A panel discussion on "Functions of the United Nations—Ideals and Reality Contrasted" sponsored by the Cosmopolitan Club, brought out the differences between what the UN stands for and what it actually accomplishes.

The five speakers involved in the discussion Thursday night were Prof. Robert Viles, asst. dean in the College of Law; Dr. Alfonso Meira, social medicine;

Dr. Peter Nixdorff, political science; Dr. David Ross, economics; and Dr. Frank Essene, cultural anthropology.

Dr. Nixdorff cited "a lack of achievement in the United Nations" as a major cause of disillusionment with the UN. The main reason for this lack of achievement is the difference between the ideal action and the real action the UN can take, he said.

If either the United States or Russia disagrees with any proposed action, it immediately becomes ineffective despite a two-thirds majority vote of the General Assembly. Without the backing of both powerful nations, the UN is powerless, Dr. Nixdorff said.

Dr. Ross called the widening difference between developed and underdeveloped countries a "major threat to world peace," and showed how the UN was failing in this area.

The United Nations has set up an ideal in asking developed countries to contribute one percent of their national income to underdeveloped countries, Dr. Ross explained. This ideal has not yet been reached although these same countries spend ten percent of their national income on military preparedness, he said.

Dr. Viles concluded the discussion by explaining part of the difference between the ideals and realities of the UN. For the ideals of the United Nations to become realities, he said all member countries would have to sign a treaty enforcing these ideals as laws, and no country is going to sign such a treaty until they are sure they are already living up to these laws.

Students Arrested On Loitering Charge

By DARRELL RICE
Managing Editor

Two UK students and two companions were arrested at about 3:30 a.m. Thursday, one of them on charges of driving without an operator's license and the other three on loitering charges.

The four, who asked that their names not be used, were jailed and were scheduled to be arraigned at 1:30 p.m. today.

They said they were returning from Cincinnati and had stopped to let one of the students off at his apartment when an unmarked car with two plain-clothesmen inside stopped them.

The officers then checked the driver of the car for a driver's license and found none. The driver says he was also arrested the previous night on the same charge, but that this was because his license has been misplaced and that he has a letter authorizing him to drive until it can be replaced.

The other three were then told to get in a paddy wagon which had been called to the scene. One of the students said he asked why they were being taken in and was told by an officer, "I think, for loitering."

They were then taken to the police station for booking and were jailed and the car impounded. One student said, although he repeatedly asked to be told his rights and to make a phone call, he was ignored by officers present. He also said he was kept up most of the night by officers who asked him questions.

Two of the four were released on $100 bond shortly after they were arrested, another at about 1 p.m. and the remaining one after 4 p.m.

Police officials confirmed the charges against the four but said they could give no further information until it comes out in court.

Members of Students for a Democratic Society and the Community Alliance for Responsible Social Action discussed the incident at their meetings Thursday night and planned to attend the arraignment today.

CARSA Protests Arrests Of 2 Students Thursday

By REBECCA WESTERFIELD
Kernel Staff Writer

At its first meeting in almost three weeks, CARSA made plans Thursday night to condemn police action in the arrest Thursday of four persons, including two UK students; to set up a committee to investigate the Alumni Association and to distribute a petition in support of the Kernel.

"In order to protect the rights of individuals these cases should be pursued," said Don Pratt, a former student. Pratt was speaking of the arrests of the four for "loitering," and for driving without a license.

According to Graham Watkins, CARSA chairman who spoke to one of the arrested students, the persons were not informed of their rights nor were they informed initially of the charges against them.

"We have a real issue on our hands," Watkins said. Other members felt police want to play "heroes" by getting a "big pot bust on the record."

CARSA is preparing for a rash of student arrests. The organization believes it must show its concern for the tactics used by the police in this case "to prevent repetition of such action."

The group voted to attend the arraignment today to show support for the arrested students. CARSA also agreed to assist any one of the four persons if they decide to press charges against the City of Lexington.

Bill Rauch was appointed to check with other organizations such as the Civil Liberties Union, the Human Rights Committee or the Young Democrats, to stir up interest and support on the issue of police tactics.

SG To Request Apology From Louisiana Mayor

By JANICE BARBER
Assistant Managing Editor
Student Government, showing their disapproval of the "discourteous and disrespectful treatment" given to two black UK football players in Baton Rouge on Oct. 19, moved Thursday to request an apology to the team from the mayor of Baton Rouge.

