

CLEARING HOUSE

By The Editor
A black list is mentioned in one of today's editorials. This list will be published in a conspicuous place in the Kernel. We might even encircle the list in black, because it will mean the death of Union rights to those students mentioned therein.

Financial Statement
In answer to R. G.'s inquiry of last issue concerning the financial statement of the Union which was published, we have received word that the list will be completed in time for Tuesday's issue. A few of the habitual gripers continue to assert that the Union is "draining up." We happen to know better, and will prove it in Tuesday's paper. In addition to appearing in the financial statement should also give every student a clearer idea of the "workings" of the Union.

Why Not Prof?
Wonder if we are too idealistic in wishing that professors would also write in to Clearing House. It happens on some campuses. In some places, the profs take that keeps them mentally alert. If a student writes in about the prof's practices, or if the prof returns with some unfair practices of students. Of course, for this to be effective, one must get away from the "letter-to-the-editor" idea where the writer is usually complaining. The column is more of an open forum containing discussions and ideas rather than personal peeves. Although the latter are sometimes entirely justified and also interesting.

I Think
What do I think? Well, I think that the dance was good because I had a good time. The orchestra was first-rate. And in addition to this, I thought the evening was much shorter and better than in any previous year, although they always take up a great deal of time. Although the operating system was unsatisfactory that night, it is one of the things that we are doing everything possible to improve it. As for ventilation, I agree that it is not well in order to install a regular cooling system. Personally, I don't like the idea of having a regular cooling system, but one of the arguments advanced by those who recommend the idea is that it will "rub elbows" with everyone. The purpose of an organization in giving a dance is to give the members a chance to meet and to give them a chance to do something that they don't like to do. You didn't like the dance, you're kidding. I liked it. I'm satisfied. It doesn't make much difference what we think; it's what the majority of students think—and I don't know that.

Blaise Crazy
Looks like everyone is dance crazy. Here's another one: "Just who is there a University ruling against making a costume affair of the Sadie Hawkins dance?" At other colleges where the day has been observed, costumes were not only permitted but actually made compulsory. Surely there is nothing objectionable about wearing costumes and caps and gingham dresses. Actually, they would be nothing objectionable if they could easily serve to make it the outstanding social event of the year.—J. C.

You Think
Sirs: In last Tuesday's Kernel, I noticed several remarks concerning the excellence of the Military Band. I'm glad to hear that. To me, the Military Band is a college dance which I can see nothing objectionable about. It was a complete failure. I grant you that the ceremonial part of the evening was poor, but the orchestra was poor. The band was excellent. I should think that at least a better orchestra could be obtained. Let's figure: $1.50 per ticket times an estimated 600 tickets equals 900.00. What do you think? I'm optimistic.—Anonymous.

The Objection
The objection is that the last few dances held here in costume were nothing but brawls. However, we believe with the atmosphere of the University, it is inevitable that there will be some brawls. The House Committee, this condition could be eliminated entirely. The letter suggests that what with all the queers on the campus, couldn't a Sadie Hawkins day King be selected... what is to happen to the men if all girls go stag? The Kernel is on the look-out for a columnist for writing letters with a good gossip... also for staff photographers... what about the guest editorial idea... the editor has been asked to write one, but no students... Tut... and so to press at 10 o'clock.

ROGERS TO SPEAK
James E. Rogers, director of physical education service of the National Recreation Association will speak at a luncheon on the honor to be held at 12:30 p. m. Wednesday, March 8, in the Union. Prof. M. E. Fetter, head of the department of physical education, said yesterday.

Frosh Says He Made Leap So Actives Wouldn't See Him

Graville de Roope, a pledge of Kappa Alpha fraternity, received a severe ankle injury from a twenty-foot jump off the Union Station viaduct during Hel Week activities shortly after midnight Tuesday.

