SCB Plans Semester's Attractions

By SALLIE BRIGHT
Kernel Staff Writer

The upcoming concert by "Three Dog Night" was one of the topics discussed by the Student Center Board (SCB) at its meeting last night.

Tickets for the concert, scheduled for Feb. 13 in Memorial Coliseum, go on sale this morning in the Student Center.

The board also discussed the scheduled appearance of the Billy Graham Crusade here April 22 to 25. SCB President Dave Herndon said "no University funds will be involved" in the crusade. A club was needed to sponsor the program and Herndon said, "If we didn't do it, somebody else would."

The next speaker sponsored by SCB will be Lt. Gov. Wendell Ford, who will appear here Feb. 8. Jeff Gumer, a member of SCB, said that former governor Bert Combs and Gov. Louie B. Nunn have tentatively agreed to speak.

Former Attorney General Ramsey Clark had been scheduled to speak in February but canceled. Either Iowa Sen. Harold Hughes or former Secretary of the Interior Walter Hickel will speak instead.

The Quiz Bowl will be held on Feb. 9, it was announced. Debbie McKinney is in charge of the contest, which allows teams from dormitories, clubs, sororities, fraternities, or teams of independent students to compete.

In an effort to improve next year's board, a three-man re-evaluation committee has been set up. The committee, headed by Jack Day, will interview all SCB members and try to find the weaknesses of SCB.

They hope to accomplish the task by getting suggestions from members on improvements and by generally looking for changes that need to be made. This committee will finish its survey before new board members are elected.

Curfew Imposed on Phnom Penh

PHNOM PENH (AP)—The Cambodian government imposed a dusk-to-dawn curfew throughout the capital Monday to combat an enemy war of terror spreading in the city's streets.

The order followed an attempt to bomb the South Vietnamese Embassy on a main boulevard and new attacks on the city's outer edges and the airport, already severely damaged by an enemy raid last Friday.

A Viet Cong cease-fire went into effect in South Vietnam for the four-day Tet lunar new year but the holiday is not observed in Cambodia except by minority populations of Vietnamese and Chinese.

In fact, many residents of Phnom Penh fear a heavy attack on the city during Tet, although officials doubt it.

Capital Jittery

The capital has been jittery ever since the airport raid and explosions are heard through the night. Some are the result of grenades thrown into rivers by Cambodian soldiers trying to keep enemy frogmen from blowing up bridges.

A dusk-to-dawn curfew was imposed Saturday on a few main thoroughfares that are the addresses of foreign embassies and government buildings. Traffic was allowed on other streets.

Apparently the new enemy attacks, the attempt on the South Vietnamese Embassy and the prospect of continued terrorism elsewhere prompted the government of Premier Lon Nol to extend the curfew to the rest of the capital.

Bomb Hurdled

Shortly before the curfew was ordered an unidentified Vietnamese hurled a plastic satchel charge at the South Vietnamese Embassy but it did not explode. Two American demolition experts, dressed in civilian clothes and staying at a hotel, disarmed the bomb.

The Vietnamese was captured and taken to police headquarters.

Newsmen were allowed in the streets during Phnom Penh's curfew hours—6 p.m. to 6 a.m.—but were warned by the military they must be particularly careful and to halt immediately when ordered to do so by soldiers.

The curfew affected about 99 percent of Phnom Penh's 1½ million people.

North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops were reported deployed in villages north of the airport. Nevertheless, U.S. Air Force cargo planes kept up the delivery of arms, ammunition and other supplies to Phnom Penh.

Six C130 transports landed with about 120 tons of supplies Monday. This was the largest number since flights were resumed Saturday after being halted because of the destructive attack on the airport.

Two U.S. 7th Fleet helicopter carriers were withdrawn from the Gulf of Siam from where they had been providing combat support for Cambodia operations.

The move came after 5,300-man South Vietnamese task force ended an operation to reopen Cambodia's Highway 4, the main supply route from Phnom Penh to the port of Kompong Som on the Gulf of Siam.

South Vietnamese headquarters claimed the highway was safe after a 12-day operation and pulled back 1,500 marines to their base at Neak Luong, 30 miles southeast of Phnom Penh. The 3,800 rangers, engineers and artillerymen who participated with the marines in the Highway 4 campaign were withdrawn to South Vietnam, with some of them slated for leaves to go to their families for Tet.

The Viet Cong's four-day cease-fire went into effect for South Vietnam at 1 a.m. Tuesday, Saigon time, which is 13 hours ahead of Eastern Standard Time.

Nunn Expresses Support; Backs Nixon's Budget Plan

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)

—Kentucky Gov. Louie B. Nunn said Monday that he thought federal revenue sharing and family assistance as proposed in President Nixon's State of the Union address are the best means available for relieving the financial burden of the states. Nunn said during a taped news conference here that such money would give all persons "the food, clothing, shelter and medical care they should have."

Nunn's statement followed a release by the White House Monday of how the tax-sharing pot of new revenue would be divided.

The figures, based on the latest census and tax statistics, showed Kentucky receiving $78 million.