Athletes Wilbur Hackett and Houston Hogg were refused service in a Baton Rouge grill last Saturday following the Wildcats' 13-3 loss to LSU.

Acting with speed and apparent unanimity, the government passed a bill introduced by representatives Joe Dawahare and Jerry Legere to have reports of the incident sent to the mayor of Baton Rouge, the governor of Louisiana and the president of LSU, and to ask for an apology.

The bill read in part, "Whereas visiting athletic teams are treated with respect and courtesy while in Lexington and whereas similar treatment is expected to be given the University of Kentucky athletic teams while at other schools and whereas such treatment was not given to certain members of the University of Kentucky athletic teams . . . to certain members of the football team on Saturday . . . enacted that an apology be requested of the Mayor . . ."

The report of the incident will be drawn up by SG President Wally Bryan and the academic affairs committee.

SG To Investigate Towing Of Cars

Suspending the rules, the government also passed a bill empowering the standing SG service committee to investigate the towing and impounding of cars parked on the campus.

Introduced by John Cooper, member of Students for Action and Responsibility (SAR), the bill asked for the investigation because of the "great inconvenience for the owners in obtaining their cars" and the "negative attitude toward UK" that results.

The bill failed to be brought to the floor on the first reading, but succeeded on a call for reconsideration.

In other action, SG defeated a bill sponsored by House Speak-

Halstead Here Sunday Night

Fred Halstead, Socialist Workers Party presidential candidate, is to speak at a Presidential Convocation at 7:30 p.m. Sunday in the Student Center Grand Ballroom.

Halstead, who is on the ballot in Kentucky and some 20 other states, is a textile worker who lives in a public housing project in Manhattan.

The 40-year-old candidate is running on a platform calling for an end to the war in Vietnam, support for black and student power movements, bolstering of unions and socialistic economic policies.

He recently completed a round-the-world trip which included a stop in Saigon where he talked with GIs about his war views. Halstead also has been active in various anti war groups, including the National Mobilization Committee.

His running mate is Paul Boutelle, a black taxi driver in New York City. Boutelle spoke in Lexington twice last year.

Also appearing on the platform with Halstead will be University Senate Council Chairman Dr. Paul Sears and Dr. Stuart Forth, acting vice president for Student Affairs. Dr. Forth will represent Interim President A. D. Kirwan, who will be unable to attend the convocation.

Strange Days

*Strange days have found us
 Strange days have tracked us down
 They're going to destroy
 Our casual joys.
 We shall go on playing
 Or find a new town.
 Strange eyes fill strange rooms
 Voices will signal their tired end
 The hostess is grinning
 Her guests sleep from sinning
 Hear me talk of sin
 And you know this is it.
 Strange days have found us
 And through their strange hours
 We linger alone,
 Bodies confused,
 Memories misused,
 As we run from the day
 To a strange night of stone.*

SG To Ask Louisiana Officials For Apology

er Steve Bright that they contribute the funds necessary to computer tabulate the results of a mock election to be sponsored by Associated Women Students (AWS), Young Democrats, Young Republicans, and the campus Wallace supporters.

SAR Joe Duncan, in arguing against the bill questioned whether the proposed Oct. 28 mock election would be a student service and whether it would set a precedent of giving funds for similar causes.

Taft McKinstry of AWS asked the group for support and told them that the poll would be important in assessing campus support for the candidates.

'Proposed Pass-Fail Is Taken'

SAR John Cooper introduced a bill to the assembly calling for the adoption of a pass-fail system for all courses not listed in the general studies component or on the plan card-field of concentration.

The bill calls the University Senate's pass-fail program a "token program," because it would allow students to take a maximum of only four courses on pass-fail.

The SG bill calls for an eventual move to a total pass-fail system. The bill was sent to the academic affairs committee.

In further action, SAR Thom

Pat Juul proposed a bill to have a conference on the Non-Academic Rights Code for all staff and personnel who deal with students. The bill said that "numerous complaints have been brought concerning a lack of proper procedure in dormitory disputes and rule violations . . . and that they could be better handled by better informed housing personnel. The bill was referred to the student services committee.

A bill asking that graduate students who teach six or nine hours and who, in addition, take six hours of classes be considered full-time members of the University was referred to the academic affairs committee.