De Roope, an Arts and Sciences freshman, said that he was participating in a "cat hunt" as a part of his fraternity's Hel Week for pledges, and that he jumped from the viaduct to avoid being seen by active of the chapter. He landed on the sidewalk.

The injury was treated and an X-ray examination made Wednesday by Dr. J. S. Chambers of the dispensary. Dr. Chambers could not be reached last night for comment as to the extent and exact nature of de Roope's injuries.

Late yesterday de Roope, who is recovering at the Kappa Alpha house, was still under a physician's care. He is walking on crutches.

When questioned by a Kernel reporter yesterday, Dean of Men T. T. Jones said that he had seen de Roope and that for the first time both students and instructors were concerned that the fraternity initiation practices were detrimental to class preparation.

Ireland has been chosen for the subject of a three-week series of lectures, round-tables and exhibits by Pan Politikon, Barbara MacVey, general chairman of the study group said yesterday. The program is scheduled from March 13 to 21.

Designed to give students an impression of the picture of a foreign country about which little is known and to increase international contact, Pan Politikon speakers from Ireland and three other lecturers will speak on related phases of life in Ireland during the series, and an exhibit of posters, books and magazines concerning the country will be on display in the library.

Dr. J. Huntley Dupre, associate professor of history, will conduct a discussion on "Modern Ireland" in the "Behind the Headlines" program over WHAS at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday, March 8 in connection with the program. Prof. Elery Hall, assistant professor of history and Mark Hayes, member of the Pan Politikon committee, will participate in the discussion.

Members of the executive committee appointed by President Frank L. McVey are: Barbara MacVey, chairman; Anna Jane McChesney, secretary; Polly Holcomb, publicity; Gordon Bugie, and Mark Harris.

Lampert Presents Musical Debate

In an effort to contrast the emotional stimulus of modern jazz with the intellectual pleasure afforded by classical compositions, Professor Carl Lampert of the music department presented a musical "debate" between the two types last night at the Union.

The first part of the program consisted of familiar selections including Gerwyn's "Thapsosy in Blue," recordings of Beethoven's "Symphony No. 40" and "Mozart's Quartet in F Major"; Handy's "St. Louis Blues"; a Negro spiritual, "Wee! Wee!"; Duke Ellington's "Mood Indigo"; and the fourth movement of Tchaikovsky's "Patriotic Symphony."

The program was concluded with a discussion on the predominant trends in modern music.

The paintings include portrait sketches and works in still life. Many are of children from the University nursery school last year. There is one painting of Dean Sarah Blandinger.

Mrs. Rannels is a graduate of Wells College, and was a student of the student chapter of the Art Student's League, New York. Later she studied painting under Vincent DaNond in Chicago and was assistant curator of Oriental art at the Art Institute of Chicago.

Since coming to Lexington last year, she has renewed her interest in painting and is largely self-taught. Her work has been carried beyond the stage of brisk sketches. This is because she is unable to paint for long periods at a time due to household duties and three children.

A luncheon from 4 to 4 p. m. Sunday will open the exhibit. Faculty, students and interested persons are invited to attend. The exhibit is open to the public from 10 to 11 a. m. and 2 to 4 p. m. Monday through Friday.

Miss Leads

During the first half and the opening minutes of the final half it looked as though Mississippi, totally crushed in title talk, might rock the tournament with an upset. Up to that stage the lead had changed hands eight times with the score being knotted four different times. Kentucky's attack opened the game clicking on all five but after the first five minutes faded like a house of cards before Mississippi's fast breaking drive.

Dean Blanding Elected President

The University of Kentucky looks with pride upon any of its students, faculty, or staff members who prove their superior ability in various fields. Last week in Cleveland, Ohio, a Kentucky alumna, Miss Sarah G. Blanding, distinguished the University and herself when she was elected to a two-year term as president of the National Association of Deans of Women.