The White House said population is the main factor, plus a bonus for the amount of revenue the states raise themselves.

Nunn also said he was particularly interested in boosting the regional concept of problem solving, adding that the federal Appalachian Regional Commission is "one of the most successful federal programs ever brought into existence."

On other matters, Nunn said he was opposed to a proposed severance tax because he felt it would place Kentucky in a poor competitive position with other coal producing states.

Weather

Windy and much colder today with a high only in the low 20's. Cold Wave Warning tonight with a low around 8. Tomorrow will be clear and cold with an expected high in the low 20's. There is a 10 percent chance of light snow flurries today, increasing to 30 percent tonight and 10 percent tomorrow.

'Starship'—Science Fiction Becomes Novel—Record

By TOM RIDDELL

BLOWS AGAINST THE EMPIRE, Paul Kantner and Jefferson Starship (RCA LSP-4448).

We are leaving
You don't need us.

At last, a science fiction novel (and the soundtrack thereof) on record! With thanks to Kurt Vonnegut and Robert Heilbroner, among others, Paul Kantner and Jefferson Starship have made a novel-record which you can either take as science fiction, allegory or just another record by a rock band. (Although Jefferson Starship is not just a rock band—it's Paul Kantner, Grace Slick, and Casady, Crosby, Garcia, Nash, Frieberg, Hart, Kreutzman, Brooks and more. Like Jerry Garcia said on the NET showing of San Francisco Rock: Go Ride the Music, "We're all just one band.")

But, whatever your head makes of it, it definitely is a trip.

The first side gets you ready for the journey. "Mau Mau (Amerikon)" is a call to revolution (yes, Virginia, there is a revolution) and freedom:

Get out of the way
Let the people play
And a warning to Richard Milhous Nixon that:
We are the present
You are the future
Pay your dues and get outta the way.

I doubt that the warning will be heeded, which is too bad, because Mr. President only listens to Montovani (with the fireplace blazing and the air-conditioner blowing).

Next is "The Baby Tree" which is a pleasant little fantasy about an island where the babies grow on trees. "Let's Go Together" is to you and me: an invitation to wander and search. The side ends with the announcement "A Child is Coming." And Paul and Grace and David don't want Uncle Samuel to get Gracie's.

It's none of the government's Business who comes to or
From my body.

And then comes side two—"Blows Against the Empire." "Sunrise" is the beginning of a new day with the "animals" running free. Then, with "Hijack," comes the escape from the "23rd of November," "the abyss of Chicago," and the rest of that. What we got to do is hijack the starship in 1990 (when the kid is 19) and:

Move your mind
Towards Mars and then beyond
Through the cities of the Universe.

And Graces piano and Paul Kantner's-Phil Swayer's-Graham Nash's "Home" take us there. Hijack the Starship.

"Have You Seen The Stars Tonight" continues with great piano from Grace, and Jerry Garcia's pedal steel, and David Crosby's guitar, and begins the ride:

Do you know
We could go
We are free
Anyplace you could think of
We could be.

Then, "X-M" takes us on another ride. "You feel the planets in your body."

Finally there is "Starship." The Starship is on its voyage, moving out from the Earth, back into the future.

You got to roll with it.
You got to go with it.

All in all, a very fine excursion, and a good record to boot.

The Grateful Dead, one manifestation of the band, discovered in "Truckin'" on American Beauty: "What a long strange trip it's been." And what a long strange trip it will be . . . Jefferson Starship want to know:

We are wanderers
Are you anymore?
It's now, baby.

So listen and read and watch.
Get ready to leave. Don't stay.
Let's go together. Wave goodbye to America.

Go ride the music . . .

Quicksilver

New Record Inferior to Golden State Albums

By LANG HAFKENSCHIEL
Quicksilver—Just For Love (Capitol, SMS 498).

A new album, Quicksilver Messenger Service, has added Dino Valenti and lost the jangle keys of Nicky Hopkins (Hopkins plays on "Just For Love," though). There are some really fine tunes here, despite a recording that is inferior to the Quicksilver albums recorded at Golden State in San Francisco.

John Cipollina's "Cobra" is one of those tunes that you wish would go on for an hour, a Quicksilver snake dance, Nicky Hopkins' piano work is a definite asset.

Too few people have seen Quicksilver to know how really fine they are. John Cipollina, a far out finger-picking guitarist whose notes never hit the same place in your skull.

Nothing falls off of Greg Elmore out of time—"Wolf Run, Parts 1 and 2." The child prodigy, Dino shines brightly on "The Hat." Nicky plays keys while Gary Duncan and Cipollina play acoustic guitars. The world's most cuddly bear, David Freiberg, plays good bottom lines.

Side two and Dino gets in some of his down-home New York City licks, transported of course, to California. Good old rock and roll, Quicksilver style. "Gone Again" is a tune to be closely listened to and then promptly digested. It plays in your ear when you're all alone on a bright day, some place in the country which is yours forever—heaven is in your mind.

"Fresh Air" sticks in your head as the days go by, it means a lot of different things to everyone. In this tune Cipollina's guitar is the Messenger Service sound—have another hit and come back for more. Gary Duncan and Cipollina take off and I keep wishing that they would play on for another day.