Put Up Traffic Signs

Bills were passed to coordinate poster regulations and codification into a single facet of the physical environment committee and to request that proper traffic signs be erected along Cooper Drive in an effort to promote safety on campus.

Moves to bring out of committee SC-1968-15, a bill requesting more campus telephones, and SC-1968-16, a bill asking for the construction of pedestrian walkways over busy intersections around campus, failed to gather a required two-thirds majority.

Early in the one and one-half hour meeting, a bill was tabled that would give the student senior ombudsman a salary.

The executive finance report showed a $6700 operating balance for the government after budgeted expenses had been removed. The finance committee is to study proposed uses.

Before the meeting SG representatives received copies of the 1968-69 student directory. Secretary Mary Korfhage said that a "limited supply of the directories had come in Thursday."

"We simply don't have enough to begin any distribution yet," Miss Korfhage said. She said the directories should arrive Monday and will be passed out as soon as possible.

League Sponsors Study Abroad

The Foreign Study League, a private educational institution, offers students an opportunity to spend the summer abroad.

Three tours have been arranged for college students. A course in Bible history, offering the student "a new and completely realistic approach to Bible study," will include a week in Athens, three weeks in Jerusalem and two weeks in Rome. Departing July 9 from New York, the tour will return to New York Aug. 18. The cost is $1050.

The second tour will leave New York June 25, and return by jet Aug. 5. This tour will include six weeks in Paris, the first four being spent in intensive study at the Nanterre campus of the University of Paris, leading to a certificate of completion at the Sorbonne. The remaining two weeks will be free for sightseeing. The cost of this tour is $750.

The third tour, a course in comparative government will leave New York by jet June 16 and return by steamship July 20. In Leysin, Switzerland, Rome, Brussels, Paris and London students will be able to compare and debate international government with students and educators from these countries. The cost of this tour is $750.

CARSA Protests

Next Thursday, CARSA will present to the City Commissioners' meeting a condemnation of the procedures used by the police in this incident. There was some discussion on whether or not to also picket the commissioners' homes, but it was decided that it would be much more effective to invite a commissioner to a CARSA meeting instead.

A suggestion by Pratt to set up a committee to investigate the Alumni Association was accepted by CARSA. The investigation is to determine the Alumni Association's right to become involved in student affairs. The members of the committee are Pratt, Steve Hanson, Gerry Kiefer and Watkins.

CARSA also decided to distribute a petition which will support the Kernel's right to freedom of the press. The petition is to be available next week.

Contradictory Conflict

The right to meet without obstruction should be granted to any campus group. A few members of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS) and the Community Alliance for Social Action (CARSA) do not seem willing to permit the new Kentucky Youth for Wallace this right.

At the first two meetings here of the Wallaceites, a handful of SDS and CARSA affiliates have turned out to hamper the new organization. This practice has not really taken the form of outright heckling, but rather of tying up the meeting with questions and speeches so the Wallace students have difficulty in accomplishing their business matters.

We do not say that leftist students should not be allowed to attend the Wallace meetings if they are sincerely interested. But if they do attend, they should be willing to allow the Wallace students the same rights they themselves demand.

One SDS member has said their actions are aimed at "paying back" conservative students who utilized similar tactics when SDS was being formed a few years ago. No answer is really needed for this rationalization.

If leftist students actually believe in what they say they do—the freedom of the individual, a truly free and open society and so forth—then they can in no way condone these recent tactics. And most probably do not.

This is not to eliminate completely the use of obstruction as a legitimate political alternative. When the established power structure makes immoral demands on people, then, perhaps, almost any means is acceptable in attempting to counter this situation. But this occurs only infrequently, and could not possibly be the case with the Kentucky Youth for Wallace.

In short, if SDS and CARSA members persist in their tactics, they could prove themselves to be no better than the intolerant George Wallace to whom they are so strongly opposed in ideology.

The Real Issue

The disgusting and degrading treatment of black football players Houston Hogg and Wilbur Hackett brings the whole issue of race and athletics into clear focus. It was the existence of acts like the exclusion of Hogg and Hackett from a grille in Louisiana which was behind the recent protests in the Olympics by disgruntled Blacks.

The University should demand an apology, of course, as well as some kind of assurance that there will be no recurrence of this kind of action. But this is only common courtesy to the two athletes involved, and leaves much to be done about remedying the real issue.