Since becoming Dean of Women fifteen years ago, Miss Blanding has constantly worked to represent the interests of women students to the best advantage and to champion their rights of self-government. As a representative in the Alliance for Guidance of Rural Youth, she has been closely associated with the problems of American youth.

It has been said that true greatness is often found among those persons who are close to us—those persons who never lose their common touch with men and women. So it is with Miss Blanding. The University is fortunate to have as its Dean of Women a woman whose ability as a leader and counsellor of youth has been truly recognized with this honor.—L. L. J.

Could It Be Our Own Fault?

Sometimes we get mighty vexed at the "ad ministration" because we don't have more student government on the campus. Then we get to thinking and wondering if it isn't in part the fault of the students who have never demanded more self-government; and who, when they have received a small degree of authority, have evaded responsibility or for the most part done a poor job.

Take the case of the Union house committee. Organized soon after the opening of the Union, this committee is composed of a large group of students, some good, but many of them mere "point-seekers." This latter group attends a few meetings, place "Union House Committee" in bold letters on their activity cards, sit clam-like at the meetings they do grace, or vociferously claim that "something ought to be done." Their suggestions never go further than this, and their actions when in a position demanding some degree of responsibility are even less praiseworthy.

This committee, in short, is supposed to see that students "behave themselves" while in the Union, to oversee the dances, guard against drinking in the building, smoking in the ballroom, gambling, and to act as a guide to visitors and new students.

Although dances have been well-conducted, the committee has failed utterly in controlling gambling, mainly because no adequate form of punishment has been instituted. The committee realizes this now, and is prepared to take definite action against the rule-breakers. A black list of all offenders will first be published in THE KERNEL. At second offense, all Union rights, including dances, will be denied to these individuals or the names will be brought to the attention of the Dean of Men.

It is unfortunate that it has taken this long for the committee to function properly, but the dead weight of the do-nothing group has retarded the activity of the entire committee.

Other student "governing" bodies might also do well to eliminate worthless material and take more definite actions. After all, a good job of the present meager self-government will furnish the strongest argument for an increase in our powers.

Why Not Use The Ladder?

CAMPUSCENE

- Campuscene Tells
- Why 'Hell Week'
- Lingers On

By JIM CALDWELL

About this time every year the campus becomes filled with bedraggled-looking individuals who walk around with the look of martyrs on their faces and perform antics which make them seem as queer as a seven-dollar bill. Spectators, however, sympathetically understand that these poor souls are not the maniacs they seem to be, but merely victims of an annual ritual of torture known as "hell week."

Synonymous with this yearly interlude of Greekomania is the accompanying campaign of reformers to put an end to the folly. This year is no exception, and loud are the pleas for a cessation of hostilities.

These pleas are unheard—drowned out by the resounding whacks of oaken paddles upon vulnerable freshmen posterior. Instead of safe and sane initiations coming to the fore, we find that the whim-session carries on. And we wonder why.

Hit 'Em When They Ain't Lookin'
In the following paragraphs I shall attempt to show just why these "hell weeks" continue to thrive. I shall neither attack nor defend them; everything that could be said about them, pro or con, has long since been said. Therefore I shall concentrate on the why rather than the yea or nay.

"Hell week" survives for one thing, because opposition—however strong it may be—is ill-timed. Reformers wait until the season of the activity itself before they act. By then "hell weeks" are already under way or at least thoroughly planned; and it is too late to stop them. This has exactly the same effect as "locking the barn door after the horse is stolen."

If reformers would bring about this prohibition, let them not wait until the arrival of the week itself to act, but concentrate their efforts in the early fall, when March is far away and active hearts are tender. Once a fraternity member is allowed to contract a case of paddle fever, he is a pretty hard person to convert.

What's Sauce For The, Etc.
Another—and principle—reason for the longevity of the custom is the fact that it constitutes a sort of vicious cycle. That cycle runs something like this: a freshman goes through "hell week" and is initiated; he becomes a sophomore and a new crop of freshmen is their fellowmen; hence paddling and "hell week."