Grateful Dead—American Beauty (Warner Bros. 893).

The feeling one gets from an album like this is indescribable. It reminds me of my home, the rainy season in Northern California. Jerry Garcia always plays moving tunes on the guitar, "Dark Star" or "Black Peter."

Now the Dead have added a new dimension to their music, the lyrics become that much more meaningful when they become harmonies. The bass of Phil Lesh is not just a part of a tune like "Truckin'" or "Friend of the Devil," it is the tune. Their music is so complete, so refined, yet so completely free. The energy of "Sugar Magnolia" is boundless, golden light—a walk in the sunshine—country roots assimilated and applied to a life style. The music makes a definite statement about their lives—good music should.

Here it comes from the soul and back again; I feel this in "Ripple," "Brokendown Palace." A subtle delight in total involvement. These tunes are unbelievably easy to groove on. Jerry Garcia and Bob Weir say it in their vocals, through their guitars.

"Attics of My Life": A strange sort of ballad which could only be associated with the Grateful Dead. In many ways the new music is simpler, perhaps more meaningful. I would think that these tunes are easier to grasp than say, "Dark Star" or tunes on Anthem of the Sun. The roots can be found in St. Stephen.

"Truckin'" is the Dead's sequel to "Ballad of John and Yoko." This is their life on tour; want to get back to their sweet home?

Manson Found Guilty in Tate Murder Case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Charles Manson and three women members of his hippie-style clan were convicted yesterday of first-degree murder and conspiracy in the savage slayings of actress Sharon Tate and six others.

The state said it will ask the death penalty for all.

The defendants, who staged wild outbursts during their seven-month trial, sat passively as verdicts were returned on the 27 counts against them.

After jurors were polled, Manson muttered audibly, referring to them: "I think they're all guilty." After the verdicts were all in, he shouted at the judge: "We're still not allowed to put on a defense. You won't outlive that, old man."

The jury of seven men and five women, who had deliberated 42 hours and 40 minutes since receiving the case Jan. 15, was ordered to return to court at 9 a.m. Thursday for the penalty phase of the trial. They will continue to be sequestered.

50 Witnesses Claimed

The prosecutor said he has about 50 witnesses ready for the penalty trial. The defense has said it will put on a case as long or longer than the state's, seeking life imprisonment instead of the death penalty on a contention there still is doubt as to guilt.

Death or life imprisonment are the only possible verdicts for convictions on first-degree murder.

Under California law the same jury that returns a first-degree murder-conspiracy conviction must meet again at a second trial to fix the penalty. Had the verdict been second-degree murder, the penalty would have been an automatic five years to life and there would have been no penalty trial.

The defendants were charged with murder-conspiracy in the August 1969 slayings of the beautiful actress and four visitors to her mansion, and in the killings a night later of a wealthy merchant couple.

Race War

Manson, 36, was accused of ordering the killings to touch off a race war he believed was heralded in a Beatles song, after which he expected to take over power.

Other defendants were: Susan Atkins, 22; Patricia Krenwinkel, 23; and Leslie Van Houton, 21.

Miss Van Houton was charged with conspiracy in all the killings, but with murder only in those of market owners Leno and Rosemary LaBianca.

The verdict capped a trial in which the state called 84 witnesses and the defense rested without putting on a case. The transcript ran nearly six million words and there were 297 exhibits.

The prosecutor in final arguments called the killings "monstrous, macabre and nightmarish . . . perhaps the most inhuman horror-filled hour of savage murder and human slaughter in the annals of recorded crime." He called Manson "someone with a sick and morbid lust and preoccupation with death." The women, he said, were Manson's "robots and zombies."

Life Style

The defense argued that someone other than the defendants might have done the killings. Attorneys said Manson was being prosecuted for his unpopular life style, and that if the women were really robots they couldn't perform premeditation needed for first-degree murder.

The case first made headlines Aug. 10, 1969, when a maid found bloody bodies of victims at the Tate estate. The eight-months pregnant honey blonde actress, 26, wife of director Roman Polanski, lay stabbed on the living room floor near that of Jay Sebring, 26, Hollywood hair stylist and her onetime fiancée. Outside were the bodies of Polish playboy Wojciech Frykowski, 37, and his girl friend, coffee heiress Abigail Folger, 26. Slain in his car was Stephen Parent, 18, shot as he left after visiting the caretaker. "Pig" was smeared in blood on the door. A towel "hood" covered Sebring's head. Police called the slayings "ritualistic."

The next day, a few miles away, the LaBiancas were found stabbed to death amid bloody scrawlings.

For four months police were baffled. Then, acting on a tip from a woman who said Miss Atkins told of the killings while the two shared a jail cell, police made mass arrests of Manson and his family, then living in a remote commune near Death Valley.

Right to Venue Change Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court guaranteed all criminal defendants Monday the right to seek a trial in a community that is not prejudiced against them.

The guarantee came in an 8-1 decision that upset the conviction of the Rev. James E. Gropi for resisting arrest during a civil rights march in Milwaukee in 1967.