The real issue involved is the racist nature of this society. What kinds of actions must black athletes be asked to endure from this society just because they are black? What avenues are open to them to protest and remedy these conditions?

So long as situations such as the one in Louisiana continue to occur, we may be sure that black athletes will continue to protest their treatment as something less than human. It is up to the University to see that such actions do not happen again and to see that our black athletes are not embarrassed by any racist displays at athletic events here in Lexington. As it stands right now, the University community should be more outraged at conditions in this country than by the actions of two Olympic athletes.

Kernel Forum: the readers write

To the Editor of the Kernel:

Recently many people have been troubled by the question of how a campus newspaper can represent the multitude of viewpoints on any campus. We can assume that the newspaper does in fact actually represent the campus to a certain degree and that there is no fixed majority on every issue but rather that the majority shifts and changes with the issues. Four solutions are readily apparent to this problem of representation: 1) Do not print anything that would be likely to cause disagreement of any kind 2) Conduct a poll or referendum to determine what the majority opinion actually is on any given issue 3) Establish a form of censorship board to determine what majority opinion is and that it is adequately represented and 4) Guarantee the right of every person qualified regardless of viewpoint to be accepted on the newspaper staff.

I hope we can dismiss the first two solutions though some schools and local newspapers have not. The third solution is more realistic though not appealing because the same problem of representation is encountered when dealing with a censorship board. Those who feel that they are in a majority on an issue would probably find that censoring a censorship board would only compound their problems. Therefore the most appealing and realistic solution left would be the last. It is to this point of selection of the staff that criticisms should be directed not to boards of censorship or nebulous petitions of dissatisfaction.

If selection of the staff in the past has been both voluntary and equitable, I think those who are expressing extreme dissatisfaction with the policy of the paper would be hard put to prove their case. Their position seems to be roughly analogous to those who do not vote in student government elections and complain of policies. It seems that if selection of the staff is voluntary and equitable, and I have heard no charges to the contrary, that the opportunity to represent one's views exists—it only needs to be taken.

Ron Sharp

To the Editor of the Kernel:

What's it like living in a co-ed dorm (Kernel, October 16)? I think it's absolutely scandalous. It is a blemish on an institution that has persevered for over 100 years. What makes the situation even more intolerable is that the University Fathers have sanctioned it.

What must other Kentucky Colleges think of this rash move effected through uk's indiscretion.

It's no doubt that "Grads Enjoy Coed Housing"—but is it the function of a state university to place fellas and girls in a hot bed of immorality? Is it not better to direct the taxpayers' money to the task of fostering moral uprightness rather than bringing a little bit of Hedonism to the State university?

Will the university accept spiritual, moral and perhaps legal responsibility for what happens in Blanding II?

Jean C. Lindley was asked about undergraduate coed dorm housing and said that there would be no way to justify it; what is the justification for graduate students? Is a graduate student some sort of Urbermensch?

I would only suggest that the difference in time between a graduate and an undergraduate student is three months. The difference in maturity between a senior and a graduate is likewise puny.

I'm sure that if President Oswald were still here, he'd put the whole thing to a stop.

So will the real and true reasons why the University permits fellas and girls to live together please come forward!

Charles C. Mihalek, Jr.
Law Student

To the Editor of the Kernel:

This letter is in reply to Mr. Thomas A. Jackson's letter to the Kernel on Tuesday, Oct. 15. He advised Negroes on the UK campus to "grin and bear it" when "DIXIE" was played and to concentrate more on obtaining a degree as a means of raising the black image in the white community.

I wish to inform Mr. Jackson of a few things he may not be aware of. The laws and political procedures of our "fair land" make it possible that no minority group, no matter how small, has to "grin and bear" anything. Mr. George Wallace represents a minority, but I hesitate to say that he is grinning and bearing it. The Student Government, as a part of the governmental institution of America, has offered us as a minority group—Black students—a way to do something besides "grin and bear it," and I am proud to know that there are at least a few governmental institutions on the smaller level which still respond to minority rights.

Also Mr. Jackson, it is very true that a black engineer does far more for the Black image than the banning of "Dixie," but you see, the banning of "Dixie" is upon us now. Have no fear that we will become so hung up on banning "Dixie" that we will lose sight of our real goal and fail to attain our degrees from this fair school. I want to assure you that we are more than capable of doing both, and when it is all over, we will have gotten two things accomplished.