This too causes college men to seem puzzled, and so they will deny it. Nevertheless it is true, and the first week of March never fails to bring out the little boy that remains in even the most sophisticated of them.

This does "hell week," despite protests, live on, torturing bewildered freshmen and causing them to resolve to do a little torturing themselves at a future date when they no longer will be bewildered.

THE SATURDAY EVENING POST

Calling 'Em Wild

By JOE CREASON

Let me list for you some of my best predictions: Custer over the Indians, Goliath over David and Mountain Ridge in the last Kentucky Derby. Now I'm stringing along with Kentucky over the field in the Southeastern basketball tournament.

By the time you read this the Wildcats may have fared from the tourney like a drop of water on a hot grill—in that case let's drop the subject. Kentucky was slated to go to bat last night in their initial start against the winner of the Mississippi-Georgia Tech game.

There are four distinct reasons why I believe it will be Kentucky wearing the crown for the fourth time since 1931: (1) Lady Luck smiled on the Cats by receiving a berth in the lower bracket, which is probably composed of weaker teams than the upper division.

(2) Kentucky simply has the best team in the league as shown by their recent wins over Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi State and Vanderbilt. (3) I believe the team is composed of "money" players; that is they play best under pressure, an ideal team for tournament play, and finally, (4) I'm so impressed in my sentiment that I'd probably be for them anyway.

At present the experts are scratching their heads and trying to recall a tournament when the teams were more evenly matched. A consensus among the coaches rate seven teams with chances for entering the winners circle, in order: Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama, Vanderbilt, Georgia, I. S. U. and Mississippi State. Of these teams, only Georgia and I. S. U. are in Kentucky's chances for the title have been ridiculed because the tournament is being held away from home. The wise guys point out that the Wildcats are definitely a home-floor team and three of their four losses this season have been on foreign hard-wood. But remember these defeats were suffered while the Cats were practically rooted in a slump. All that stuff is forgotten and right now the Cats' spirits are higher than a still-walker in a top hat.

SWIMMING TEAM DEFEATS DE PAUW

Placing winners in seven of the nine events, Kentucky's "orphan" swimming team, undefeated in five meets this season, stroked to a decisive 51-33 win over DePauw university Wednesday night in Greencastle, Indiana.

The meet was the first stop on a short Northern tour for the Wildcat swim team. In the concluding start of the trip, Kentucky will take the water against Loyola university Saturday night in Chicago. A meeting with Butler university looked for last night in Indianapolis was cancelled.

Kentucky's powerful 300-yard medley relay team of Jim Scott, Sherman Hinklebein and Lloyd Rhamer, unbeaten in four seasons of competition, led the Cats in their win over DePauw by covering the route in 2:24.7 seconds. This time was still three seconds short of the 2:21.7 set by the team at the conclusion of the Southeastern Conference race at the distance.

In the 440 yard free style, Leslie of DePauw churned out a new pool record of 3:48. Kentucky took both first and second places in the 100 yard free style, 100-yard free style and the 150 yard backstroke. Other Kentucky firsts came in the 440 yard relay, diving, and 200-yard breast stroke. The team members will be guests at a luncheon given by the Kentucky Alumni Club of Chicago at noon tomorrow. Members of the club plan to be on hand to see the Cats in action against Loyola.

Ag Student Obtains Dairy Exhibit Job At New York Fair

Harry Ward Hill, Louisville, junior in the College of Agriculture, has been selected as assistant caretaker in the dairy demonstration at the New York State Fair this summer and fall.

Specializing in dairying, Hill is recommended for the position by Dean Thomas P. Cooper and Prof. Purdy E. of the dairy department. At present Hill is acting as a cow tester for the Dairy Herd Improvement Association in Caldwell and Todd counties. He has an average scholastic standing of 2.5.