The priest had been active in the civil rights movement, and he contended the jury at his trial would reflect community prejudice against him.

His plea for a change of venue was rejected out of hand, however, because resisting arrest is a misdemeanor in Wisconsin.

Justice Potter Stewart, speaking for the court, said Gropi had a chance to prove potential prejudice.

Justice Hugo L. Black dissented, saying the defendants are protected by their rights to move for a new trial on grounds of prejudice after conviction.

Gropi, reached in Montreal where he had a speaking engagement, said he is very happy with the decision. He said he thinks his profession and white skin "played a part in the fact that I'm still out of jail."

The case was returned to Milwaukee, where Gropi will be entitled to a hearing on his prejudice claims if the state tries to reopen the prosecution.

In another ruling, the Supreme Court said employers may not automatically refuse to hire women with small children if they hire men in the same situation. The unsigned opinion said job applications from mothers can be turned down only if "conflicting family obligations" are shown to affect their work adversely.

The ruling was unanimous, but Justice Thurgood Marshall attached an opinion saying he fears the court has bowed to "ancient canards about the proper role of women."

The case, testing the ban on sex discrimination under the federal equal job rights law, involved Mrs. Ida Phillips, a mother of seven young children who had tried for a factory job at the Martin Marietta Corp. Plant in Orlando, Fla.

The decision reversed an interpretation by the U.S. Circuit Court in New Orleans that employers could routinely refuse to hire women with small children.

The case was sent back to a federal court in Florida "for fuller development of the record and for further consideration."

In a third ruling the court barred retrial of defendants when the jury is dismissed by the judge.

The 6-3 decision, expanding protection against double jeopardy, involved Milton C. Jorn of Salt Lake City, who was accused of fraudulent income tax returns.

Nixon Plan Incurs Wrath

WASHINGTON (AP)—While President Nixon intensified efforts with congressional leaders in behalf of his "new American Revolutions," one of his major proposals ran into formidable House opposition.

The two men who will have a dominant voice in deciding whether and how Congress approves the sharing of federal revenues with states and cities made clear they dislike the proposal. And they told the President how they feel.

They are Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, and Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Wis., the top minority member. Without the committee's backing, the revenue proposal will have a hard time getting off the ground.

Mills and Byrnes were among many congressional leaders who met Monday with the President in one of a series of briefings.

Their views didn't match those of House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan, who voiced optimism over the revenue-sharing prospects.

Mills and Byrnes met privately with the President. They said they would give a hearing to the proposal to plow back to the states and local governments $16 billion in Federal revenues. No time was set for the lengthy hearings to get under way.

"I am perfectly willing to have hearings, but not for the purpose of promoting the plan —for the purpose of killing it," Mills told newsmen.

He added that he does not oppose lumping some federal grants into block allocations for such general purposes as education or job training, with local authorities having more to say about how the programs should be run.

Byrnes told the President "we have philosophical difficulties with revenue-sharing and are basically opposed to it."

One major opposition to the President's proposal is that it would share the revenues with few or no strings attached, virtually limiting the Federal government's role to that of money-dispenser.

The two House members promised prompt consideration of legislation to raise Social Security benefits 10 percent through additional payroll taxes and to broaden welfare programs.

Revenue-sharing and welfare reform are high on the President's six-point program outlines to Congress last Friday.

Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania said the President wants a hearing and a vote on all six proposals, which Ford said the President considers of equal importance.

The others include reorganization of some Cabinet departments, enhancement of the environment, broader health programs, and full employment.

"Of course, if you want something a little better, it'll cost more than $100 a month each."

Time an Important Factor for Housing Commission

When Vice President Zumwinkle announced the appointment of the new ad hoc advisory commission to study the quality of student residential life, he also expressed some concern over just how much the commission can do in one semester. His concern is well founded considering the complexity of the problems of UK student housing.

Students have long been voicing concern over life in the dormitories, even to the point when in the spring of 1969, freshmen at Haggin Hall staged a molotov-throwing, garbage-burning, riot in the courtyard of their dorm. The head resident at that time dismissed the incident as spring fever, but corridor advisors readily admitted it came out of student frustrations with the lack of open houses for Haggin.

There have been other complaints and incidents over dormitory life but instead of serious investigations, a few new carpets and a ping-pong table or two have been used to appease student concerns. However, one look at other UK housing, including such antiquated buildings as Cooperstown and fraternity row, clearly reflect the deplorable neglect of University officials.

The problems of off-campus housing fall into a somewhat different category. Students who have ventured off into the comical world of Mickey Mouse landlords and their little friends which often reside in the holes under the sink know what that category is—rent. The commission should definitely look into the possibilities of more University-owned houses to rent to students at a reasonable price for what they're getting.

Again, the question of time seem to be the real clincher as to the success of the new commission.

One semester hardly seems enough time to discover the real problems, study national trends in student housing and propose substantial recommendations which could mean financial plans in the millions as well as the progressiveness of student's life-styles for years to come.

It would seem that one of the first steps the commission would take would be to realize their time limit and consider the possibility of extending their existence until the job is done.