So keep in mind Mr. Jackson that it is not necessary for us as a black minority on the UK campus to "grin and bear" anything! And as long as there is a true black student left breathing on this campus, we will do more than "grin and bear" the playing of "Dixie"!

Legislators Condemn Actions Of Presidents

Education Subcommittee Attacks Council

Special To The Kernel
FRANKFORT — The Kentucky Legislature's subcommittee on education attacked presidents of five Kentucky state universities and the Council on Public Higher Education yesterday. The committee charged that the presidents and the council attempted to ignore demands made by the legislature. The subcommittee cited three examples: ▶ Western Kentucky's agreement to underwrite a $4.2 million bond sale for Kentucky Southern, a private institution in Louisville.

▶ The council's revision of its definition of "non-resident" students. ▶ Remarks made by two university presidents which were seen as the first attempts to take the control of community colleges from the University of Kentucky. Sen. Romano Mazzoli (D-Louisville), a member of the subcommittee, said he wanted the public to be kept informed of actions which affect the entire state. Rep. Robert P. Wooley (R-Lexington), another member of the subcommittee, said if the presidents and the council don't stop this "arbitrary" attitude, they will find a hard time in future legislatures. This was probably a reference to the financing which state schools receive from the legislature.

can be considered a Kentucky resident. Mazzoli charged that Westem's action to underwrite the Kentucky Southern bond was "unconstitutional." Brown, however, defended Westem's decision. Criticism of university presidents was aimed toward Morehead State University President Adron Doran and Eastern Kentucky University President Robert Martin.

Community Colleges Oppose Idea Of Regional University Control

LOUISVILLE (AP)—Representatives of the state's 15 community colleges Thursday adopted a resolution opposing any move that would bring their institutions under the control of regional universities. The community colleges currently fall under the administrative control of the University of Kentucky in Lexington. Last Monday, the president of Morehead State University suggested that the community colleges be administered by the state's four regional universities and Kentucky State College. The resolution opposing such a move was adopted at a meeting here of the new Kentucky Community College Advisory Boards Association. The proposal to regionalize the administration of the community colleges was advanced by Adron Doran. The resolution stressed satisfaction with the University of Kentucky's administrative policies of the local colleges. It also proposed that the university eventually be administered by a chancellor, responsible to a board of trustees.

The only direct action taken was to ask the council why it had changed its "non-resident" definition and the effect of this change. Mazzoli added that the subcommittee was not trying to discourage non-resident students, but he maintained that "our first duty is to Kentucky students." Action taken by the council included lowering the age for residence requirements from 21 to 18. It also eliminated the one-year time element before a person

Under terms of this proposal, UK, the University of Louisville and the community colleges would be separate but equal units of the system, with each having an administrator responsible to the chancellor. The resolution was based on a report issued earlier this year by a citizens study group headed by Lisle Baker Jr. of Louisville.

Uproar Similar To '64 Hits Berkeley Campus

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—Massed policemen ripped aside barricades Thursday, arrested 76 persons and cleared a University of California building seized by demonstrators supporting a Black Panther lecturer. In the biggest uproar at the university since the 1964 Free Speech Movement crisis, Moses Hall was held for 15 hours behind barricades of desks, chairs, files and assorted debris. When police broke up the demonstration two students and three policemen were slightly injured. Some 500 police took charge of the campus shortly before dawn in the third day of sit-in demonstrations demanding that UC give college credit for a lecture series by Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver. Demonstrators barricaded paths and set small fires on them. Inside the building, administration center of the College of Letters and Sciences, dissidents unrolled toilet paper from upper windows and strung signs. A roar from an estimated 350 onlookers outside rose when helmeted, gas mask-toting police marched onto the 28,000-student campus.

The demonstrators outside scattered and ran. Here and there police tangled physically with protestors. Male and female police entered Moses Hall and arrested the dissidents quietly. Those arrested were charged with disturbing the peace, malicious mischief and trespassing. Each was held on $1,650 bail. The hall they left behind was a chaotic mess of stripped rooms, scattered records and garbage.