The dairy demonstration will be performed at a rotating schedule of large enough to accommodate 150 selected Arshshire, Brown-Swiss, Guernsey, Holstein, and Jersey cows. These cows will be milked behind glass windows for the benefit of visitors at the fair.

Rash Appointed

James Randolph Rash Jr., Henderson, Ky., graduate student in agriculture, has been appointed by Dr. Frank L. McVey as a member of the Men's Student Council to represent the Graduate School. Rash fills the vacancy left by William C. Jones, graduate student, who did not return to school this semester.

Cats passing out in the first cut by a 38-26 score. With 8 successive wins under their belts this year's crop of Cats are hotter on the trail of the loop title than a pack of bloodhounds after a jail breaker.

Meanwhile, several million dimes are predicting their sons will grow up to be President, and one of them is right. No hand-nogon may not be playing such a sour tune after all.

I don't know how the team feels, but I'm as nervous as a hand-carried jitterbug.

SUN BRINGS OUT CAT CINDER TEAM

With the advent of warm weather this week, track practice started in earnest with approximately 20 candidates for berths on the Kentucky varsity squad working out on the Stoll Field oval.

At a meeting of candidates yesterday afternoon Coach Joe Rupert said that an increase in appropriate lions would make it possible for the team to compete in meets all over the country if the caliber of the team warranted a wide range of participation.

Those now working out are Joe Hammond, Ben Williams, Gerald Pfiffel, Don Doyle, Paul Durbin, W. J. Leonard, Cecil Lanier, Harry Gorman, Roy Batterson, Walter Thompson, Ben Haskell and Bob Rankin.

Elmo Head and Keith Forsberg are expected to report for practice at the conclusion of the Southern Conference basketball tournament, while Carl Combs, Phil Scott, Larry Spears, Bernard Johnson, and Bill McCubbin will start working out when spring football practice is scheduled.

Dual meets have been conducted with Vanderbilt, Berea, Hanover, Cincinnati, and Tennessee. Plans for competing in several open and invitational meets will be made later in the season, after the team has been rounded into shape.

Scientists Will Hear Dr. Henry A. Carey

Carey, Egyptologist, speaking before a meeting of the Kentucky Archaeological Society at 7:30 p. m. today in the ballroom of the Phoenix hotel. Lantern slides showing both ancient and contemporary architecture of Egypt will illustrate the address which is open to the public.

Donald Dies . . . Grave Is Robbed . . . Robber Sought . . .

Theta's most dreaded of all vandals, have invaded the University campus! The victim was "Donald," a deceased duck which in better days had belonged to a pledge of Phi Delta Theta who has been enduring "Hell Week."

Required to possess a duck to be his companion on a "hike" into the country, the pledge grew negligent and the web-footed creature passed away. Funeral services were held for "Donald" Wednesday night, midst untold grief and mourning.

Sometime during the night the grave was entered, the body pilfered and a note of thanks left behind.

A search is being carried on for the performers of the ghastly deed. Questioned as to the identity of the guilty parties, lodge members replied, "We are not sure, but we have our suspicions."

FENCERS SLATE MEET SATURDAY

In its first home meet of the season, the Kentucky fencing team, rated as one of the Mid-west's best units, defeated the touring Wildcats by a margin of 10-7. Leading the Aviators is Richardson, ace foil-and-saber man, who met his first defeat of the year at the blades of Scott Brockenridge and John L. Jones. Possibly the strongest performer on the team is Harrigan, the epee champion of the Mid-west and undefeated this season.

The Cats were nipped by a 10-7 score in their final start by the University of Cincinnati Saturday. The first intercollegiate home meet of the season will be held in Alumni Gym March 25 when Cincinnati will be met in a return engagement. The Kentucky foil team will include Scott Brockenridge, W. S. Riley and John L. Jones. The epee team will be Norman White and Ralph Hammerley, while the saber fighters will probably be Cliff Bailey, Frank Clark and Dick Boundrant.