There definitely are immediate questions which could be answered. For example, why do freshmen women have hours while freshmen men do not and why has any idea of allowing the two sexes to visit each others rooms been regarded as some form of taboo.

However, these are trivial subjects when compared to the possibilities of ideas the commission could look into. Part of the report announcing the commission stated that proposals, "while aiming toward the ideal, should be developed in a framework of reality and practicality."

Unfortunately this has tones of "don't get too carried away in thinking what we will let you do." The fact is that campuses across the nation are having successful programs of co-ed dormitories as well as co-operative type programs off-campus. The reality of the UK situation however, says that administrators will continue to try and reflect the viewpoints of their generation, rather than the student who must live at the University.

With this commission consisting of about half students and half faculty and staff, it will be interesting to see how far into the future the group will be able to project their ideas.

Academic Program Study

To the Editor of the Kernel:

University students have a unique opportunity to study three areas of the academic program through participation in ad hoc committees which have been established by the University Senate.

The committees, which will consist of both students and faculty, will study the class scheduling and credit system, the grading system, and possible accelerated programs.

The ad hoc committee on class scheduling and the credit system will re-examine the basis for one fifty-minute meeting per week for each credit hour. It is expected to consider alternatives such as seventy-five minute classes a week for three hours credit with fifteen minute breaks between classes. It will also re-examine the semester system which we now have. It will also review the rationale for the number of credit hours currently required for graduation in the various colleges of the University.

The committee on the University grading system is expected to examine a number of alternatives including pass-

The committee on accelerated programs will investigate alternatives which would permit students to pursue their educational programs at their own rates according to their ability and interest.

Although this is only a brief sketch of the areas to be studied by these three committees, it is obvious that student participation on the ad hoc committee is essential.

I would strongly urge any interested student to apply for one of the three committees, especially students who do not have a large number of activities and would be able to devote considerable time and interest to the committee work.

You may indicate that you are interested in serving on one of the three committees by filling out a response sheet in either the Student Government Office (204 Student Center), or University Senate Council Office (Room 10, Administration Building), or by calling the Senate Council (258-5871). You must indicate your willingness to serve no later than January 29.

Housing Policy Reform

To the Editor of the Kernel:

Thursday night, January 21, a group of over 30 students met in the Student Center to begin a course of action to reform the present open house policy for dormitories and Greek houses.

We are basically very dissatisfied with the "policy" as it now stands for the following reasons:

1. It is un-acceptable for the University or any institution to control the personal lives or stifle the private activities of any individual.
2. It is unclear as to who holds the power necessary for change.
3. Present policy seems to be both written and un-written. It is selectively enforced. It is vague, allowing for individual interpretations. Dean Hall and Dean Pond (who apparently have some "say" in the matter) seem to disagree on its interpretation. About all they are consistent in saying is that we have little chance of reaching our goal.
4. The real or perceived policy has improved little, if any, over the past two years.

So, you ask, what is our goal? What do we want? Our final proposals will take shape as we progress and will hopefully be in accord with the wishes of the majority of the University residents—but our basic guiding principle will be "individual freedom."

Specifically, our immediate goal is clarification of a new policy allowing for:

1. Longer and much more frequent "open houses."
2. Abolishment of the present requirement that the dorm governments be responsible for supervision of open houses. We, the students, did not make the rules. We should not have to (and do not have the authority to) enforce them.

Our strategy will be first to thoroughly research the problem with surveys, possibly petitions, and informal discussions with administrators and other organizations. When we get our facts and figures together we will make specific proposals to whomever or whatever holds the power (which should be determined by them).

Interested students should contact Fred Walker, Tim Reitman, Lori Christopher, Graeme Browning, or Carry Neal.

Jefferson County Police Say

Arson Caused Fire at Old Folk's Home

LOUISVILLE (AP) — The fire that resulted in the deaths of ten residents of a retirement home here Jan. 14 was set intentionally, the head of the Jefferson County Police Department's Criminal Investigation section announced Monday.

Maj. Russell McDaniel said the county police arson squad concluded that arson was involved in the blaze at the four-year-old Westminster Terrace Presbyterian Home for Senior Citizens.

No arrests have been made in connection with the fire, which destroyed most of one ground-floor wing in the four-story brick building.

and residents at the home, Johnson said the fire apparently started 30 to 40 minutes before it was discovered by the night nurse — one of two employees on duty at the time.

The detective also said the last resident left the library area five to six hours prior to the time the blaze was discovered and the last employee was there about four hours before that time.

No Heat Detectors

Because there were no heat detectors in the fire area, the building's automatic fire alarm system didn't go off until the nurse, Mrs. Dorothy Turner, started fire - drill procedures from her station in the infirmary on the first floor.

Nine elderly residents died shortly after the fire from smoke inhalation and a tenth, hospitalized as a result of the blaze, died last week of pneumonia.

The facility had 94 residents at the time of the fire, and 51 required hospitalization.

A spokesman for the Kentucky state fire marshal's office said Monday a report on its own investigation should be completed sometime this week.