UK Underdog, But Georgia Scout Impressed

By JIM MILLER
 Kernel Sports Editor
 It's an accepted fact the Wildcats will have their work cut out for them this weekend when Georgia's undefeated Bulldogs come to Lexington.

With quarterback Stan Forston shelved for at least three weeks, the Wildcats are heavy underdogs to the Georgia 'Dogs of Vince Dooley, at least on paper.

Georgia ranks second to Tennessee in scoring offense with a 24.4 points-a-game average and first in total offense with a 387-yard average. The 'Dogs are second in total defense holding the opposition to 188.6 yards.

Second In Passing
 Georgia is third and second in rushing offense and passing offense and ranks second and third in rushing defense and passing defense.

Individually, Dooley's 'Dogs have the SEC's top punter in Spike Jones (43.3), the top punt returner in Jake Scott (23 returned for 295 yards) and the number two rusher in Bruce Kemp (427 yards).

Quarterback Mike Cavan has hit 53 of 99 pass attempts for five touchdowns and a 53.5 percentage, third in the SEC. Georgia numbers three receivers in the top ten. Charles Whittemore is fourth with 21 catches for 319 yards followed by Dennis Hughes in fifth place with 18 catches for 388 yards and three TD's while teammate Kent Lawrence is ninth with 15 catches for 192 yards.

Georgia brings these impressive statistics onto Stoll Field Saturday night with the intent of increasing each one. Little should the Bulldogs have to worry, except for one thing. The man who has scouted every Wildcat game this season for Georgia, Sam Mrvis, brings an impressive set of notes on the Wildcats.

"We can't take Kentucky lightly," Mrvis said at the UK-LSU game in Baton Rouge last weekend. "This is the best team Kentucky has had since (Rick) Norton was a senior." That was the year the Wildcats ripped Georgia 28-10, representing the most points UK ever scored on an Athens eleven.

What does the Bulldog scout think is the difference between this year's Wildcats and the 1967 group that lost five fumbles, five interceptions and the ball game 31-7 in 1967?

Better Football Team

"They're just a better all-around football team," Mrvis said. "They've got a lot of the same people, but they're just better."

Mrvis lauded the UK backfield, especially Dicky Lyons and Raynard Makin. "Makin makes all the difference in the backfield. . . Dicky Lyons is the best player in the conference. If I was a quarterback, I'd feed that ball to Lyons every play."

Mrvis, although complimentary of the UK running game, added, "Kentucky doesn't throw enough."

Mrvis has not seen Dave Bair in action as Stan Forston played all the LSU game and Bair has been in on only five plays all year, but he still had fine words for the UK junior.

"Bair is a picture quarterback. Just watching him warming up on the sidelines before a game reminds you of a professional. He has a smooth delivery."

Full Weekend

Sports Slate

The football Kittens, UK soccer club and the cross-country squads have their hands full this weekend.

The Kittens, 1-1, travel to Knoxville today for a Saturday afternoon game with Tennessee's Baby Vols. The Baby Vols have lost their only game, a 17-7 loss to the Vandy Frosh.

The UK Soccer Club travels to Carbondale, Ill., for a Saturday game with Southern Illinois University. The UK club has a 4-1 record.

The UK Cross Country team, 7-1, travels to Atlanta, Ga., for the NCAA Regional meet.

UKIT Pairings Announced

Bradley will face Army and the host Wildcats will meet Michigan in the opening round of the 16th annual University of Kentucky Invitational Basketball Tournament December 20-21 in Memorial Coliseum.

The pairings were announced Thursday by head basketball coach Adolph Rupp, whose ballplayers are winding up their second week of practice.

Good ideas get off the ground at Boeing.

So do careers.
Let's talk about it on Monday and Tuesday, October 28 and 29.

At The Boeing Company, you can be a member of a team that's famous for making good ideas fly. Such as the 707, America's first jetliner. And the 727 trijet, the 737 twinjet, Boeing-Vertol helicopters, the Boeing-built first stage for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Apollo/Saturn V moon rocket. And the NASA Lunar Orbiter, the USAF Minuteman, and the USN hydrofoil gunboat Tucumcari.

Boeing has exciting new projects on the way up, too. The 747 superjet, world's largest and fastest commercial jetliner, scheduled to make its first flight by the end of 1968. America's supersonic transport, now being developed at the company's Commercial Airplane Division. Plus other advanced programs in early development and on Boeing drawing boards.