Cause Undetermined

Detective Vernon Johnson, a member of the arson squad, said investigators still haven't determined what was used to set the fire and whether it was started by someone inside or outside the building.

Johnson said he and other squad members arrived at the conclusion of arson after they ruled out all other ways it could have started.

The greatest indication of arson, Johnson added, was the fact the fire apparently built up quickly to a great intensity with no indications that there was any slow smoldering.

He said the fire apparently started in the library area of the first floor's east wing, which also contained a chapel, lounge and dining area.

Case Against Cigarettes Aided

WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientific evidence accumulated over the past 18 months, particularly in the areas of heart disease and pregnancy, strengthens the medical case against cigarettes, the Public Health Services said Monday.

A bulky, 500-page report by the surgeon general to Congress indicates government doctors are increasingly convinced cigarette smoking causes or contributes to heart and blood vessel disease, lung disabilities, some cancers, disorders of pregnancy, and peptic ulcer.

A tobacco industry spokesman said the report contains much conflicting evidence and accused the surgeon general of slighting studies that cast doubt on links between smoking and diseases.

The report is the latest of four supplements to the surgeon general's 1964 condemnation of cigarette smoking. It compiles the results of all research on smoking and stresses new findings on heart disease and pregnancy.

"Data from numerous prospective and retrospective studies confirm the judgment that cigarette smoking is a significant risk factor contributing to the development of coronary heart disease, including... its most severe expression, sudden and unexpected death," a summary says.

Cigarettes increase the heart's work, evidence shows, and reduces the amount of oxygen available to the organ. The report says also nicotine and carbon monoxide appear also to cause hardening of the heart's arteries.

Heart disease is the nation's No. 1 cause of death. A continuing decline in cigarette smoking, said Surgeon General Jesse L. Steinfeld, "will result in better health for our population and fewer deaths among these of our citizens who are in their most productive years of life."

Steinfeld previewed the report publicly two weeks ago and suggested a ban on cigarette smoking in public places such as restaurants and airplanes.

The report says also recent research extends known links between cigarette smoking and decreased infant birth rate to infant death for the first time.

Government Defends CIA

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration ruled Monday that Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty "are not educational or private voluntary organizations" and an established policy of denying CIA financing to them therefore does not apply.

At the same time the administration-through a State Department spokesman—affirmed its intention to continue the policy which was worked out under the leadership of Nicholas DeB. Katzenbach, then undersecretary of state, after a national blowup over CIA financial payments to student organizations and other groups.

Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., said Saturday that Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty which beam programs into Communist Eastern Europe had spent a total of $34 million in 1969 and that more than $30 million of that had come from the Central Intelligence Agency.

Case called for an end to the secret subsidy and for direct, open financing of the stations through congressional action.

State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey recalled at a news conference Monday that the Katzenbach policy had been laid down in 1967 and covers "the whole question of funding for domestic educational and private voluntary organizations."

"This administration endorses the Katzenbach policy...," McCloskey said. "This administration examined Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty and concluded these are not educational or private voluntary organizations and the Katzenbach policy does not apply."

As to how the stations have actually been funded or what their money supply might be in the future, McCloskey said, "no comment."

Wildcats Defeat Alabama, 86-73; Casey Injured

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP)—Kent Hollenbeck popped in 21 points Monday night and led 12-ranked Kentucky to an 86-73 victory over Alabama, shoving the Wildcats back into the Southeastern Conference basketball lead.

The Wildcats, hitting a sizzling 56 per cent from the floor, broke the game open in the final eight minutes on Alabama turnovers.

Casey Hurt

The victory, however, may have been costly for the defending conference champions, who lost star guard Mike Casey to a badly sprained ankle with about seven minutes left in the game. Casey, an all-conference performer three years ago, missed the entire season last year with a broken leg.

Casey added 17 points before leaving the game, matched by Tom Parker.

Game scoring honors went to the Tide's Alan House, who scored 22 points and grabbed 12 rebounds.

Kentucky had entered the game in a three-way deadlock with Tennessee and Vanderbilt atop the SEC standings.

Kentucky is now 6-1 in the SEC and 12-3 for the year. Alabama dropped to 2-4 in the league and 6-8 for the season.

Tide Starts Slowly

Alabama did not score its first field goal until almost six minutes had elapsed, but the Tide rolled back into contention and led 41-40 at halftime.

The Tide continued to lead until 8:14 remained when Hollenbeck sank a fast break layup to give Kentucky a 68-66 lead. The Wildcats never trailed again.

Casey left the dressing room on crutches as a precautionary measure. Coach Adolph Rupp said the guard would return to Lexington with the squad and have the ankle x-rayed Tuesday.

Alabama hit only 36 per cent of its shots from the field, falling behind by as many as nine points twice early in the first half before finally beginning to click.

All five starters scored in double figures for the Tide, with Bobby Lynch contributing 16 points and Wendell Garner 15 each.

Alabama won the battle of the boards 51-36, with House's 12 leading the Tide. Parker had eight rebounds for Kentucky and Jim Andrews seven.

Rupp Comments

"It was gonna be a hard one. I told you that," said UK Coach Adolph Rupp after the game. "They had that boy hurt and they were fired up."

UK Grabs SEC Lead

Louisiana State's Tigers knocked favored Tennessee out of a tie for the Southeastern Conference basketball lead by beating the Vols 80-70 Monday night.

The Tigers, who hit on 60 per cent of their field shots on the way to a 43-33 first half lead, led by as much as 21 points in the final half. The Vols, ranked eighth nationally, scrambled to within 10 points at the end.

LSU is now 4-2 in SEC competition and 8-5 over all. Tennessee is 12-3 for the season and 5-2 in the conference. The Vols came into the game tied with Kentucky and Vanderbilt for the SEC lead.

Vandy Whips Auburn

Before last night's action, UK, Vanderbilt and Tennessee remained in a three-way tie for the conference lead, after victories Saturday.

Vanderbilt destroyed Auburn with a blitzing 66 points in the second half. The Commodores won, 107-86, despite a 36-point performance by the loser's John Mengelt.

Vandy grabbed the lead at 22-21 and never looked back. It led at the half, 41-35.

Rupp was referring to Wendell Hudson, Alabama's top scorer and rebounder who suffered a broken arm in the Tide's loss to Tennessee Saturday.

Rupp had tremendous praise for Kent Hollenbeck.

"I thought he did a marvelous job," said the Baron. "He got the rally going."

The Baron again had to go to his 1-3-1 defense late in the game. Again it proved to be the savior.

"We went to the 1-3-1 because we were in deep foul trouble. I was afraid all of our boys would foul out."

"Also we weren't putting pressure on them in the man-to-man. Finally we forced them to throw that ball away—I don't know how many times."

Rupp was shocked at all of the fouls that were called. Two UK players, Tom Payne and Larry Steele, fouled out and others finished in foul trouble.

"I think this sets an all-time record," Rupp concluded.

Kent Hollenbeck made several key steals and led UK scorers with 21 points in last night's 86-73 victory over Alabama. The Cats trailed until late in the second half until pulling away for its twelfth victory of the season.

The UK basketball Kittens hit the road along with the varsity for a pair of games against Alabama and LSU and the two proved to be possibly the best games of the year. The Kittens defeated the Alabama frosh, 89-82, Monday night and the LSU Baby Tigers, 109-80, Saturday.

Bama Game Close

The Kittens stayed close to Alabama in the first half of last night's game. The lead changed hands several times until the Kittens went ahead by four, its biggest lead of the game, late in the half.

Guard Ronnie Lyons ended the half by making a 30-footer at the buzzer to send the Kittens into the locker room with a 48-42 lead.

The game up to this point was rough. UK was assessed with three technical fouls in the first half.

The Kittens dominated the opening minutes of the second half. They jumped out to a 10-point lead within 30 seconds.

Their lead grew to 16 points later. A late Alabama rush trimmed the lead to three, but the Kittens built it back to seven at game's end.

Louisvillian Dale Dunn scored 28 to lead Alabama.

UK's Ray Edelman had his second high-scoring game with 36 points. Captain Ronnie Lyons added 16 and played an excellent defensive game. And Rick Drewitz equalled his season high, at Georgia, with 24 points.

Kittens Pull Away

The Kittens went ahead very early against LSU and won by 19, its largest winning margin of the year.

UK lead, 27-11, and the teams played evenly for the rest of the half, which ended with the Kittens ahead, 46-30.

The second half was much like the first. The Kittens managed its biggest lead at 35 points, 101-66.

The frosh were led by Edelman. The Pennsylvanian poured in 33 points.

Ronnie Lyons had 20, Drewitz 17, Wendell Lyons 16 and Frank Lemaster 11.

UK Dean Named President of Education Group

Dr. George W. Denemark, dean of the UK College of Education, has been named president-elect of the American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education (AACTE).

The 49-year-old administrator was elected by official representatives of the association's membership—some 840 institutions of higher education preparing more than 90 per cent of the nation's new teachers.

Dr. Denemark will take over the presidency on March 1, 1972, after serving for a year on the executive committee of the AACTE's board of directors. He already is a member of the board, and has served on numerous committees and participated in many programs of the association. Recently, he served as chairman of the National Commission on Teacher Education and Professional Standards.

During his term as president, Dr. Denemark hopes to encourage "greater involvement of faculty people in the association." He pointed out that in the past participation has mainly been by presidents and deans. One method Dr. Denemark cited to bring about the desired greater involvement of faculty is "a broader basis of representation for the various institutions."

Dr. Denemark sees the current crisis of confidence in higher education as an immediate threat to constructive change.

"I am troubled by the extent to which the public and its legislative representatives are expressing doubt about the effectiveness of higher education and of teacher education which is an important part of it," Dean Denemark said.

"Such doubt is healthy, to the extent that it stimulates reexamination and reflection. But it is potentially disastrous if it deprives us of the resources necessary to make education effective in meeting today's challenges."

However, Dr. Denemark sees no necessity of wooing the public or the state and national representative bodies by presenting a less progressive face.

More Flexibility

"Higher education has been very resistant to change," Dr. Denemark explained. "It must move more toward flexibility while making itself relevant to the changing needs of our society."