They can help get your career off to a dynamic start in applied research, design, test, manufacturing, service or facilities engineering or computer technology.

Visit your college placement office and schedule an interview with the Boeing representative. Boeing is an equal opportunity employer.

Divisions: Commercial Airplane, Space, Missile & Information Systems, Vertol, and Wichita. Also, Boeing Scientific Research Laboratories.

Kirwan-Blanding Dormitories Dedicated Saturday

The UK complex will be formally dedicated tomorrow, approximately one year after its completion.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn will be the featured speaker at the dedication in honor of Interim UK President A. D. Kirwan and former Dean of Women Sarah Blanding, after whom the dormitories are named.

The ceremonies, beginning at 11 a.m., will be held in the mall area at the complex entrance. Other speakers will be UK alumni John Y. Brown and Sam Ridgeway and UK Vice President Glenwood Creech.

A luncheon honoring Dr. Kirwan and Miss Blanding will be held in the still-unnamed central commons. It will follow the dedication at 12:30 p.m. Reservations for the luncheon can be obtained at the University Housing Office.

In case of rain, the ceremonies will be held indoors at 1:30 p.m.

UK Roundtable Hosts College Debaters Sunday

UK Roundtable, broadcast every Sunday at 8 p.m. over WBKY-FM, this week will present a panel discussion of "Should Executive Control of U.S. Foreign Policy Be Significantly Curtailed?"

The moderator and panel for this week's program will include students from debate teams who recently participated in the three-day Thoroughbred Debates here on campus.

Roger Conner, Oberlin College senior, will act as moderator. The panel will include Laura Abernathy, a junior at Wake Forest;

Sheldon Konigsberg, a sophomore at Emory University; and Jim Lyons, a senior at the University of Notre Dame.

YR's Plan Strategy, Hear Nixon Worker

By FRANK COOTS
Kernel Staff Writer

About 70 Young Republicans attended a business meeting and general pep talk last night at which time Gov. George Wallace was described as "the one we are concerned with in Kentucky."

Ben Cotton, national field representative for the Nixon-Agnew campaign, provided the comments on Wallace and added, "Wallace is no more conservative than the leader of this Great Society."

Relating an incident that supposedly occurred at one of Wallace's campaign speeches where he was being heckled, Cotton said, "Wallace invited some young punk up to the lectern where he (Wallace) was going to punch him. Think what he would do in an international situation where he would be the one to push the button. Wallace just doesn't have the credentials to be president."

Cotton then asked, "Why won't Nixon debate? This is asked under the assumption that televised debates are the only way to present the issues." He added, "Nixon has put out 196 issue papers" and indicated these papers offered more substance than those of the other candidates.

It was announced that the local Republican organization has turned over certain precincts in Lexington for the YR's to canvass. These canvassers will be "working door to door, giving verbal presentations" from now until the election.

"Operation 21" was also announced as a program to push Russ Mobley, Republican Congressional candidate for the Sixth District here. It was described as a "gala affair, a big oldtime political rally." It will be held Tuesday evening in the Commerce auditorium.

"We have to let everybody know he is coming," Maney said. "That is Mr. Mobley's problem, nobody knows him."

Mitchell McConnell, YR campaign manager then gave a pep talk. "We need exposure with enthusiasm. Mr. Nixon says he will give youth 'a piece of the action.' If we are to be worthy of this 'piece of action,' we must show responsibility by voting Nov. 5 and in the mock election Monday."

Currency in a Common Market nation is devalued.

Help wanted:

How can we protect our automotive investments on the continent?

Situation: If a member nation of the Common Market devalues its currency as the speculators appear to be betting, other Common Market nations may follow suit.

Question: Faced with this possibility, could you develop a plan of action detailing how we can best protect our large automotive investments in each of the member nations?

Consideration: Remember the importance of the Common Market agricultural agreement concerning price stabilization, cost considerations and exchange restrictions. Need your thoughts on this A.S.A.P. Thanks.

Want to work on an exciting assignment like this?

A new member of the financial staff at Ford Motor Company does. Today his job may be solving a complex Common Market problem. Tomorrow, it might be an analysis of profit potentials.

To help solve assignments like these, our people have a giant network of computers at their service. Complete research facilities. The funds they need to do the job right. If you have better ideas to contribute, and you're looking