Asked his feelings toward teacher participation in student protests, Dean Denemark said, "Everyone has the right to become involved in social action as an individual." Yet he cautioned, "the teacher must recognize the potential consequences of his behavior."

Dr. Denemark also has served as executive secretary of the Association for Supervision and Curriculum Development in Washington, D.C., as chairman of the Coordinating Board of the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education, and as chairman of the teacher education commission of the National Association of State Universities and Land Grant Colleges. He currently is a member of the board of directors of the Joint Council on Economic Education and of the Appalachian Educational Laboratory.

A former dean of the School of Education at the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee, Denemark holds a B.A. degree in sociology and an M.A. degree in social sciences from the University of Chicago. He taught history and sociology at a Thornton, Ill., high school for two years before earning a doctorate in curriculum planning from the University of Illinois.

Warns Foreigners To Stay Away

Army Topples African Leader

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — Army dissidents claimed the overthrow of President Milton Obote Monday, as he was heading home from the Commonwealth summit in Singapore, and warned other governments not to interfere.

A few hours after Radio Uganda announced the takeover, Obote arrived in nearby Nairobi, Kenya, and associates said he had established radio contact with Kampala.

"The army takes over power and warns all foreign countries to keep noses out of Uganda's internal affairs," said the Uganda broadcast. It made the victory claim after 12 hours of fighting with a rival faction of the armed forces in which an undetermined number of persons were reported killed.

The broadcast said the revolt was led by Brig. Gen. Idi Amin, commander of Uganda's armed forces, and William Aryema, inspector-general of police.

Both leaders appealed for calm and urged the people to go back to work Tuesday.

The broadcast said all political prisoners would be set free and promised that elections would be held as soon as possible to choose a civilian government.

Obote, who has run Uganda's government for nine stormy years and survived one assassination attempt, was accused of permitting corruption in his regime, ignoring army demands for better living conditions and giving top government jobs to favored friends.

Obote, 45, became president of Uganda in 1962, ousting former President Sir Edward Mutesa, who was also king of Buganda, richest of the four kingdoms of Uganda.

Obote abolished the kingdoms, presented a new constitution and, a year ago, introduced "the common man's charter," which was described as a move to the left. In May of last year he nationalized 85 firms and the import and export business.

Rumors of Unrest

There have been rumors of unrest in Uganda for at least four months.

About 9.5 million persons live in Uganda, 300,000 of them in Kampala. The country is linked with Kenya and Tanzania in an East African economic community. The army totals less than 6,000 men.

Obote—a Protestant christened Apollo Milton—is the son of a tribal chief in northern Uganda.

He narrowly survived an assassination attempt in 1969 when he was cut down by a bullet as he left a political rally. The same year he was host for the first visit of a pontiff—Pope Paul VI—to black Africa.

A little less than five years ago, on Feb. 24, 1966, another African leader, President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana, was toppled by an army coup while he was out of the country. Nkrumah was visiting Peking at the time and never did get back to Ghana. He now lives in Guinea.

'Sky Above—Mud Below' An Outstanding Documentary

By MIGUEL CUAERA
Kernel Staff Writer

Producing a documentary is a challenge. Producing a good documentary is almost impossible. "The Sky Above—The Mud Below" ("Le Ciel et la Boue") has succeeded both in meeting its objectives as an outstanding documentary as well as excellent film making. This is rare.

Written and directed by Pierre-Dominique Gaisseau, this film was awarded an Oscar for Best Documentary Feature. (I do not question the Academy's decision this time.)

While the world stood in awe awaiting for the results of the lunar explorations in 1959, Pierre-Dominique Gaisseau led a joint French-Dutch expedition to the virgin territories in New Guinea. Over 1,000 miles of some of the world's most primitive terrain served as a background for the seven-month trip. Headhunters, pygmies and cannibals living as they did 7,000 years ago are the leading characters in the film. But Nature is still the main protagonist of the documentary.

"The Mud Below" faithfully narrates this unique expedition. This documentary is a physical ordeal for the explorers as well as the viewers of the film.

As a result of the vivid portrayal of the life of these primitive societies, the French producer has enabled us to share unforgettable moments of this lyrically beautiful and exciting documentary.

The film provides us the opportunity of exploring some societies as they existed thousands of years ago. The ordeal of cruising the rivers and jungles of this unexplored territory leads to the explorers' participation in rituals never before seen by man. At this stage, time seems to disappear. Primitive rites—witchcraft and magic, peace treaties involving mockery of birth, liberation of the spirits of the dead—all make it possible for the viewer to participate in this astonishing drama of beauty and terror.

Gilvert Sarthe's brilliant cinematography makes us even more aware of the producer's awareness and concern in presenting the ordeal of the explorers' journey. Beautiful photography reveals Nature in its dual role as protagonist and threatening landscape.

At times, I would have preferred that William Peacock's narration would not have replaced the original French soundtrack. Much of the dissonance between the visual and aural would have been almost absent. Yet, this is insignificant in comparison to the other outstanding features of the film.
